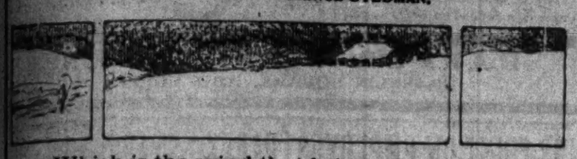
WHAT THE WINDS BRING.

BY EDMUND CLARENCE STEDMAN.



Which is the wind that brings the cold?
The north wind, Freddie; and all the snow;
And the sheep will scamper into the fold
When the north begins to blow.

Which is the wind that brings the heat?
The south wind, Katy; and corn will grow,
And peaches redden for you to eat,
When the south begins to blow.

Which is the wind that brings the rain?
The east wind, Arty; and farmers know
That cows come shivering up the lane
When the east begins to blow.

Which is the wind that brings the flowers?
The west wind, Bessy; and soft and low
The birdies sing in the summer hours
When the west begins to blow.

DID STEEL TRUST WRECK THE SOO?

MAY BUY IN PROPERTY.

Foreclosure on $117,000,000 Company for $5,050,000 Debt Will Be Fought by the Smaller Stockholders.

New York, Sept. 21.—[Special.]—Has the United States Steel corporation, by clever manipulation, accomplished the destruction of its one dangerous rival? Many of the stockholders in the Consolidated Lake Superior company, which has become a hopeless wreck, say "yes," and they quote much evidence to bear out this assertion.

The properties and assets of this $117,000,000 corporation, whose object was to develop the Sault Ste. Marie section, its water power, its mineral deposits, and the host of kindred industries, are to be sold under the hammer because of inability of the company to meet an indebtedness of $5,050,000 now long overdue.

Many Investors Hard Hit.

Greater than the disaster which has overcome the 3,500 employés of the company by the shutting down of its many industries pending attempts to settle its financial difficulties, is the loss to thousands of investors throughout this country and Canada, many of whom have put the savings of a lifetime into the stock.

Of these many do not mince words in laying the blame for all their troubles on the United States steel corporation. They say the vast resources of the steel trust were brought into play to wreck the new company and that money, influence, and questionable methods have accomplished their purpose.

Efforts to Raise Money Fail.

Since disaster first threatened the Consolidated the efforts of many of the most able financiers in this city have been devoted to an attempt to get it on its feet again, but all in vain. When it seemed certain the needed money was in sight some mysterious influence intervened and all was in the air again. Reorganization several times was believed accomplished when one or two of the men promising aid backed out, making the scheme impossible.

Will Steel Corporation Buy?

Now, it is said, that at the auction sale the United States Steel corporation will be on hand with the millions necessary to secure the property and with so little opposition that the trust will be certain of a bargain and will have made itself stronger than ever.

Even Francis H. Clerque, the original promoter of the "Soo" enterprises, now is accused of working in the interests of the steel corporation, and his sudden appearance at the "Soo" is construed by many to confirm this idea.

What the Victor Gains.

The immediate advantage of the securing of the Consolidated by the trust would be the gaining of control of the Canadian markets. Just at present the Grand Trunk and Canadian Pacific are heavy buyers of steel rails. With the preferential tariff the American mills of the steel trust cannot compete with rails made on the Canadian side. Therefore it is important for the trust to have mills across the border.

The foreclosure under the debt due Speyer & Co. in this city will not be unopposed.

May Put Up a Fight.

Many of the stockholders have joined interests and they promise to fight to a finish before they allow the property to go for what they deem only a small part of its real value.

The Consolidated Lake Superior company, which in its first form was organized in 1897, has an authorized capitalization of $117,000,000, of which $18,000,000 is preferred stock. Its financial embarrassment began in December last, owing to extensive operations and payments for the completion of improvements in its subsidiary properties. The Consolidated company owned about fifteen properties of various kinds in and about Sault Ste. Marie on both the Canadian and American sides. Its directors include E. J. Berwind, S. M. Provost, Samuel Rea, who also are directors in the Pennsylvania railroad. The stock of the company is widely distributed, but the bulk is held in Philadelphia, where enormous losses have been suffered and where the preferred stock sold at one time over 70 and the common over 30. The corresponding prices in Philadelphia today were 5½ for the preferred and 50 cents a share for the common stock.

Directors Give Up Struggle.

The directors of the Consolidated met in the office of E. J. Berwind in this city today, and after a long session failed to find a plan by which the corporation could be saved from sale under the terms of the collateral note of $5,050,000 given by it to the syndicate headed by Speyer & Co. After the meeting Assistant Secretary E. H. Sanborn made this statement:

"We have failed in our efforts to raise money for the preservation of the company's assets and it is for Speyer & Co. to determine the future of the Consolidated Lake Superior company. We have no hope now of retaining an interest in the property unless the Speyer & Co. syndicate gives us a chance to participate in the sale which will follow. The loan fell due three months ago. It is only right to say that Speyer & Co. extended payment from that time on and put no pressure on us for the money. The company of course will continue to exist, although it has no assets. All securities of the subsidiary companies have been pledged with Speyer & Co. for the loan which they made."

Hint of Conspiracy.

Mr. Sanborn was asked if there was any truth in the story circulated in Wall street and Canada that interests antagonistic to the Consolidated Lake Superior company had worked to prevent its securing money. He answered:

"Whether outside antagonistic interests prevented our raising the money is a matter of opinion, and I would not be warranted in expressing one. In short, the whole matter is we were unable to repay the loan."

The sale of the company's assets, Mr. Sanborn added, would, beside the Speyer syndicate loan of $5,050,000, be subject to a further indebtedness consisting of $3,500,000 Michigan Lake Superior Power company bonds, $600,000 street railway and ferry bonds, $100,000 Tagona light bonds, $300,000 town debentures of Sault Ste. Marie, and other credit claims, making a total of between $10,000,000 and $11,000,000.

CASH: HALF A BARREL

Zion City Faithful Pour Their Money at Dr. Dowie's Feet.

SAYS FAITH PAYS 8 PER CENT

Fund Raised Will Be Used in Coming Invasion of New York.

With a twenty foot map of New York on the wall behind him and standing beside a red, white and blue contribution barrel, John Alexander Dowie exhorted 5,000 of his followers last night to support his approaching invasion of Gotham. When the meeting was over the barrel was half filled with money. So large was the amount given that no attempt was made to count it until today.

The scene that followed Dowie's exhortation was remarkable. Stepping to the edge of the platform the general overseer of Zion demanded:

"Are you ready to give?"

"Yes," was shouted back.

"Freely?" he asked.

"Yes."

"Cheerfully?"

"Yes."

Pour Thousands Into Barrel.

Then with Elder Speicher on one side and Elder Lee, recorder of the host, on the other, a line was formed to the contribution barrel. As the crowd advanced Dowie announced that he had given $500, Elder Speicher $325, and others already over $1,000. Blanks were given on which those who had no money could make pledges.

All sorts of gifts were given—horns, guitars, and even dolls by the children. One man pledged his horse and buggy.

Cash contributors, headed by over a hundred children, dropped money into the barrel until practically all present had made an offering. As each dropped his money with his left hand, Dowie, standing on the right, shook the other.

Many members of the passing throng of givers were either halt, or lame, or blind, but from each the "prophet" received something to swell the invasion fund.

City Empty, Tabernacle Filled.

The streets and homes of Zion City were emptied and Shiloh tabernacle filled when at 8 o'clock Elijah II. rose to deliver an address both eminently so practical in theory and spiritual in setting that his great congregation was taken by storm.

"Both as a spiritual leader and as a financial adviser," he said, "I can heartily call on all true members of Zion to lend fullest support to the approaching crusade. Not as a sacrifice offering of thanksgiving only do I seek your most generous support tonight, but I assure you as our cause gains in strength the gain is directly reflected in our increase in material as well as spiritual prosperity.

"I want no half hearted support and you will give none. I want no one with one foot in Zion and one in some outside speculation. I want all to invest and give all in and to Zion as I have done. I have never yet given unsound financial advice [here loud assent], and the more you give to further our cause the more your property and investment are worth.

Calls Zion a Paying Investment.

"Outside you get 5 per cent on an investment. Our stock pays 8 per cent and will pay 12 in two years. It could be sold outside at higher prices, but I won't sell it there. By giving freely tonight you should finally only increase our great prosperity of the past. My part is only 5 per cent, but it is with you and for you all.

"I have never been troubled by the financial end of my work. The ecclesiastical part has bothered me more. Only recently one of our trusted men has been convicted of stealing, but the wicked shall be weeded out.

"A thousand shall go from among you to New York, and 2,000 from elsewhere. We shall go to win—and we shall conquer New York. It is your task to show us tonight that we can conquer."

Then came his call for funds and the response of his people.

DIES AS CROWD PRAYS

POLICE SEEK A TRAINMAN.

James Shaughnessy May Have Been Pushed Under Cars.

At this command from the lips of Father Madden of St. Gabriel's Roman Catholic church 250 persons of many creeds and many races fell on their knees in the network of railroad tracks at Forty-fifth street and Stewart avenue at 6:30 o'clock last night and prayed for Thomas Shaughnessy, over whose mangled form the priest was bending.

The man died as they prayed. In the reverent assemblage were Jews, Protestants, Roman Catholics, and men without a creed. Irishmen, Italians, Poles, Americans, and negroes stood side by side with bowed heads.

Dies as Priest Prays.

The injured man, with both legs and one arm crushed by the car wheels, faintly moaned a few of the syllables after Father Madden, but soon lapsed into unconsciousness, passing without further pain to death.

Could he have spoken the police of the Stockyards station believed last night that he would have told a story of murderous attack.

Boys of the neighborhood who were questioned by the policemen declare that Shaughnessy and a trainman were scuffling by the side of a freight train a moment before the former went under the wheels. Circumstantial evidence was added by the discovery of the cap of a trainman a few feet away from Shaughnessy's body. The wheels had run over the cap, obliterating its number, but railroad men recognized it as one of the kind worn by Wabash trainmen.

Dispute May Be Cause of Death.

A dispute over the blockade of the crossing by a freight train was the cause of the seeming quarrel the police believe. The inference is drawn from the fact that Shaughnessy, who evidently was on his way from his place of employment, the storage house of the Hartman Furniture Moving company, to his boarding place, 535 West Forty-fifth street, had passed the crossing gates, and was in the middle of the sixteen tracks used solely by the Wabash road. According to the statements of persons living in the vicinity the freight train had been blocking the track for many minutes.

Shaughnessy is said to have started across the tracks nearly five minutes before he was fatally injured. The boys who told of the fight said he stood for some time waiting for the train to move. When next they looked they said he was scuffling with a brakeman. Suddenly the train started, Shaughnessy seemed to slip under one of the cars, while the other man, they said, swung aboard the train.

The engine number was caught by the boys as it went by. They asserted to the police that it was 504. The train was said to be the regular evening freight from Chandler, inbound. Acting on this information, notice was sent last night to the office of the Wabash road to have the entire crew of the train at the inquest at 10 o'clock today at McInerney's undertaking establishment, Forty-sixth place and Wallace street.

Switchman Killed by a Train.

The body of J. J. Gillen, a switchman employed by the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne and Chicago railroad, was found beneath the Van Buren street viaduct at midnight, with the head and right arm severed. It is believed he was struck by a train. Gillen formerly resided in South Chicago.

MURDER REDUCED TO AN ART

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]
[Copyright: 1903: By the New York Herald.]

MOSCOW, Sept. 21.—Three men high in Moscow social and business circles have confessed to one of the strangest murders known to the annals of crime.

They killed Martin Tomasheffsky, a wealthy land owner, by injecting poison from a hyperdermic syringe under the skin of his temple, packed the body in a wicker trunk, and sent it to the railway station. It remained there as unclaimed baggage until the crime was discovered. The methods used in the murder would never have been known but for the confession of the perpetrators.

Tomasheffsky had no occupation and resided at a hotel. He was passionately fond of card playing, and visited his club almost every night, where he played for heavy stakes and was as a rule fortunate.

Lured to His Death.

On the day of the murder his cousin called at the hotel and asked him to come to his mother's house to play cards with two other friends of the family.

At a signal he was seized, his mouth covered so that he could not cry for assistance, and the poison was injected under the skin of the forehead. The three men then watched the effects of the poison for half an hour, at the same time taking the money from his pocket, which they divided among themselves.

Make Their Crime Sure.

They then placed the body in a wicker trunk. One of the men tied a piece of cord tightly around the murdered man's throat to make sure there could be no further trouble with their victim.

The perpetrators of the crime were confident that their social position would prevent any suspicion falling on them. It was only after a strong chain of evidence had been completed that they admitted their guilt.

TWO THOUSAND MILE RIDE TEST FOR A CAVALRY MAN.

Soldier Reaches West Point Thirty-nine Days After Leaving Oklahoma—Whole Trip on Horseback.

Newburgh, N. Y., Sept. 21.—[Special.]—A young man who had come 2,000 miles on horseback arrived here last night. He is William Davis, member of the Eighth United States cavalry, and has been traveling across the country on a test ride. The government is making a number of test rides.

Davis and eleven other members of the Eighth cavalry left Oklahoma thirty-nine days ago, bound for West Point. They had relays of horses every thirty miles. They were allowed to eat and sleep when they liked, the object being only to see how quickly they could reach West Point. Of the twelve Davis was the first to reach his destination.

Davis is lighter than the others who are making the trip, and when he started out he went with a rush. The result was that he led all the way, and at each place he had his pick of the horses, so this helped him. He reached New York City at 11:20 o'clock Saturday night, and started for West Point yesterday. Just before he reached Garrison his horse gave out, and when he reached there the ferry had stopped running. He reported by signal to West Point.

When he started Davis weighed 157 pounds, and last night his weight was 108 pounds. He is tired, but happy, and thinks he has broken the record. The government aims to test the stamina of man and horse in the long ride, which is said to be a suggestion of the new chief of staff.

YATES DECLARES HE IS TO RUN AT DUTY'S CALL

Demand of His Fellow Citizens, Says the Executive, Compels Him to Seek a Renomination.

DOES NOT LOVE OFFICE.

Statement Is Made in Home County Convention, Although Fifty-one Delegates Refuse an Indorsement.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Jacksonville, Ill., Sept. 21.—[Special.]—Gov. Richard Yates came out as a candidate for renomination today. It was not, he explained, because he wanted the job again, but because he felt it was his duty to his fellow citizens of Illinois. Also because of the encouragement given him by the republican convention of his fellow citizens of Morgan county, whom he was addressing. Then 51 of the 175 of the last named fellow citizens proceeded still further to "encourage" him by voting against a resolution asking him to be a candidate.

But the governor and his friends ignored all this, even the refusal of the recalcitrant fifty-one to make the resolution unanimous after it had been passed on roll call, and the flag of Richard Yates is flying in Jacksonville tonight as the candidate of the republicans of Morgan county for another term as governor of Illinois.

Personal Duty, Not Ambition.

Furthermore, it is thought that Yates probably will have ten delegates to the state convention, unless a long time is to intervene before they are chosen and instructed. Some other Morgan county man may think he wants a place on the state ticket, as treasurer, for example, and then there might be trouble in putting up a delegation to strive for the renomination on the grounds of public duty, not personal ambition.

The governor argues that the position he now holds means a sacrifice of health, money, and comfort. "But," said he, "in spite of all this, there is a conscientiousness about it; an inspiration about it, and, I repeat, every man must offer himself for the public service, and I am glad you encourage me to go at it again."

"He seems to think Illinois cannot get along without him," remarked one of those present, with irony.

The convention was called simply to nominate a candidate for county commissioner. It selected no delegates to the next state convention, but the governor seized on the occasion to launch his campaign from his own county, as he did in 1900, so resolutions were prepared, which, after giving four lines of praise of the administration of President Roosevelt, went into extravagant laudation of that of Richard Yates.

Proud of Fellow Citizen.

"We are proud," said they, "of the record made by our worthy Morgan county fellow citizen, Richard Yates, in the discharge of his duties as governor of the State of Illinois."

Then, as reason for that pride, the resolutions asserted that the governor had repressed lynchings and mob rule, had abolished the convict labor law, had striven for a state civil service law, had enforced economy and good service in all branches of the state government, and hence, "in spite of the malignings of an unrepublican press, the republicans of Morgan county have confidence in the continued success of his administration and emphatically declare in favor of his renomination."

Minority Offers Resolutions.

Hardly had J. H. Danskin, chairman of the committee on resolutions, completed the reading of its report, when Charles Rannells arose with a minority report that consisted of the usual words of praise for the national administration, Senators Cullom and Hopkins, the Illinois republican delegates in congress, and ended:

"We heartily indorse the present safe and wise republican administration of state affairs, and indorse the official acts of our honored townsman, Gov. Richard Yates."

There was not a word in it even hinting at "emphatically declaring in favor of his renomination."

Then the fun began. The Yates supporters declared that the minority report was a slap at an honored fellow citizen of Morgan county and should be resented. They as much as declared that the men who were opposed to the governor were not republicans, using the argument that the state administration is the republican party, the governor is the state administration, and the man who is opposed to the governor is a traitor to the party.

In reply, these opponents asserted that this was not a convention to act on state matters or attempt to decide a gubernatorial question. It was called to nominate a candidate for county commissioner, and all this was outside of the convention and was likely to jeopardize his chances of election.

Opposed to Any Indorsement.

Furthermore, the anti-Yates men said, it was not right, by indorsing the governor for renomination so far in advance, to shut the door in the face of any other republican of Morgan county who might aspire to a place on the next state ticket.

On roll call the majority report was carried by 124 votes to 51.

There are 142 state officeholders accredited to this county, including four of the best in the whole list, but the governor did not get as many votes as he has Morgan county people on the state pay rolls. When the usual motion came to make the first vote unanimous the fifty-one refused and the record stands as it was made originally.

Standing on Sacred Ground.

Tears stood in the governor's eyes when he made his speech. He spoke of having recently stood on holy ground at Greenville when he unveiled the soldiers' monument at Quincy when he attended the gathering of the Methodist ministers, and half an hour before "in a little room in the western part of this city, where majestic sweetness sits enthroned on a mother's brow." He continued:

"I do not know of more holy places, and yet, while I do not pretend that this room has such a degree of sanctity as they have, I assure you, as I stand here today, that something of that feeling comes over me as I look in these faces before me."

Then in explanation of that feeling of standing on at least quasi-holy ground, the governor stated that the room was the one in which he had first sat as delegate to a republican convention, where he had been nominated for city attorney and county judge, had been indorsed for congressman at large, and finally for governor of Illinois.

Announces His Candidacy.

Then, getting down to business, the governor went on:

"To the republicans of Illinois: I hereby formally announce that I am a candidate for renomination by the republican party for the office of governor of Illinois. Four years ago, in 1899, I announced on Sept. 1 that I would seek the nomination for governor. In the announcement made at that time I said:

"'Illinois is a royal realm. It is a majestic empire. It is a republic in itself. It is the fair abode of patriotic, powerful, and progressive people. It is the home of a most high minded manhood, a most noble womanhood, and a most precious childhood. Five millions strong, its people are worth serving well, and I want to serve them with the best service in my power.'

"'To hope to be governor of this state is in my judgment to cherish a most laudable ambition. Should I be nominated and elected I would hope to be guided by true ideals, trying to be for the things that are right as the republican party has been, so far as the rank and file are concerned, in all its history.

Would Be Man of the People.

"'I represent no combination. I want to be the candidate of the people. I believe the people will be in power in the state convention of 1900. I have been successful heretofore in the kind of conventions named, those controlled by the rank and file of the party. I have always taken all the people into my confidence in all political matters and am not afraid now to place my case entirely and absolutely in their hands.

"'If I am defeated I shall accept the decision complacently and take the stump as usual for the whole ticket. But I hope to be nominated and elected, because I never have appealed to the people in vain.'

"You honored me with the nomination at the great convention at Peoria, May 9, 1900. During the ensuing six months I actively canvassed the state, and in substantially every county I personally and verbally gave to the voters the following pledge:

"'For myself, fellow citizens, I can only say that I believe it is the duty of every man to offer himself to the public service in the highest capacity of which he or his friends deem him to be capable. So believing, I have tendered my services, and if the people shall see fit to prefer me to the high office of governor of Illinois, than which there is no higher, with the exception of the presidency of the United States, I will endeavor to do well my duty. I will try to serve the state faithfully. I will endeavor to promote good legislation and prevent bad laws.

"'I will try, if elected, to make good appointments. If by mistake I make bad ones I will rectify the mistake and remove the appointees. I will endeavor to see that the state institutions are managed with economy, efficiency, and humanity. I will try to place them under boards and bureaus of good business men. I will endeavor, in the appointment of commissioners of parks in our great cities, to appoint men of high character, of unquestioned qualifications, able to perform their duties without interference by the executive, and so long as they will perform those duties with an eye single to the public service I would spare them executive interference. I will try to better the public service.'

Stands Upon His Record.

"On Nov. 6 I was elected by 63,518 majority. Thirty-two months have elapsed since my inauguration on Jan. 1, 1901. During these months I have endeavored faithfully to fulfill the pledges made by me. If I have in whole or in part failed to fulfill them the failure was not an intentional or conscious one.

"As I said at the time, mistakes always are possible. Some mistakes have been made. An honest effort has been made to right and correct those mistakes, and I confidently submit the whole to you to consider and examine.

"Moreover, during this period I have continually endeavored to the utmost of my power to incorporate into legislative and official action the policies and principles set forth in the state platforms of 1900 and 1902. A careful and impartial investigation of the record will show that the economy record, the efficiency record, the humanity record, the appointment record, the law and order record, the labor record, the legislative record, the political record, and the whole record of the republican party and of this administration in Illinois during the last two years and eight months have been good and not bad.

Denounces His Opponents.

"Of course there are, as there always have been, men more anxious to build up themselves than to build up the republican party, and accordingly fully capable of tearing down the republican party in order to build themselves up. Such men are more anxious to destroy than to encourage republican officials. Such men will not and do not approve this administration and will not and do not approve any administration which does not submit to their control. Such men will not admit that this administration is good and not bad.

"However, I feel fully justified in asserting that were I and all my associates and appointees to die tomorrow the republican party in Illinois could and would go forth to victory in 1904 upon this identical record. You all, the whole state, know this statement to be true.

Tells of Result in 1902.

"In 1902, ten months ago, this record was assailed and attacked in all its parts, and in all parts of the state by our inveterate and vigorous political foe, the democratic party, arrayed behind leaders as able and alert and tireless and fearless as ever led any party. At that election, on Nov. 4, 1902, the people of Illinois at the polls rendered their verdict. The verdict was a sweeping approval. The vote on state treasurer, the head of the ticket, was a purely political test, and on that as a test the people voted their confidence in the republican party and the republican administration of Illinois by the splendid majority of 89,770.

"To realize the full force of this decision by the people it must be remembered that President McKinley's majority in Illinois in 1900 was 94,924. The republican majority in 1902 was thus only 5,154 less than that of President McKinley, for whom democrats voted by the thousands.

"Moreover, in addition to the usual contest between the parties for the control of the legislature, there was an additional one at the polls in 1902—namely: whether the people by their representatives should send to the United States senate the man selected by the republican party at its state convention in May, 1902—namely: Albert J. Hopkins. It sometimes is asserted that it is much more difficult to carry an election when the senatorial candidate has been nominated by the state convention.

"The decision upon this point was, however, as decisive as the other. Of 153 representatives, eighty-three were chosen, as against eighty-five of all other parties, and of the twenty-six senators twenty were chosen by the republicans, as against six democrats, the vote on joint ballot standing 124 republicans as against eighty of all parties. This overwhelming victory was especially remarkable in view of the fact that everywhere the charge had been made that the governor and his friends were trying to dictate both the state and the senatorial contests.

Finds Vindication in Ballot.

"One of two things must be true; either the people did not believe the charge of dictation or the people did believe in the attitude of the governor and his friends and ratified it.

"I am satisfied that on close inspection the people of the state have found nothing disgraceful or harmful in the present administration, as conducted through the various departments and institutions. On the other hand, I believe the people regard it as an honest and worthy administration.

"The constitution of Illinois does not prohibit a governor from seeking a second term. I know of no reason why, after two years and eight months of experience, I should sixteen months before the expiration of my term, and eight months before the next state convention, decide not to be a candidate. There may be and probably will be another issue in the ensuing campaign. This is whether the republican party of Illinois, with free and true republicanism, shall be its own master and run itself, retaining its own servants and reflecting its own champion, or whether it shall, like a slave, bow the knee to and take orders from an un-American, unrepublican, undemocratic newspaper oligarchy in the city of Chicago, as heartless and remorseless as any tyrant or assassin ever known.

"That man serves well his party, and, for that matter, all parties, who thwarts the aims of this new despotism in Illinois. Its success is not merely a question of personal or passing moment to any one. Its success would strike deep at the foundation of all free government. It would fasten upon Illinois a newspaper dynasty corruptly controlling nominations and legislation more dictatorially than was ever the case in boss ridden and Tammany driven New York.

Attacks the Newspapers.

"The republican party can be its own master. The republican party of Illinois can run itself. So can all other parties. I confidently call upon men of all parties to aid in liberating Illinois politics, of all parties, from that editorial oligarchy.

"Personally, I prefer to submit my case by simply presenting the record of this administration. But, if the Chicago trust press continues, as heretofore, to represent that I have not kept my oath, I will raise the issue of government by newspaper trust. Government by trust press is just as un-American and unconstitutional as government by injunction, government by capital, government by machine, or government by mob.

"The methods of the newspaper trust reek with cowardice. The essence of cowardice consists of the use of power against the powerless. With such cowardice the Chicago newspaper trust strikes 100,000 blows every morning for 365 days in the year, and its victim is as unable to return the blows as is the citizen stricken down by the highway robber, with a blow from behind in the dark.

"With such cowardice blows have been struck me ever since the day of my inauguration—blows I have been powerless to return, because I have had no newspaper trust at my command.

Praise for Country Editors.

"I consider it a high compliment that in spite of this campaign of falsehood friends are today remaining undaunted in all parts of the state, and that 500 honest and brave and fair country republican newspapers denounce this trust and combat this attempt to destroy.

"If these attacks continue I serve notice that, on the one hand, I will fight—will fight for my life—and, on the other, I will fight against government by a trust press—and fight it to the death. I will so fight it convinced that I cannot better serve Illinois and its people than by carrying this fight into every county in the state.

"And I challenge and defy the whole unholy combination to prove that I have, in any sense, been recreant to the sacred trust so generously imposed by the people, so proudly accepted by me when, on Jan. 14, 1901, in the presence of God and of the people and of my own loved ones, I held up my hand and took the solemn oath of governor of Illinois, for which I expect to answer not only to the loved ones and to the people but to the Judge of all men.

"I intend to submit to you the whole case, and as neither newspapers, nor combinations, nor machines constitute the republican party, I will submit the case to the formal assemblage of the accredited representatives of the republican party of Illinois in their regular quadrennial convention in May next.

Ready to Accept Trust.

"If at that time the decision be that I withdraw and support another I will cheerfully comply. If, on the other hand, that convention shall again make me the standard bearer of the grand old republican party, which I love, I will again take into my keeping the sacred trust and I will carry that splendid banner of Lincoln, Grant, and Oglesby up and down the state with the same loyalty, and enthusiasm, and confidence as before; and, as before, I will, after the battle, bring it back in honor, if I live to bring it back at all.

"I invite in my candidacy the support of every republican, the coöperation of every citizen, appealing to all, despising no man's vote, and undervaluing no citizen's support."

Candidates to Meet Veterans.

While Gov. Yates is entertaining the reunion of old soldiers at Carbondale tomorrow, Col. Frank O. Lowden and Benson Wood, of Effingham, will be attending a similar gathering at Freeport. Col. Lowden was selected as the principal orator, and but for the fact that the friends of other gubernatorial candidates complained he would have been the only one.

Wood is one of the "favorite son" candidates.

Col. Lowden will go direct from Freeport to Carbondale, where he is billed to speak on Thursday. Charles S. Deneen will be the principal speaker on Friday.

ELECTRICITY FROM ETHER IS DECLARED A CERTAINTY.

Whitney Theory That He Can Reach Beyond the Atmosphere from Pike's Peak Is Indorsed.

Denver, Colo., Sept. 21.—[Special.]—Albert Gallatin Whitney is expected by people here to demonstrate the fallacy of the Newtonian theory of gravitation by projecting into etheric space a huge magnet, which will reach a height where the attraction of the earth is overcome and the pull is the other way, so that the magnet will have to be chained down to prevent it being pulled from the earth.

F. X. Schoonmaker of Chicago, who has been testing Whitney's theory of getting electricity from the ether, expects to be in Colorado in three weeks. Honoré Palmer of Chicago is said to be one of the capitalists who will back the scheme. Fully $56,000,000 will be available, and the work will begin at once.

In talking of the results of his investigation Mr. Schoonmaker speaks with reserve, stating that it is the result of his labors, paid for by those who sent him here. He said:

"There has been a great contention among scientists regarding the thickness of the atmosphere shrouding the earth. By many it was said to be 500 miles thick. At Pike's peak it was believed to be fifty miles in thickness.

"Mr. Whitney stated, as one of his sixty assertions regarding the conditions on Pike's peak, that the shroud of atmosphere was not more than four miles thick there. That I find to be correct.

"Mr. Whitney proposes to fire a cylinder into the air above Pike's peak, and the cylinder will contain a magnet, a coil of strong copper wire, and a time clock. When the height of two miles is reached the clock will open the cylinder and the wire will begin falling, uncoiling as the magnet ascends, and finally the magnet will reach the ether and be held there while the end of the coil of wire touches the earth. It is possible to make connection with the simplest machinery.

"When the iron touches the ether it will become luminous and remain there. What we will want is a gun that will shoot four miles above the peak.

"The plan is entirely feasible. A practical demonstration will amaze the scientific world and give new life to industries that are languishing by reason of the great cost of motive power."

WANTS GOVERNOR IMPEACHED.

Populist Convention in Colorado Declares Ordering Out of Troops Insurrection Against State.

Denver, Colo., Sept. 21.—The populist state convention today demanded the impeachment of the governor of Colorado. It nominated District Judge F. W. Owens of Leadville for justice of the supreme court. Resolutions were adopted condemning in vigorous language the present republican state administration and also denouncing the democratic party because its recent convention failed to declare against the use of military at Cripple Creek.

The resolutions declare that the troops were ordered to the districts where absolute law and justice and peace existed, in defiance of all principles of law and justice, and adds:

"The only defiance and obstruction to the ordinary process of the courts of Teller county is made by the military, and those responsible for its presence and conduct are therefore directly in insurrection against the government and state of Colorado. We, therefore demand the immediate punishment of the rebels under the law and the impeachment of the governor of the state as soon as possible."

CALL OPEN SHOP GROUND FOR WAR

Unions and Employers Lining Up Over Issue Long Thought Settled.

MARBLE MEN SKIRMISH.

Plants Close to Reopen Under Free Contract, but Workers Predict Defection.

Face to face over the "open shop," an issue that was thought to have been settled long ago, employers and organized labor in Chicago are lining up for new battles.

The employers have been preparing for the conflict for months. All the employers' associations that have been formed in the last year have been pledged to the "open shop," and the contracts made with the workers by these associations have included a clause providing for freedom of employment.

The W. A. Miller episode in the government printing office has done much to hasten the conflict. The action of the National Association of Marble Dealers, who closed their plants yesterday to reopen them on Thursday as "open shops," has precipitated the fight.

Workers Preparing to Fight.

But, while the employers have been laying their plans, the labor organizations have not been idle. That they are fully aware of the progress of the "open shop" doctrine was evidenced by the resolution introduced on Sunday in the Chicago Federation of Labor by John Fitzpatrick, general organizer.

"My resolution was a notice served on the employers that we are not sleeping," Fitzpatrick said. "By cunningly drawn contracts, by damage suits, and by lockouts they are planning to disrupt the unions. To meet this attack we must insist on contracts as we want them, without any 'open shop,' 'no discrimination,' or 'no sympathetic' strike clauses, or we will have no contracts at all."

As the situation is today in Chicago, most of the old organizations have "closed shop" agreements. In many instances the sympathetic strike is forbidden. The newer unions, however, have not been able to force the "closed shop" on the employers as a rule. This is so because the Employers' association has taken a hand in the newer settlements.

Conditions in Various Trades.

At the end of the lockout of the building trades in the spring of 1900 an agreement was put into effect with most of the trades which is still adhered to. It states that union men are to be hired whenever they shall be available. This has amounted, in practice, to a "closed shop" rule. The carpenters have a closer agreement providing that union and nonunion craftsmen shall not be asked to work side by side.

The teamsters have "close" agreements and even go further with exclusive contracts, in many instances, by which the men bind themselves to work for certain enumerated employers only.

In the metal trades a somewhat different condition is found. The Metal Trades association has a joint agreement with the machinists and various branches of the workers in which these words appear: "Freedom of employment of labor and the right of organization is recognized by both parties."

Among the crafts allied with the Associated Building Trades committed to the "closed shop" are the following: Sheet metal workers, architectural iron workers, structural iron workers, electrical workers, boiler makers and iron shipbuilders, cement finishers, gasfitters, glaziers, hodcarriers, marble workers, paper hangers, painters, steamfitters, stonecutters, journeymen plumbers.

Other branches of industry which have obtained "closed shop" contracts are the brickmakers, engineers, glass workers, stationary firemen, printers, and stone planers. The traction companies are on the "open shop" basis.

Job Argues Against "Closed Shop."

In opposing the "closed shop" Secretary Frederick W. Job of the Employers' association said:

"One weak point in the proposition of the union shop is, in my opinion, that a considerable portion of the members are involuntary members. They have been forced into the organizations against their wills and would desert if they might.

"The unions of this country, after fifty years of hard work, have thus far succeeded in getting under their banner not to exceed 20 per cent of the workers of the country. This is giving President Gompers of the American federation full credence for his best claim. Today organized labor needs the illogical sympathetic strike and the equally illogical 'closed shop' to keep it alive. I believe the employers of the country are generally opposed to being made the organizers of the unions by agreeing to hire union men only."

Closed Shop Brings Inefficiency.

Alexander Davidson of the Davidson Bros.' Marble company, which is participating in the "open shop" campaign, said:

"Under the 'closed shop' rule a factory is in constant turmoil. The agreement limits the amount of work a man shall do. The employer is at the mercy of the organization. The steward is continually interfering, and there are waits pending investigations. From the day when we put into effect the agreement with the unions last spring, the efficiency of our men fell off. The first day they did 5 per cent less work than in any previous corresponding period of time."

Break in Marble Lockout Rumored.

The marble workers, who were locked out of all plants of the members of the National Association of Marble Dealers, were cheered in the evening by the report that Chester N. Marthens & Co. would break away from the association and reopen this morning with a union shop. The report could not be verified. Mr. Marthens refused to affirm or deny it.

While the plants of the five association members joining in the move against the unions were closed tight all day, the workers met and voted to stay out indefinitely.

Members of the employers' association have received encouragement from other cities. Three St. Louis firms, members of the association, wrote that they would close their plants until Thursday.

W. E. Gill, secretary of the association, wired from New York:

"The Marble Manufacturers' association has passed a resolution not to hire any men until the trouble is settled."

Kentucky Feudist Takes Witness Stand and Attempts to Prove an Alibi.

Cynthiana, Ky., Sept. 21.—[Special.]—Curtis Jett, charged with the killing of James Cockrill, took the stand in his own behalf today and testified that he was in Hargis' store at the time of the shooting. On cross-examination he was sullen and often refused to answer. A verdict is expected tomorrow night.

SEEKS HEAD OF MILLER.

WASHINGTON LABOR BODY ASKS HIS DISMISSAL.

Also Appeals to President Roosevelt to Rescind His Order of "No Discrimination"—Executive Council of Federation of Labor Postpones Action Until Conference with Chief Executive Is Had—Milwaukee Union Men Scent Politics and Keep Hands Off.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 21.—[Special.]—The Central Labor union of this city tonight took action in the case of W. A. Miller and adopted the following resolution, which was sent to President Roosevelt, urging Miller's dismissal:

"The Central Labor union of Washington, D. C., earnestly requests that you modify your orders of July 13 and 14 to the Hon. George B. Cortelyou, in which you say that there shall be no discrimination between union and nonunion labor, and do further petition that W. A. Miller, assistant foreman of binding in the government printing office, be dismissed, to promote the efficiency of the service, on charges made by the bookbinders' union, which have proved his unfitness for the duties of a public servant."

Vote Is Unanimous.

The resolution was presented by Milford Spohn of the bricklayers' union. There was no discussion, the vote being unanimous. The Central Labor union also approved the sending of the following telegram to Charles W. Winslow, secretary of the organization, who is attending the convention of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers in Kansas City, Mo.:

"Central Labor union requests the convention to pass resolutions in regard to the order of the president on the open shop and the case of W. A. Miller."

A telegram in response to the petition being circulated by the Central Labor union, the only one read tonight, was received. It read:

"CITIZEN GEORGE FRANCIS TRAIN."

Federation Postpones Action.

Neither President Roosevelt's no discrimination order nor the case of Assistant Foreman Miller was discussed at the two meetings of the executive council of the American Federation of Labor, held this afternoon and tonight. These two important questions will be held in abeyance, but will be considered before the session adjourns.

A new phase of the Miller case developed during the day, when President Whitmore of the Stereotypers' union and an employé in the government printing office sent a petition to President Gompers urging the executive council to refrain from indorsing the action of the central labor union in sending a petition to President Roosevelt asking for Miller's removal, which action President Whitmore characterizes as a blunder.

Move Is Significant.

President Whitmore's action is doubly significant in view of the fact that he is a lifelong republican and has taken his stand from motives of party in the face of the fact that he is one of the most prominent union men in the city. His protest is the first strong intimation that the Miller circular is recognized as pregnant with important political consequences, and that one of the parties in interest deems it wise to check the anti-Roosevelt propaganda. The Whitmore protest also gives prominence to the fact that as between party fealty and union loyalty the former will be found to be stronger with some of the government employés.

President to Meet Men.

President Roosevelt will discuss Miller's case with the labor leaders upon his return to Washington. President John Mitchell and Samuel W. Gompers may participate in the conference. Mr. Mitchell is inclined to oppose any political or labor demonstration against the president at the polls on account of the assistance the president gave Mr. Mitchell in bringing about the arbitration of the difficulties between the miners and mine operators.

Friends of Mr. Mitchell answer the charge by saying that those who know him would not have the temerity to make such a suggestion. Mr. Mitchell has declined to be drawn into an interview on the subject.

Milwaukee Workers Will Wait.

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 21.—[Special.]—The Federated Trades council of Milwaukee district does not propose to go on record as condemning President Roosevelt as unfair. This was decided this afternoon when the executive council took up the circular of the bookbinders' union of Washington in regard to the Miller case.

"We decided to take no action," said Business Agent Frank J. Weber, "because we do not like the looks of the movement. While, of course, we are opposed to President Roosevelt's open shop policy, still we do not propose to allow ourselves to be used by the democratic party to make capital at the expense of the president. The whole deal looks too much like politics, and we will therefore not take any notice of the Washington controversy. Later on, when we know more about it, we may act, but in that event it will not be action that either the republican or the democratic party can use as campaign matter. We have no desire to allow ourselves to be used by a political party."

LAKE STRIKE MAY SPREAD.

Masters and Pilots Threaten to Stop Outside Boats from Towing Steel Trust Barges.

Cleveland, O., Sept. 21.—The strike inaugurated by the Masters and Pilots' association against the steel trust fleet now seems likely to spread to all other steamer lines owing to the action of outside owners in allowing their steamers to tow barges of the steel trust fleet. Today there was considerable objection on the part of masters of outside steamers when they were ordered to pick up the barges of the "unfair" line. Although none of them refused outright to tow the vessels, members of the pilots' association today made the statement that the barges which are now bound up the lakes in tow of outside steamers will not be allowed to come back. A meeting of vesselmen was held here today to discuss the new situation, and while they did not think a general tieup probable, some of the owners in attendance stated that they did not care whether it came or not. Another meeting will be held tomorrow and a decision will be made whether the independent steamers will continue to tow steel trust barges or give way to the demands of the striking mates.

PREDICTS AVERAGE CORN CROP.

Secretary Wilson Says Warm Weather Will Make Up for Effects of Recent Heavy Frost.

Secretary James Wilson of the department of agriculture was at the Auditorium last night, with his son Jasper. He is on his way home from Ogden, Utah, where he attended the irrigation convention. He came through the corn belt to acquaint himself as far as possible with the damage by the recent frost.

"I found considerable frostbitten corn between Council Bluffs, Ia., and Chicago," the secretary said. "The present warm weather, which gives indication of lasting several days, probably will bring the crop up to the average of last year. The wheat crop will be light. Any injury to corn will be made up by an extra large hay crop."

Mr. Wilson said the most interesting experiment by the department is the washing of alkali from a forty acre tract near Salt Lake City. Twenty-four hundred tons of alkali has been washed from the land. Government scientists are in Egypt and Turkestan experimenting with crops that can be grown in alkali soil. Sugar beets and alfalfa are the most productive.

Gen. Black Resigns State Office.

Jacksonville, Ill., Sept. 21.—[Special.]—Gen. John C. Black today handed to Gov. Yates his resignation of his position as a member of the board of trustees of the Soldiers and Sailors' home at Quincy, Ill. He was appointed as the democratic representative on the board. Because of his duties as commander of the National G. A. R. he resigned.

BACK ALDERMAN IN ILLEGAL WORK

ORDINANCE FORBIDS IT.

Mayor Surprised at Violation, but Leaves Investigation to Council.

No officer (of the city) shall be directly or indirectly interested in any contract, work, or business of the city, or the sale of any article the expense, price, or consideration of which is paid from the treasury, or by any assessment levied by any act or ordinance.—Section 2241, revised ordinances of Chicago.

No alderman shall be either directly or indirectly, individually or as the member of a firm, engaged in any business transaction with the city, through its mayor or any of its authorized boards, agents, or attorneys, whereby any money is to be paid, directly or indirectly, out of the city treasury to such members or firms.—Section 2196, revised ordinances of Chicago.

In the face of these distinct provisions of the city ordinances, Ald. J. H. Sullivan of the Twenty-second ward drew from the city treasury under the name of the "Union Plumbing company," according to vouchers disclosed in the city controller's office, the sum of $1,123 for the year 1902.

Vouchers also showed that the company has continued to do work for the city this year, although the payments have not been indexed in a way to permit the securing of a total for the eight months.

In the trial of Chief Janitor John W. Gildea before the civil service commission it also developed, through the testimony of William C. Gohde, storage clerk of the city purchasing agent's office, that the Union Plumbing company had the practical monopoly of the city's plumbing work.

Assistant Corporation Counsel Hoyne made to the commission the statement that Ald. Sullivan admitted that he was the head of the Union Plumbing company.

Admitted by Sullivan.

Ald. Sullivan made the same admission in an interview on Saturday evening, simply saying that he had been doing plumbing work for the city prior to his election as alderman, and that after election he kept up the work, using the name "Union Plumbing company," instead of his own. There had been no attempt to hide anything, he said, and no dishonesty.

His frankness, his friends maintained, was the best proof of his innocent intentions. They pointed to his council record, which has had the indorsement of the Municipal Voters' league. J. J. Bowen, they said, was seeking by his accusations, to revenge himself for being indicted for the alleged embezzlement of $5,000 of Ald. Sullivan's money.

Surprise to Mayor Harrison.

Mayor Harrison expressed surprise at the disclosures and declared that the actions were in violation of the city ordinance.

"If it is true that Ald. Sullivan is the Union Plumbing company," said the mayor, "he has violated the ordinance. I did not know that Sullivan was interested in the city plumbing. Personally, I have always thought highly of him. I knew he is a good man and would hesitate a long time before I would say anything against him."

The mayor was asked what action toward investigation he would take.

"That is a matter for the city council," he said.

Bowen Tells of Tapping Mains.

Former Manager Bowen added to his account of Ald. Sullivan's alleged dealing with the city the statement that he had for his employer frequently tapped the city water mains without getting and paying for a city permit. He named addresses. These street numbers were taken to Supt. Nourse, and after a search through the books he reported that permits had been taken out. Here are the permits on which he based his acquittal:

Address.	Size of tap.	Permit.
497 North Park avenue....	⅝ inch	April 7, 1888
503 North Park avenue....	⅝ inch	April 7, 1888
510 North Park avenue....	⅝ inch	May 24, 1888
55 Rees street..............	⅝ inch	March 10, 1883
53 Rees street..............	⅝ inch	Aug. 3, 1882
283 Fremont street..........	⅝ inch	May 1, 1888
281 Fremont street..........	⅝ inch	May 1, 1888

The most recent of these permits was issued fifteen years ago. Mr. Bowen was shown Supt. Nourse's report. He asserted that new taps or additional taps had been made by Ald. Sullivan at each of these addresses between June 1 and July 31 last.

City Tapping Wagon Used.

"If Supt. Nourse," he said, "will take the trouble to dig down at any of these places he will find I have told the truth. At 497 North Park avenue the tap was increased from ⅝ to ¾ inch. The same thing was done at 503 and 510 North Park avenue, 55 and 53 Rees street. At 281 and 283 Fremont street two new ¾ inch taps were made. It was easy to do the work without permits, as the tapping wagon supplied by Ald. Sullivan to the city at $3 a day was used after the city work was done. As the wagon had the city's name on it, no policeman ever would think of questioning the right of workmen who tore up the street."

COLE YOUNGER CHARGED WITH EMBEZZLING $6,000.

Owner of Wild West Show Declares the Ex-Bandit Has Appropriated Funds to His Own Use.

Nevada, Mo., Sept. 21.—A charge of embezzlement of $6,000 has been made against Cole Younger, the ex-bandit, by the management of a wild west show with which Frank James and Younger have been associated since shortly after Younger's pardon from the Minnesota penitentiary. James and Younger had previously brought action for damages against the management, because, as they allege, the proprietor failed to equip the aggregation according to contract and refused to drive away the gambling element that followed the shows. Both James and Younger assert there is nothing in the embezzlement charge, which they say is retaliatory. Younger has quit the show.

FINDS HER HUSBAND POISONED.

Wife Awakes to Learn That James Davis Had Died After Taking Carbolic Acid.

Mrs. James Davis awoke to find her husband dead in bed from carbolic acid poisoning. Davis was a switchman and lived at 126 Colorado avenue. He was 26 years old. A coroner's jury was unable to determine the reason for suicide.

Would Be Suicide Set Free.—Justice Mayer discharged Frank Boll, who attempted suicide by inhaling gas. Boll lived at 137 Wells street. After he had recovered at the county hospital his friends appeared in the Chicago avenue police court and promised to care for him.

Seek Identity of Suicide.—The police are still seeking the identity of a man who died last Tuesday after taking carbolic acid in Lincoln park. The body was removed to the county morgue yesterday, where scores viewed it. The only clew the police have is a paper bearing the name "Walter Fay."

Ends Life with Poison.—A coroner's jury found that Miss Julia Murphy, 30 years old, died of narcotic poisoning. The woman was seized with convulsions in her rooms at 617 West Monroe street. She was employed in a department store.

EXPRESS MANAGER INDUCES THE STATE BOARD TO DROP CASE.

Mr. Wygant Sends In a Counter Petition Signed by Twice as Many Men as Asked the Arbitrators to Intervene, and the Latter Decide to Disregard Former Plea—Rysdon Starts Work on Linne School Without Interference by Unions.

The Illinois state board of arbitration will not intervene in the trouble between the United States Express company and its union employés. A new petition presented yesterday brought the decision.

Some time ago the union sought an increase in wages and the establishment of working agreements with all the companies. The corporations refused to negotiate and the state board was appealed to. The United States company was selected as the one to be attacked first.

A petition circulated among the union clerks was signed by ninety-seven of them. The document purported to represent the majority of the company's employés and requested the arbitration board to intervene in behalf of the men and secure for them a hearing with the company. General Agent Wygant received the petition.

His reply came yesterday in the shape of another petition to the board of arbitration. It is in part as follows:

"It having come to the attention of the employés of the United States Express company that ninety-seven men have petitioned you to make investigation into the relations between the company and its employés, we desire to say that such action was uncalled for, as there is no general dissatisfaction on the part of the employés."

The paper bears the names of 238 employés of the company. Among them are those of Harry Cook, recording secretary of the brotherhood; Douglas Dunham, its president; and William W. Murray, president of the shipping clerks' joint council. The first petition will be disregarded.

Rysdon Starts on Linne School.

E. A. Rysdon & Co. appeared at the Linné school in the morning and began putting on the sheet metal work without interference from the other trades on the building. A committee from the Associated Building Trades is to investigate the facts, however, and if Rysdon is found to be going ahead with nonunion men and material, the strike may be called.

Sprague-Warner Printers Strike.

Thirty-seven printers employed in the private shop of Sprague, Warner & Co. walked out during the day because the firm refused to pay the scale demanded. J. C. Harding of the union said the grocers were paying 20 per cent less than the union scale. Harding will ask the clerks and other organized employés to come to the rescue of the printers.

Change of Venue Denied.

John Fitzpatrick and other union labor members, who were made defendants to an injunction obtained last July by the People's Gaslight and Coke company, were denied a change of venue by Judge Holdom, who granted the injunction. The denial was made on technical grounds.

Oscar H. Lantry was held to the Criminal court in bonds of $1,200 by Justice Caverly on a charge of threatening to kill Emil Bartofiski and Adolph Hammel, nonunion chocolate makers at the plant of the J. K. Farley company, 118 Superior street.

GRAND JURY MAY PROBE SCHOOL BRIBERY CHARGES.

Board Members United in Urging Inquiry to Bring Out All Facts in the Thompson Case.

The grand jury will hear the school board bribery story if the school trustees accomplish their purpose to carry the testimony of Trustee George J. Thompson against Editor Alonzo P. Clarke to that tribunal. This announcement was made yesterday by a member of the board of education, who says he knows the sentiment of the investigating committee in regard to carrying the story to a body with criminal jurisdiction.

George J. Thompson, aroused by the flat denial made by Clarke, has announced his desire to repeat under oath his story accusing the editor of the Chicago Federationist.

Clarke says he has no fear of the outcome of a grand jury investigation. A friend of Thompson's, however, declared yesterday that the latter had other witnesses he is holding in reserve for the grand jury.

Clayton Mark declared yesterday that the grand jury is the proper place for Thompson to tell his story.

Supt. Cooley will organize the night schools this year on a graded basis. Those who enroll in the schools will be separated into grades and their work will count as a half year's regular school work. Night school pupils will be awarded regular grammar school diplomas.

The attendance at the public schools during the first two weeks of September was 235,000. This is 4,000 in excess of the attendance during the first two weeks of September, 1902. The attendance will steadily increase, it is expected.

ANSWERS CRITIC WITH FIGURES

Supt. MacQueary Declares Expenses of the Parental School Are $374 Per Pupil.

"School Trustee Chvatal's repetition of the charge that the cost per capita at the parental school last year was $615 makes his prejudice seem invincible," said Supt. MacQueary last evening.

"He even included the cost of equipment in his estimate. Why did he not add the cost of buildings, and make expenses for each pupil several thousand dollars?

"The records will show that of the $54,746 expended last year $9,765 went for equipment. Deducting the latter amount, the yearly cost for each of the 120 pupils is only $374."

Boy Drowned While Fishing.

While fishing against the wishes of his mother, John Baker of Robertsdale, Ind., aged 8 years, was drowned yesterday in Wolf lake, near Hammond. While his brother was endeavoring to land a fish John in his excitement fell into the water. The mother fainted when the body was taken home and is in a critical condition.

PARKS STARTS A ROW.

NEW YORK LABOR LEADER MAKES TROUBLE AT KANSAS CITY.

Man Convicted and Sentenced to Sing Sing Prison, and Afterwards Expelled from Union, Takes His Place on the Floor at Annual Convention of International Bridge and Structural Iron Workers—Declares War on Other Delegations.

Kansas City, Mo., Sept. 21.—[Special.]—Sam Parks, the New York labor leader who, with 1,500 members of his union, last week were suspended from the international organization, was the disturbing element at today's session of the International Bridge and Structural Iron Workers' convention.

Parks has declared war on a number of delegations, notably No. 10 of Kansas City, and is extremely bitter against President Buchanan of the international union. Before the convention met today he said:

"I have come here for the purpose of making the fight of my life for labor, and I honestly believe it is necessary to make such a fight. It seems that some are fighting against the rights of labor instead of for it. The delegates from local union No. 2 from New York City are going into this convention. President Buchanan has no power to suspend local union No. 2, and we will go into this convention without hindrance."

Parks First to Speak.

The convention was called to order at 10:30 a. m., and Parks was the first man on his feet after the address of welcome had been replied to. He wanted to know if the convention had been called as a gathering of organized labor or as a public meeting. Without waiting for an answer, he went on to denounce in a general way some of those present. There were some in the hall, he said, not rightfully delegates to the convention, and he requested that these be removed.

President Buchanan interrupted the New York delegate with the statement that he was out of order until the convention had passed on the credentials of all the delegates.

Attacks Kansas City Union.

Parks sprang to his feet again. "I approve of that ruling," he said, "and when they are passed on you'll find a lot of members of Kansas City No. 10 that'll not be allowed in the hall."

A member of No. 10 retorted: "It's my opinion that any man who carries an international card is all right to stay in this convention. I hope that no member of No. 10 will take to heart this insult just offered."

Parks again arose and fairly roared: "No one has more respect for Kansas City members of the organization than I have. But you'll find when you get down to examining credentials that a lot of persons traveled all the way here from New York and expect to get into this meeting. I'm here to help bar them out, and there are a whole lot more of delegates who will be glad to disbar them."

No Report Until Today.

President Buchanan finally secured order, and all delegates presented their credentials to the secretary. Then President Buchanan appointed as the credentials committee J. P. Carry, W. M. Shoop, J. J. McNamara, Charles Winslow, Michael Flaherty, W. F. McCoy, and James O'Brien.

The credentials committee did not meet until late in the day, and no indication of what action they might take on the Parks delegation was obtainable in advance. Their report will not be considered until the convention resumes its session tomorrow morning.

Before the convention adjourned today President Buchanan said: "I have suspended No. 2 for what I believe was sufficient cause, and will try to substantiate that before the credentials committee." No. 2 is Parks' union.

RAISED AS GIRL; FOUND TO BE BOY

LETTER BETRAYS SECRET

As a result of the shooting which occurred recently at a wedding in Kenosha, Wis., it was disclosed yesterday that the bride's brother, who fired the shots, was reared as a girl till he was 8 years old and wore skirts till he was almost 20.

On Sept. 1, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Marshall in Kenosha Miss Nellie Marshall was married to J. W. Roberts of Ottumwa, Ia. As the minister was pronouncing the benediction Earl Marshall, the bride's 20 year old brother, entered the house and fired two revolver shots at the bride and groom. No one was hurt, but the affair created a sensation. The story was published widely and was read at Ottumwa, where the Marshall family had lived until this year.

Young Marshall fled from Kenosha after the shooting but returned in a short time and sent a letter to the local papers admitting that he had fired the shots, but disclaiming any effort to kill his sister or the bridegroom.

Letter Discloses the Secret.

Nothing more was thought of the story till last week when a letter was sent to Ottumwa, of which Marshall admits the authorship, in which it was declared that the shots had not been fired by Earl Marshall as by Eva Marshall, a sister of the bride. The letter, which was addressed to an Ottumwa paper, follows:

"The shooting which happened at our home in Kenosha on Sept 1 was given out in the papers wrong. Eva Marshall, my sister, fired the shots, and ma told the reporters that there was a fellow by the name of Earl Marshall who fired them in order to shield her and so that they wouldn't arrest her. She (Eva) left the city, and it may be that she went to Ottumwa. Would you please let us know if you hear that she is there? She didn't have any intention of harming sister Nellie or Mr. Roberts, and she said that she fired to scare them, as Nellie was angry at her and had not invited her to the wedding. Eva fired at the ceiling and couldn't have hit them if they were all standing together. She feels bad that they put this false report in the paper.

MART MARSHALL."

Boy Admits Writing It.

This letter was supposed to have been written by a younger sister of Earl, but when it was shown to the young woman she denied authorship, and finally the boy admitted that he had written it in order to remove the stain of guilt from himself and place it on a mythical sister. Developments show that the mythical sister had an existence in fact as far as the people of Ottumwa were concerned, for during the time that the Marshall family resided there the boy was always known as "Eva" Marshall. The members of the family at first denied that the two were the same, but when Mrs. Marshall discovered that the facts were known she consented to make a statement in regard to the boy's life.

Blames Doctor for Mistake.

She stated that family formerly had been prominent at Morgantown, Ky. Twenty years ago Mrs. Marshall had a child and the doctors announced that a daughter had been born. With this understanding the child was christened "Eva," and for the next eight years the boy was "Eva Marshall" to the family. As a girl, he was educated in a girls' school. The mother often noted that "Eva" had a different disposition from the other daughters, but she did not discover the mistake. After the family removed to Iowa, and when the child was 6 years old, he was taken ill and was sent to a hospital at Mount Pleasant, Ia., where he remained over two years before the mistake was discovered.

Order for Boys' Clothes.

The first idea that the family had of the error came in a letter from the hospital authorities demanding that clothing be sent for the boy. The mother was dumfounded, and as soon as possible the child was taken home. Efforts were made to compel him to wear boys' clothes, but he would always return to the skirts, and he is said to have continued to wear skirts nearly all the time until he went to Kenosha six months ago. Since that time, except on rare occasions, he has worn male garb. Few people at Ottumwa knew of the story.

Said to Be in Love with Roberts.

The boy naturally grew up with the habits of a girl. Associated with his sisters he met Roberts and, it is alleged by people that went from Ottumwa with the family to Kenosha, the boy was in love with Roberts. The family deny this and assert that in the later months of the courtship of Miss Marshall he showed the strongest opposition to the man. However, the neighbors declare that the boy was fond of his sister's affianced husband and that he repeatedly made threats that his sister could never be married to Roberts. Mrs. Marshall considered the opposition of the boy as a strange freak of fancy and would not interfere with the wedding. On the wedding night Marshall was not seen until he went to the house and fired the shots.

Boy Fond of Housework.

Marshall was told the secret of his life years ago, and since that time he has been seen little in public. He seemed to consider himself disgraced and refused to have anything to do with any one save a few of the friends of his sisters. He was fond of housework and was even skillful with the needle.

Mrs. Marshall states that in early life the boy showed signs of being a most intelligent child, but since the mistake was discovered he has been almost always an invalid.

Mrs. Roberts has been greatly moved by the stories of her unfortunate brother and claims that she was never aware of his objection to her marrying Roberts. Roberts seems to be entirely ignorant of the story, and it is said that he has always felt that the most brotherly relations existed between the boy and himself.

Roberts is not in Kenosha at this time, but is employed as a brakeman on one of the railways running out of Chicago.

The Marshall family is prominent in church circles in Kenosha, and the solution of the shooting at the home on the night of the wedding has caused a local sensation.

WANTS PARIS CLUB FOR WOMEN

Miss Nina Estabrook Has Noval Plan to Aid Americans Visiting the French Capital.

A movement is on foot to establish in Paris an international club for women. The originator of the enterprise is Miss Estabrook, who owns an American magazine in Paris, known as the Paris World.

"My plan is the result of the demand," said Miss Estabrook, who was in Chicago yesterday. "My offices in Paris have become a sort of general information bureau for American women who go abroad and who desire assistance in their shopping and sight seeing expeditions, and also for those who go to Paris to study.

"But the real support of the club is to be, I hope, the traveling American woman, who can find a neat and refined woman's hotel, if she wishes to call it so, where she, by paying a small fee annually, can come, instead of being subjected to the inconvenience, astonishment and vulgarity of a public hotel.

"I hope to take a whole building in the Rue de Rivoli, facing the Tuileries gardens. This location has three important qualifications. It is in a beautiful quarter; it is downtown, within walking distance of the theaters and the shops, and is the popular thoroughfare.

PUTS STOP TO 'CRUSADES.'

STATE'S ATTORNEY ACTS ON CITIZENS' MUTUAL ALLIANCE.

Manager W. V. Tyler Must Explain Motives and Backers of Mysterious Organization Before Any More Wholesale Prosecutions Will Be Allowed—Decision Is Result of Milkmen's Protest Against Arrest—Profit of $1,575 from Recent Cases for Some One.

The Citizens' Mutual alliance was halted yesterday in its career of justice court prosecutions by the state's attorney, and Attorney W. V. Tyler, its manager, was directed to make an accounting of the nature of the organization to the public prosecutor.

The most recent of the several "crusades" which the alliance has prosecuted since it came into public notice last June is the prosecution of milk dealers who fail to placard their wagons with the name of the dairy from which their supplies are secured. Over 350 such prosecutions are said to have been commenced, and an officer of the organization is authority for the statement that nearly 700 have been prepared. It was after Assistant State's Attorney Barnes, in the absence of Mr. Deneen, had heard the complaints of a delegation of milkmen that they were being hauled into court and made to pay costs at the instigation of the alliance that he called a halt.

Must Disclose Its Backers.

When Mr. Barnes learns the story of how the organization came into existence, who its sponsors are, and what the motives which underlie its "crusades," he will have secured information which Mr. Tyler has so far kept a secret. Unless the alliance can satisfy the state's attorney on these points, it is understood, it will have to cease "crusading."

"While I must presume at this stage of the inquiry that the alliance is acting in good faith, it seems to me that when wholesale prosecutions are to be brought against any class of men, the state's attorney should be advised of them," said Mr. Barnes. "Of course it is the privilege of any citizen to begin prosecutions, where a law is being violated, but when, as in the milk dealer cases, there is a state body, like the Illinois pure food commission, whose duty it is to prosecute, it would be an evidence of good faith to place such prosecutions under its direction."

Milkmen Tell of Many Suits.

The milk dealers were represented in the conference with the state's attorney by Attorney Julius Goldzier. They complained that after their attorney had arranged with the attorney of the alliance for a test case they were still harassed. In many instances no arrest was made, but the milkman was informed that by appearing before a certain justice and paying the costs within forty-eight hours he could avoid being arrested. Attorney Goldzier computed that the 350 cases brought by the alliance against the milkmen netted somebody at least $1,575.

The computation brought up the question whether the prosecutions were not instituted for the purpose of making fees for those interested, and this is one of the matters which the state's attorney will inquire into.

Attorney Tyler will be questioned on all matters pertaining to the milk prosecutions, and also in regard to the recent prosecution of a number of persons, charged with using a corporate name and not being incorporated. Investigation into the last named class of prosecutions recently resulted in Mr. Barnes directing a justice of the peace to dismiss a case against one man.

Barnes Stops One Case.

The man was served with a notice that he was charged with the violation of the law, and about the same time received a letter from H. L. Strohm, an attorney with a desk in Mr. Tyler's office, soliciting the work of securing for him articles of incorporation. Mr. Barnes directing the justice to nolle the case, called for an explanation from Strohm, and from Leon Lewis, an agent of the alliance, who had served the notice.

Strohm said that he had secured his information from the docket of Justice Philip Koehler, before whom the case was commenced. Lewis denied that he knew Strohm, but admitted that Strohm had a desk in the same office with Tyler.

"Who is Tyler?" Mr. Barnes asked.

"He is at the head of the organization," said Lewis.

"Who are behind the alliance?" asked Barnes.

Some of the Recent "Crusades."

Other prosecutions instituted by the alliance were against second hand and sporting goods houses for the sale of contraband weapons, and also a number of newsdealers for the sale of "dime novels" and other forbidden literature. These prosecutions were brought under long unused statutes, and several hundred cases were brought.

Attorney Tyler lays the troubles of the alliance to Leon Lewis. Tyler said yesterday that the corporation cases were instituted by Lewis without his knowledge, and that Attorney Strohm assisted Lewis. He says that the embarrassment growing out of these cases resulted in the moving of the offices of the concern. Strohm no longer has offices with Tyler.

The officers and directors of the organization, as given by Tyler several weeks ago, are the Rev. Cyrus Miller, who lives "near Springfield"; J. M. Walker, a farmer, "near Evanston"; Henry Rive, a retired farmer in South Chicago; Mathew Lipstein, a Jewish rabbi of St. Louis; H. C. Wells, a traveling evangelist; and Mr. Tyler. Mr. Tyler was the only one of the number which THE TRIBUNE could find at the addresses given.

DEFIES A FACTORY OWNER TO REACH WORKING CHILD.

Miss Sarah Crowley Reports Violations of Labor Law in the Plant of Diamond & Stone—Many More Warrants

Miss Sarah R. Crowley, a state factory inspector, had trouble yesterday in investigating an alleged violation of the child labor law in the establishment of Diamond & Stone, 320 Washington street. Mr. Diamond, she says, refused to admit her to the factory, but she entered in spite of him and learned that his nephew, Sam Silverstein, 13 years old, works overtime. She learned also, she says, that another boy and a girl work from 7:30 a. m. till 6 p. m.

During the day three Greek boys, none of them over 15 years of age, were found who admitted they worked from 7 a. m. till 9 p. m. for $100 a year. In no case did they receive their pay, the money being sent by their employers to their relatives—in one case to Greece, it was affirmed. The wages of one youth went to a father living in Elgin and of another to a brother employed on a railroad in California.

Two of the boys worked for James Rumel, owner of a shoe shining stand at Twelfth street and Ashland avenue. The other is employed by John Stephano, a fruit dealer at 658 West Twelfth street.

Justices Wolff and Severson will be busy this week hearing the evidence in child labor cases. Sixty-one more warrants were issued yesterday morning.

FINDS THIEVES IN HER HOUSE.

Woman Surprises Burglars, Who Leave Shoes and Hats, Which Lead to Two Arrests.

A shoe protruding from beneath a bed led to the discovery and arrest of two burglars last night, who had entered the residence of Mrs. John McDermott, 708 West Forty-third street.

When Mrs. McDermott returned the thieves fled, leaving their shoes and hats. With these as a clew detectives arrested William Riley and John Wilson, 18 years old. The boys are said to have confessed.

After stealing a horse and buggy from William Nelson, 458 George street, two men drove to 959 Lincoln avenue early in the morning, broke a window in the sporting goods store of Weber Bros., and were taking guns when Richard Weber fired at them. They returned the shots and fled. A policeman arrested two men driving rapidly away. They gave the names of Thomas Reddington and William Shiner.

A FOOL AND HIS MONEY.
A Comedy in Four Acts.
BY
GEORGE H. BROADHURST.
Presented at the Grand Opera House, Chicago, by a Company Headed by Jameson Lee Finney, Sept. 21, 1903. The Cast:

Percy Merrill	Jameson Lee Finney
Jean Girard	George Henry Trader
John Merrill	Myron Calice
Baron von Hinkelwitzer	Axel Brunn
Charles Hill	Lyster J. Chambers
Samuel Barton	Adam E. Fox
Sandy McPherson	Charles D. Mallee
Eleanor Ashton	Anita Bridger
Celeste Fauvers	Mabel Dixey
Mrs. Curzon	Brandon Douglas
Florence Kent	Harriet Hurst
Anna Hyslop	Marion Pollock Johnson
Rose Vartray	Edna Faron
Esmeralda	Lydia Dickson
Aunt Amelia	Mary Davenport

The third act is the salvation of "A Fool and His Money," which was presented for the first time in Chicago at the Grand last evening. In this act the elements of farce, in the handling of which the author, George H. Broadhurst, possesses a certain skill, are at hand, and the result is a half hour or more of clean, wholesome fun. Two young fellows, one an inventor and the other a painter, are in cheap lodgings where cooking in the rooms is forbidden. They are financially too hard up to go out for a meal, and both of them are hungry. The inventor has smuggled into the apartment the necessary implements for the preparing of a light lunch. The trunk is an ice box, wherein are two eggs; the hat box conceals a small oil stove, the mandolin case a stew pan, the dress suit case a piece of bread, two plates, and two egg cups. A dumb waiter passes the room, carrying edibles from the kitchen below to the room above, where dwells a lodger who is ill. Steaming hot coffee passes, meat appetisingly prepared goes by, and each of these is intercepted for at least a few moments by the hungry bachelors.

The possibilities for fun-making contained in such a situation are easily seen, and Broadhurst has made the most of them, and this without exaggerating to the degree of the unpleasantly absurd. It is this jolly act, and the one which follows—it also contains a couple of amusing scenes—that make "A Fool and His Money" worth the seeing. In the first two acts the playwright has striven to produce something in the line of high class comedy, and he has not been oversuccessful.

The company contains at least three capable players. There are others in the cast who probably, if they had opportunity to prove their powers, would also show themselves capable, but such opportunity is not forthcoming. The three who clearly demonstrated their abilities are Mr. Finney, Mr. Trader, and Miss Dickson. Mr. Finney as the fool who, when he had parted from his father's money, insisted on going to work and earning some for himself, has in many things the same lightness and deftness that are possessed by William Collier, of whom he strongly reminds one. His stage presence is distinctly agreeable and pleasing, he speaks his lines clearly and crisply, and he can make a "point" carry beyond the footlights without hurling it at his hearers.

Mr. Trader plays the part of an impulsive fittie Frenchman, whose affection and hunger always come "from ze bottom of hees heart" and plays it capitally. He won his audience last evening at the start, and in the last two acts he had everybody delighted and happy. He is a farceur possessed of a neat sense of what is refined, and he carefully avoids the coarse and vulgar in all he does.

Miss Dickson appeared only in the third act, and then merely as a scullery maid of the soiled and smudged variety, but this good souled menial she made so essentially true to nature, so childlike in her simpleness, and so big eyed and trusting, that she raised the part into one of prominence. Miss Dixey played the same rôle of a French girl in a finished, easy manner. Miss Bridger was stiff and unwieldy in speech and manner as Eleanor; Miss Douglas was handsome as Mrs. Curzon, and Miss Davenport a satisfactory Aunt Amelia.

It was announced last night that Mr. Broadhurst, the author of "A Fool and His Money" had just disposed of a play to Richard Mansfield. The new piece bears the title, "The Garden of Lies," and there is a possibility that Mr. Mansfield may produce it during his engagement here at the Grand in November.

THE LIGHT THAT LIES IN WOMAN'S EYES.
A Comedy in Four Acts.
BY
E. H. SOTHERN.
Presented at the Columbia Theater, Washington, D. C., by Virginia Harned and Her Company, Sept. 21, 1903. The Cast:

Lady Mary Mayfield	Miss Ethel Winthrop
Margaret Mayfield, her daughter	Miss Mabel Snider
Lady Lorna Leinster, her friend	Miss Virginia Harned
Lucy Porter, an American girl	Miss Margaret Gordon
Mrs. Baker, in charge of Anne Hathaway's cottage	Mrs. Fannie Addison Pitt
Hector Cameron, an arctic explorer	William Courtenay
Wiggin Smythe-Wiggin, his friend	Stanley Dark
Jack Clonmel, engaged to Margaret	S. F. Rice
Dr. Harley	Eugene Sanfley
Mr. Rogers, American	Frederick Burt
Old Harris, American	Lawrence Eddinger
The Rev. Dr. Goodwillie	George Irving
King of Gypsies	Henry Jewett
Man servant	James Reed
Maid, servant	Miss Louise Phillips

Washington, D. C., Sept. 21.—[Special.]—Virginia Harned made a decided hit in the leading rôle as Lady Lorna Leinster at the initial performance of "The Light That Lies in Woman's Eyes," and William Courtenay as Hector Cameron, an arctic explorer, gave her excellent support. They were well received and the play is a dainty comedy which was a decided success. It is clean, and each act leads up to a climax. Stanley Dark as Wiggin Smythe-Wiggin enlivens the play with brilliant flashes of wit, and in this respect he divided the honors with Miss Harned.

The play has to do with the love affairs of an Englishwoman, Lady Lorna Leinster, who is visiting a friend at Stratford on Avon and who meets there a young girl, Margaret Mayfield, who has gone blind through grieving for a lover supposedly killed in the Boer war. An arctic explorer comes to visit the Mayfields and his voice strongly resembling that of the dead lover, he is induced to impersonate the latter, in the hope that the young girl's life may also be saved, she being on the verge of a complete physical collapse. The supposedly dead lover of the young girl returns, and she, having regained her sight, is wedded to him.

E. H. Sothern, the author, was called before the curtain and made a clever speech.

RAFFLES.
Dramatized from E. A. Hornung's Novel.
BY EUGENE PRESBREY.
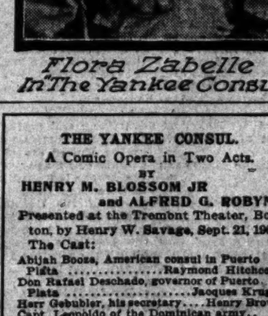
Presented at the Garrick Theater, Philadelphia, by Kyrle Bellew and His Company Sept. 21, 1903. The Cast:

Mr. A. J. Raffles	Kyrle Bellew
Capt. Bedford	E. M. Holland
Mr. Harry Manders	Edwin Arden
Lord Amerstath	Frank Roberts
Lord Crowley	Frank Connor
"The Gardan of Lies"	Frank McCormack
Herton	A. W. Grass
Lady Melrose	Hattie Russell
Mrs. Vidal	Ethel Matthews
Lady Ethel	Lucy Milner
Gwendolyn Cenron	Clara Blandick

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 21.—[Special.]—As a theatrical criminal, one who would interest Sherlock Holmes, and is indeed his antithesis, Kyrle Bellew scored tonight in the character of Raffles. Raffles, as Bellew makes him, is a lovable criminal—a brilliant, intelligent evildoer whose bad propensities are the result of disease. As a play "Raffles" unquestionably is interesting. The story carries one on easily, and its melodramatic tinge is not an offense. Some of the scenes have an element of thrill and most of them are absorbing. Mr. Holland as the detective is a clever foil, whose part has not been thought out with the same ease as the leading rôle.



Flora Zabelle In The Yankee Consul.

A Comic Opera in Two Acts.
BY
HENRY M. BLOSSOM JR and ALFRED G. ROBYN.
Presented at the Tremont Theater, Boston, by Henry W. Savage, Sept. 21, 1903. The Cast:

Don Rafael Deschado, governor of Puerto Plata	Jacques Kruger
Herr Gebubler, his secretary	Henry Brown
Capt. Leopoldo of the Dominican army	Hubert Wilke
Lieut. Commander Jack Morrell of the U. S. gunboat Vixen	Harry Fairleigh
Sancho, proprietor of Los Dos Toros restaurant	Frank Rahney
Nunez, chef of Los Dos Toros restaurant	Albert Juhre
Rodrigo, officer under Leopoldo, local army	Basil Milspaugh
Miguel, officer under Leopoldo, local army	John Pratt
Vasques, vice president of the republic	John Pratt
Donna Teresa Ribera Urquru, a wealthy widow	Eva Davenport
Bonita, her daughter	Flora Zabelle
Papinta, her niece	Rose Botti
Inez, Sancho's wife	Estrella Carmichael
Juanita, a flower girl	Frank Rickard
Estrella, a fruit girl	May Wheeler

Boston, Mass., Sept. 21.—[Special.]—"The Yankee Consul," in which Raymond Hitchcock is starred, was greeted by an immense audience tonight. It is the unanimous verdict of Boston critics that the play will be the biggest of all of Mr. Savage's hits. The score is the work of Alfred G. Robyn, and is far above that of any comic opera of recent years. The locale, Santo Domingo, has given Mr. Robyn an option to use an abundance of music of the Spanish style, with brilliant dances and sensuous ballads, and it is certain he has grasped it to best advantage.

Mr. Savage's new star, Raymond Hitchcock, proves the wisdom of his choice. His Abijah Boose is as new a character as was King Dodo, and it is not only a great deal funnier but it is a logical and artistic creation. Miss Flora Zabelle has a congenial rôle in Bonita, and her singing and dancing were applauded to the echo. Following close in popular favor was Rose Botti's Papinta. Harry Fairleigh sang the tenor rôle well, Hubert Wilke came in for a good share of applause, Jacques Kruger was funny as the governor, and Eva Davenport created much merriment as the stout Donna Teresa.

New York, Sept. 21.—[Special.]—Remodeled and redecorated the New York theater season opened tonight with a revival of "Ben-Hur," the spectacular play which already has delighted so many theatergoers. There was a large audience and an abundance of applause. The drama was performed with an energy which began fortissimo and subsequently became a little louder. Every one except the women shouted, stormed, and gesticulated whenever opportunity offered. J. E. Dodson as Simonides had to be calm and dignified. He succeeded also in being intense. Henry Woodruff was a gallant and handsome Ben-Hur, and Charles Mackay a satisfactory Messala. Annie Irish was attractive as Iras and Ellen Mortimer as the gentle Esther. The scenic effects were excellent, the interior of the slave galley being particularly impressive. The chariot race was found to be as exciting as of yore in spite of the fact that Ben-Hur's near horse sustained a trot throughout.

FOOLS OF NATURE.
A Comedy in Four Acts.
BY
H. V. ESMOND.
Presented at the Hyperion Theater, New Haven, Conn., by Julia Marlowe and Her Company Sept. 21, 1903. The Cast:

Sir Gregory Fielden, Bart.	Fred. Tyler
Sir James Babbicombe	Francis Kingdon
Capt. Jim Chivol	Frank Worthing
Cecil Banister	W. T. Lovell
John Hugh Percival Vesterfield, Lord Branchester	Noel Compton
Martia, Lady Branchester	Julia Marlowe
Mrs. Dan Bryson	Beverly Sitgreaves
Lady Babbicombe	Geraldine Olliffe
Mrs. Banister	Cynthia Brooke

New Haven, Conn., Sept. 21.—[Special.]—For the first time since her early career, Julia Marlowe this evening made her appearance in a society drama, presenting Henry V. Esmond's latest play, "Fools of Nature." The play scored a success, portraying, almost as strongly as Ibsen's "Ghosts," the wreckage of the victims of passion and drink. The play opens in an English country house. The first act is laid in the Jacobin tapestry room, used as a private sanctum by the owner of the house. The next represents a Henley regatta as seen from the country house lawn. The third is a lady's boudoir of the Elizabethan period. The fourth act takes place in an elegantly appointed breakfast room, with walls in chintz and with cretonne decorations.

Critics united in declaring that Miss Marlowe's support was uniformly the strongest in years. Miss Beverly Sitgreaves, Cynthia Brooke, Frank Worthing, and W. T. Lovell being accorded curtain calls at the end of each act.

Henry V. Esmond, who regards the play as the most promising since "When We Were 21," was enthusiastic over the performance tonight. He crossed the ocean to be present, and sat with Ella Wheeler and Julie Opp in a private box.

LAKE GIVES UP LOST BOY'S BODY

Companion's Story Convinces Police Arthur Eaton Ran Away and Drowned.

ON FATAL FISHING TRIP.

Albert Shupe May Be Free Today, but Detectives Seek a Fisherman.

The body of Arthur Eaton, 10 years old, who disappeared from the residence of his parents, 318 Washington boulevard, last Wednesday, was found yesterday afternoon floating in the lake at the foot of Indiana street. Albert Shupe, who was accused of luring the boy from the Skinner school on the day that he was missed, will probably be released this morning.

Cornelius Para, 13 years old, living at 366 West Van Buren street, furnished the clew that led to the finding of the body. It is believed that the Eaton boy accidentally fell into the water and was drowned.

When Detective Dawson of the Desplaines street station yesterday learned that young Para had returned after having been away from his home for three days last week he decided to question him. He found the boy at school and took him to the police station. It was Para's story which led the police to believe that Shupe was innocent. The boy's statement, which was substantiated in part by the finding of the body, was that Arthur Eaton asked him to accompany him on a fishing expedition to the lake last Wednesday.

"Come on," urged the Eaton boy, according to Para. "I have plenty of money," displaying a purse with about $4.

Buys Whisky; Falls in Lake.

The two boys went to the lake shore, where they found a fisherman who lent them his fishing tackle. Eaton, said the Para boy, showed his money and was persuaded to spend some of it for whisky. Then the fisherman built a fire and sent the Para lad for a loaf of bread.

"When I came back with the bread I could not see Arthur anywhere," said the Para boy last evening. "I asked the man where he was and he told me that he had gone for some water. I looked all along the edge of the land, but I could not find him. After awhile I got scared and started for home. Then I got afraid to go home and so stayed away until Friday night."

Detectives were sent with the boy to the lake shore, and Dawson discovered a coat floating in the water. When he attempted to drag it to the shore he found that the boy's body was still wrapped in the garment. A patrol wagon from the Central detail station took the body to Rolston's undertaking rooms, 22 Adams street, and the boy's parents were notified. They made the identification complete.

Decide That Shupe Is Innocent.

Later, at the Desplaines street station, the Para boy's story was told them, and they agreed that Shupe probably was not guilty, as they had thought. Mr. Eaton asked if it would be possible to locate the fisherman and was assured that every effort would be made to find him.

The police are inclined to the belief that when the pocketbook, which was found in Arthur Eaton's pocket, disappeared, Shupe visited the school and accused young Eaton of having taken it. Then when the boy disappeared, it is supposed, the man became frightened and attempted to shield himself from the suspicion that was directed against him by false statements. The coroner will hear the evidence this morning, and it is thought that Shupe will be released.

Detectives were ordered last night to make every effort to find the unknown fisherman. The Para boy said that he could identify him. A search last night failed to find him, but others who make the docks their headquarters said the man is known to them and that he is about the piers much of the time.

There were no marks on the body to indicate that the boy had been struck. An examination by the physicians revealed no bruises except on the face, and these are supposed to have been caused by the washing of the body against the pier.

NOW THINK OPIUM USER FIRED CAR BARN SHOTS.

Police Working on Theory That a "Dope Fiend" Aimed the Revolver—Sleuder Taken to the County Jail.

In the search for the car barn murderers the police are now working on the theory that opium steadied the nerves of the man who aimed the magazine revolver. This theory, only recently considered, has been learned, the police say, from two apparently reliable sources. Two men employed by the Chicago City railway company have furnished descriptions of a man who is believed to have been armed with the magazine gun. Both described him as having the appearance of what they styled a "dope fiend." They saw the man about the barn some time before the murder was committed.

Clyde T. Young, who is still held at the Englewood station, is said by the police to be an opium smoker, and this they say is considered to be significant that he probably has companions who are addicted to the same habit.

John Sleuder, who was held by the coroner's jury as an accessory, was taken from the Englewood police station to the county jail, where he will remain until held or discharged by the grand jury. The cell which he vacated is now occupied by Young.

BANKRUPT AND SONS GONE: CREDITORS ARE WORRIED.

Marcus Kaatz, Hat and Cap Manufacturer, Alleged to Have Disposed of Assets Before His Departure.

Marcus Kaatz, a hat and cap manufacturer at 204 Market street, is said to have disappeared with his two sons, Rudolph and Bernard, and to have converted much of his property into cash before leaving his home. Creditors have had the Royal Trust company appointed receiver in bankruptcy for the hat stock, and an effort is making to recover sufficient assets to cover an indebtedness of $80,000, incurred by the owner of the business before his disappearance.

Proceedings to have Kaatz declared bankrupt were secretly begun last Saturday. Thirty-five cases of hats, shipped to Milwaukee, were recovered and placed under the control of the federal court there.

Late in the afternoon the police had not been asked to search for the manufacturer or his sons. At the Kaatz residence, 168 Thirty-fourth street, last evening Miss Kaatz said she felt sure her father and brothers would return soon. She denied that her mother is with Kaatz.

ALSON SHERMAN HOLDS TO LIFE

Death Hourly Expected, but Aged Man's Vitality a Surprise to Attendants.

Alson S. Sherman of Waukegan surprises all by his remarkable vitality. Although his death has been expected hourly for some time he still lives and late last night it was thought he might survive until morning. It was the ninth day the aged man had been confined to his bed. He had to be constantly fanned and continued to grow weaker, but was conscious when awake. All his six living children are in close attendance upon him.

MANN ARGUES FOR CALUMET RIVER.

Congressman Corrects Mistakes Made in Reports of the Engineers.

TALKS FOR IMPROVEMENT

Believes His Argument Will Result in an Appropriation by Congress.

CALUMET RIVER—Congressman Mann argues before board of engineers for the improvement of the Calumet river and believes an appropriation will be made.

CANAL TREATY—State department officials do not expect a ratification of the Panama canal treaty by the Colombian congress and Secretary Hay will begin negotiations with Nicaragua.

POSTAL AFFAIRS—H. H. Rand, confidential secretary to Postmaster General Payne, has been dismissed for using his official position to sell stock in a mining company.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 21.—[Special.]—Representative Mann made an argument today before the board of engineers of the army in favor of improving the Calumet river above the forks. He objected to statements in the annual reports of Col. Ernst and Col. Marshall, who were opposed to the improvement, because of the large amount of filth dumped into the river at Hammond. Mr. Mann, in his brief, showed that for several years no filth has been dumped in the river at Hammond, as the starch factory, which was responsible for the dumping, was destroyed by fire some time ago, and the packing company has removed.

Mr. Mann further showed that Col. Ernst had made no investigation of the actual conditions existing before making his report, but simply copied the report of his predecessor. He argued that if the river is improved many large concerns will develop in that section of the state. He called attention to the fact that the government is now constructing at an immense expense the Illinois and Mississippi canal. It is contemplated that the traffic of this canal will reach its outlet at Lake Michigan. This outlet must be either through the Chicago river or the Calumet river, or both.

Mr. Mann's argument probably will result in an appropriation for the river, as he has corrected the error of the engineer officers, which was fatal to the improvement.

***

Speaker-to-be Cannon was among the callers at the treasury department this morning. He called on Secretary Shaw for a short time. Mr. Cannon said he had come to the city on business to remain a day or two.

All hope of the ratification of the Panama canal treaty has been adandoned, as the treaty dies tomorrow, because the time limit expires and there have been no steps looking to its extension. It would be an easy matter to secure an extension if one should be desired, but there is no disposition on the part of the administration to permit Colombia to trifle with this government any longer.

It is possible at the last moment that the Colombian congress may be stampeded in favor of the treaty, but such an outcome is not at all probable. Colombia has not yet given up hope, and some days ago Dr. Herran, chargé d'affaires, notified the department of state that his government desired an extension of time in the event of a failure of ratification, but no reply has been made. Minister Beaupre has advised the department that there is no likelihood of the treaty being ratified, and consequently Secretary Hay will not hurry to Washington. When he does return it is his intention to begin negotiation of treaties with Nicaragua and Costa Rica, so the canal can be built by the Nicaraguan route. It is said no steps in this direction would be taken until the time limit of the Panama treaty expired.

Dr. Herran said tonight that he had received nothing for several days from his government regarding the canal negotiations, and that he would make no further communications to the state department upon the subject unless specifically instructed to do so. He appeared to regard the prospect of further negotiations as quite remote, though he did not care to discuss what might come up hereafter.

H. H. Rand, confidential secretary to Postmaster General Payne, who was charged with using his official position to sell stock of a mining company of which he was an officer, has been dismissed. In fact, he was quietly dropped from the rolls June 1, since which time he has been on leave without pay.

It developed this morning that Mr. Rand was not classed as a department clerk, but as a member of the general postal service, and as such was paid from the funds in the hands of the chief of the finance division in the third assistant postmaster general's office. Much reticence was displayed by disbursing officials of the division when they were asked about Mr. Rand, but it was learned from another source that he had ceased to draw pay.

For two months there have been persistent inquiries about the presence of Mr. Rand on the part of postal employés. It was said that he was ill and in a hospital. But this morning it was said with confidence that he is at his home in Madison, Wis., and has been there for some time.

Mr. Rand was appointed from Wisconsin, where he assisted Mr. Payne in his political affairs. So strong was he with the postmaster general that the latter made a strong effort to have the chief clerkship of the department removed from the protection of the civil service rules so that Mr. Rand might get the position. In May Mr. Rand's room on the fifth floor of the postoffice department was turned over to inspectors as a workroom while preparing reports on the scandals, and since then he has not been or seen around the department.

MILK SALES IN FOUR SCHOOLS.

Bottles of Pasteurized Fluid Will Be Sent Today to Buildings in Congested Districts.

Pasteurized milk from the plant in the Thomas Hoyne school will be distributed today at three other public schools. This is the result of the agitation against the use of impure water.

The Children's Hospital society will supply two schools in the vicinity of Hull house and one near the Neighborhood house.

The milk will be in three and eight ounce bottles. The smaller size will be sold at 1 cent, which does not cover its cost. The larger size will be sold at 2 cents.

PETREL CHASES FISHING TUG.

American Boat Outruns Canadian Police Patrol and Escapes with 1,800 Pound Catch.

Erie, Pa., Sept. 21.—[Special.]—The fishing tug Silver Spray, Capt. Chris Schau, which on Aug. 4 had an encounter with the patrol boat Petrel, had another rush with the Canadian boat today. While the Spray was looking for lost nets this morning the Petrel suddenly hove into sight through the dense fog and headed directly for the fishing craft. Capt. Schau put on a full head of steam, and, after a brief chase, escaped.

YOUNG GIRL LEAVES PARENTS.

Infatuation for Stage Given as Reason for Disappearance of Carrie Seamons, 13 Years Old.

Infatuation for the stage is given by her parents as the reason for the disappearance of Carrie Seamons, 13 years old. She left her residence at 2124 Wabash avenue yesterday morning, ostensibly to go shopping. The police were asked last night to search Chicago for her.

LYNCHING INQUIRY IS ON.

ST. CLAIR COUNTY GRAND JURY SEEKS MOB MEMBERS.

Judge at Belleville, Ill., in Giving Instructions, Tells of Illegal Execution of Negro Wyatt and Insists That All Who Took Part in Crime Be Indicted—Full Justice Promised for All Who Are Proven Guilty—Summary Vengeance Denounced.

Belleville, Ill., Sept. 21.—[Special.]—The St. Clair county grand jury today began an investigation into the lynching of the negro David S. Wyatt in this city last June, following his murderous assault upon Superintendent of Schools Charles Hertel. Over 100 witnesses have been summoned by the jurors, who are being assisted by State's Attorney Farmer and Sheriff Thompson.

"I have learned through the press and other sources that the school superintendent of this county was murderously assaulted last June, and that the party who committed the assault was a negro, who was immediately arrested and placed in the county jail, and that a few hours thereafter a lot of illadvised persons took him out of the county jail and lynched him on the public square of this city.

Wants All Guilty Indicted.

"The lynching of the negro was unfortunate, illegal, and ill advised. I do not know who participated in this lynching, but it is your duty to investigate fully, honestly, and according to your oath, and if by any means you get evidence against any of the persons who were guilty of the crime you should indict them that they may be brought for trial before the bar of this court.

"Any taking of human life other than as prescribed and sanctioned by law for the gravest of all criminal offenses is an offense against the highest form of law, and it is no less a grave offense when committed by many persons or by one. It is the boast of our people that the law can be and is enforced, and it is your duty in every particular to enforce it. The taking of the law into the hands of individuals is illegal, unfortunate, and has the most evil effects. The judge of this court is powerless to punish those who are guilty of such an offense, or any other offense, unless indictments are rendered first by the grand jury and the defendants are found guilty by a petit jury."

Asks Punishment for Lynching.

Wilmington, Del., Sept. 21.—Chief Justice Lore of the Delaware Supreme court today delivered a strong charge to the grand jury which is considering the criminal work of the county courts. After reciting the details of the murder on June 15 of Helen Bishop by George White and the subsequent lynching of White by a mob, Justice Lore said:

"The crime of George White and his punishment are not before us. Upon his body human vengeance has done its work. If the matter concerned George White alone, there would be nothing left for our consideration. But for the first time the lawless and revolting crime of lynching has invaded this state.

"Lynching is a crime against the law of both God and man. Every willful participant in such an act is a murderer. No person has a right to commit that crime because he believes or fears that some other person who is entrusted with the execution of the law will fail or has failed in the performance of his duty.

"In obedience to the oath you have taken and to your duty to your state, we ask you to so act that the crime of lynching may be suppressed in this state, so far as by your action that end may be attained, and that the perpetrators of this crime, and the authors of the disgrace that has come upon us through their crime, shall be dealt with according to their just merits."

PHILADELPHIA PRESBYTERY HITS BOOKER WASHINGTON.

Methods of Tuskegee Institute and Its Founder Declared Inadequate to Solve the Negro Problem.

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 21.—[Special.]—The members of the presbytery of Philadelphia were plunged into a heated discussion over the industrial and religious training of the negro at the fall meeting today. In the course of the debate Booker T. Washington and his methods were criticised severely.

The question was brought up through the report of the freedman committee, of which the Rev. J. Calvin Meade is chairman. Many clergymen were much aroused over the report, and they dealt with the founder of the Tuskegee institute in no uncertain terms. The report said:

"Through the influence of Booker T. Washington and the representatives of Lincoln university, as well as through the efforts of the presbytery, an increase of interest in this board is noticeable. Public sentiment also is becoming more intersted in the race problem. While it has increased interest it also has, in some cases, decreased sympathy for the negro, and every effort is needed to convert public interest into practical sympathy.

"The animal taint in the negro is prominent and this discourages many well wishers of the negro. Which is the better protection to the virtue of woman, the stake or the gospel? We believe the gospel, and that instead of arguing against the Christian education of the negro his crimes should appeal to us to use the gospel more extensively as the chief protection against the ravager.

"We recommend, first: 'That it be the sentiment of the presbytery that no mission field is of more vital importance to America today than the mission to freedmen.'

"The presbytery deplores any and all mob violence."

He Is Killed by Train at Hegewisch While Hurrying Home to His Supper.

His haste to reach home in time for supper cost the life of John Westlich of Hegewisch yesterday. He was at Hammond and boarded a freight train, saying it was quicker than to wait for a passenger train. In attempting to alight near his home he fell under the wheels and was instantly killed.

William Coleman of Beverly Heights, found unconscious Sunday on the tracks of the Northwestern railroad near Highland Park, died yesterday at St. Luke's hospital. It is believed he was struck by a passenger train.

William J. Fields, while driving an express wagon in Clark street, between Carmen and Winnemac avenues, early yesterday morning was run down by a north bound Clark street electric car. He may die. He is married and lives in Evanston.

BANKRUPT BY AN OVERSIGHT.

Four Per Cent Interest in a Company Involves J. B. Rightmire and His Son in Trouble.

Until thirty days ago J. B. Rightmire and his son, R. A. Rightmire, constituted the firm of Rightmire & Co., and operated a retail hat store at 173 Wabash avenue. A Philadelphia hat concern acquired the good will, stock, fixtures, and the lease on the store. The former owners retained 4 per cent of the stock of the company it was proposed to incorporate. The new concern acquired a large claim due Bloom & Koch of New York, manufacturers of straw hats. In the completion of the new company it was overlooked, and the eastern concern had a receiver named. Now the two Rightmires, who legally are bankrupts, are wondering how their injured credit can be patched up.

WANT CLEVELAND TO AID M'CLELLAN

Tammany Leaders Hope for Letter of Indorsement from Ex-President.

UNIQUE POLICE SYSTEM.

Watchmen Covering 2,500 Miles of Erie Road Brought Into Closer Relations.

Expect Cleveland to Indorse Col. McClellan.

Col. George B. McClellan, Tammany's slated candidate for the mayoralty nomination, announced today that he is going to Princeton this week, permitting the inference to be drawn that he would see ex-President Cleveland by prearrangement while there. The following facts may be stated with respect to Col. McClellan's plan:

It was formed last April at a conference between Charles F. Murphy, Tammany leader, a few of his intimate associates, and ex-Senator Smith of New Jersey. At this conference ex-Senator Smith proposed that after Col. McClellan was nominated for mayor by Tammany a letter should be procured from Cleveland indorsing Col. McClellan's candidacy, and that Tammany should immediately after Col. McClellan's election indorse Cleveland's candidacy, presuming Cleveland could be induced to become a candidate for the presidency.

Murphy gave unqualified, enthusiastic promises to ex-Senator Smith with respect to Tammany's part in this program. It was said this afternoon by a Tammany man who knows all about the Murphy-Smith conference that Smith gave his personal assurances that he would procure such a letter from Cleveland. Murphy accepted these assurances and believes Smith stands ready to carry them out. Some of Murphy's friends said this afternoon that the Tammany leader expects Cleveland to become sponsor for McClellan. Some express disapproval of the neglect of President Roosevelt to mention Gen. McClellan in his Antietam speech. Cleveland's friends here, it is said, are not pleased with the plan.

Republican National Committeeman for New York Fred S. Gibbs died at 12:30 o'clock today at his summer house at Asbury Park, N. J. He had given directions concerning his plans to return to New York only a short time before, and everything was to be in readiness for his departure in a few days.

Makes New Rules for Railroad Police.

Under the direction of Gen. George J. Schoeffel, once head of a brigade of the Minnesota national guard, the entire police force of special officers and watchmen, numbering more than 200, are being reorganized over 2,500 miles of the Erie railroad. According to the plans outlined by Gen. Schoeffel, which were received from the printer today, the organization will be along the same lines as those governing police departments in large municipalities in the United States. Most of the rules were taken from the police department in this city. What are known as watchmen will be considered in the same class as patrolmen in this city. Then there are inspectors, captains, lieutenants, and sergeants. The same kind of reports are to be made by every man as required of every well organized city police force. Accurate blotters will be kept in each division or precinct.

Young Man Takes His Life in a Hotel.

John D. Kilpatrick, a young man from the west, shot himself through the heart this morning in his apartments at the Hotel Martinique. The only reason his friends can ascribe for the act is that the young man worried about his health. He had lately returned from a sanitarium at Mount Clemens, Mich., where he had been under treatment for kidney trouble. Kilpatrick had torn up some letters, the scraps of which were strewn about the floor. Coroner Brown has these scraps, but they have not been pieced together. J. Edward Lambie, Kilpatrick's step-father, president of the New York Export and Import company, went to the hotel in company with Homer Hole of the firm of W. N. Coler & Co., who had been a chum of Kilpatrick at the University of Michigan. They could give no reason for the suicide other than ill health. Kilpatrick inherited a comfortable fortune from his father, David Kilpatrick of Beatrice, Neb., who had been a railroad contractor.

Woman Does Work of Her Husband.

Mrs. Lizzie Maschinski of Jersey City, owns the house in which she and her husband, John Maschinski, reside. When she bought it the rear of the cottage was painted yellow. She did not like that color and asked her husband, who is a painter, to repaint the rear and make it green. He said he would, but procrastinated it until his wife became weary. Today she donned a suit of her husband's clothes, brought out some green paint from the cellar, borrowed a ladder, and proceeded to make the rear of the cottage a lovely emerald hue. Her neighbors encouraged her as she proceeded and told her she was a better painter than her husband. Some of them even advised her to take up her husband's work and let him stop at home to attend the housework.

Claims Damages from Billposting Trust.

Sam W. Hoke, an advertising and poster agent of this city, today filed a complaint in the United States Circuit court against the Associated Bill Posters and Distributers of the United States and Canada, in which he claims $60,000 damages from them on the ground that the association is an illegal trust and combination, operating in violation of the federal anti-trust law.

Carrie Nation Gives Home for Drunkards' Wives.

Mrs. Carrie Nation today deeded over certain valuable property to a charitable organization in Kansas. She is now writing a play, in which she will appear herself as the "defender of homes," and advocate total abstinence. The property Mrs. Nation surrendered consists of a building and about two acres of land in Kansas City, Kas. She turned it over to the Associated Charities of Wyandotte county, Kas., to be used as a home for the destitute wives, mothers, and children of drunkards, to the exclusion of all others.

Trachoma Affects Thousands of School Children.

Prevalence of trachoma in New York, over 100,000 cases of this disease of the eye having been reported, has resulted in the determination of the board of health to establish a hospital for its exclusive treatment. It has been found that the majority of cases are among the public school children, 19 per cent of the children being affected.

Tobacco Case Goes to Court of Errors.

Chancellor Magie, at Trenton, N. J., today filed an opinion granting a stay in connection with the proceedings instituted by Edwin A. McAlpin and others against the Universal Tobacco company. This stay prohibits the examination of the tobacco company's books pending an appeal to the court of errors and appeals from the decision of Vice Chancellor Pitney.

PEACE THEIR CHIEF AIM.

DEMOCRATS MAKE HARMONY OVERSHADOW EVERYTHING.

Warring Factions Are Coming to Terms and Will Join in Maintaining Headquarters for Centennial Visitors—Greatest Barrier the Enmity Between Hopkins and Mayor, but Harrison Is Ready to Bury Hatchet—Anson and Farrell to Receive Guests

While the Chicago Democracy was busy yesterday opening headquarters for centennial week, a number of chiefs in both camps were aiding in the harmony movement. The executive committee met in Commissioner Blocki's office and announced that peace had been proclaimed, and that the warring factions were getting together.

As evidence that the war is over it was said all factions would join in maintaining the headquarters and entertaining visiting democrats during the centennial festivities.

The organization will invite congressmen, chairmen, and secretaries of county and district committees and other prominent men of the party in Illinois and adjoining states. It will entertain them so well as to end all bitterness.

Harmony the Greatest Issue.

The great issue is harmony. It overshadows every other question, and until good feeling is established little of anything else will be considered. Mayor Harrison's friends say he will meet the opposition more than halfway. It is understood overtures came from him. It is claimed that John P. Hopkins, George E. Brennan, and Roger C. Sullivan visited the mayor in the Huron mountain country last July and paved the way there for a democratic love feast.

It is generally understood that the greatest barrier is the enmity between Hopkins and the mayor. "Let them meet and shake hands," said an influential Chicago democrat, "and harmony will quickly be restored. Democrats through the state swear by John P. Hopkins, because he runs the state committee without calling on them for money.

"Harrison is ambitious to become a factor in national politics. He is tired of the mayoralty. Without the friendship and support of the state machine, which Mr. Hopkins dominates, he cannot hope to accomplish anything outside of Chicago."

With a united party in his state and a solid delegation behind him, it is claimed he would be the most available democrat in the country for second place on the national ticket.

County Enters Into Plan.

Other leaders when talking harmony have the county ticket in view. They argue that the republican party here is bound to be split up next year unless Lorimer leaves Chicago, and add:

"If we democrats are wise we will bury our factional quarrels, stand together, and elect our county ticket."

The Chicago Democracy, the new Tammany, will do all it can. Its eagerness was demonstrated yesterday when the executive committee opened headquarters at the Palmer house. The jubilee celebration does not begin until next Saturday, so the committee is starting early. Large placards were posted about the lobby calling attention to the headquarters and their location.

A. C. Anson and James H. Farrell will be in charge. They are to have a corps of assistants every day and night to show the visitors the city. Automobile excursions, theater parties, and other amusements are being arranged.

MUST EXPLAIN BALLOT MARKS.

Five Election Officials of First Precinct in Twenty-ninth Ward Summoned for Irregularities.

Five election judges and clerks of the First precinct of the Twenty-ninth ward must appear before Judge Carter Thursday morning to explain irregularities in the marking of ballots cast for county commissioners at the last election.

On fourteen ballots a cross is marked in ink either in the prohibition, single tax, socialist labor, or republican circle. This cross has been marked out in pencil and a new cross has been placed in the democratic circle.

J. Thompson, democratic clerk, 4706 Halsted street.

On the official returns the precincts went 45 republican to 218 democratic, each candidate for county commissioner getting the same vote as his colleagues.

The recount in the ward shows that democrats lost heavily, as follows: Organ, 106 votes; Daley, 116; Engels, 155; Crituse, 129; Flannagan, 92; Thielen, 124; Gallagher, 125; Grein, 122; Vavricek, 84; Budinger, 70. The republican losses in the ward range from forty-nine for Belmont to seventy for Raggio.

GUARD BEATEN AND GAGGED IN EXPRESS TREASURE CAR.

Nonunion Truckman Unconscious for Hours After Attack by Two Men, Alleged to Have Been Inspired by Union

Knocked down and gagged in an express car, William Gaughran, a nonunion truckman employed by the American Express company, remained unconscious from 8:30 o'clock Sunday evening until early yesterday morning. When he left St. Luke's hospital he was unable to give the motive of his assailants.

The attack was made in a Michigan Central car at Fourteenth street and Indiana avenue. Gaughran was in charge of the car until the arrival of George Hall, express messenger, who placed $25,000 in the safes. The train was to leave at 8:30 a. m., but on other nights it left at 9:30 o'clock. Gaughran was working in the car when two men entered and assaulted him. He was found an hour later when the express messenger came.

The express officials discredit the theory that the motive for the attack was robbery. They say Gaughran was assaulted because he was not a member of the labor union.

MURDERED WOMAN IS BURIED.

Crowd at Funeral of Mrs. Spilka—Mrs. Pesant Sees Husband for First Time Since Arrest.

While the funeral of Mrs. Mary Spilka was being held yesterday Mrs. Louis Pesant was admitted for the first time to the cell occupied by the murderer, her husband. She assured her husband of her loyalty to him and promised to do her best to aid in his defense.

During the funeral at the Spilka home, 358 West Eighteenth street, a large crowd gathered in the street. The people became demonstrative, and the throng finally was dispersed by the police.

After the ceremony a long procession of carriages headed by the police started for the Bohemian National cemetery, where the body of the dead woman was interred.

LIPTON TO GO DRIVING TODAY.

Able to Sit Up in His Room at the Hotel, but He Is Denied to All Callers.

As an indication of the progress of Sir Thomas Lipton's recovery his secretary, John Westwood, said last night that if no unfavorable symptom occurred the baronet would probably take a short drive today. Sir Thomas was able to sit up for a short time yesterday at his room in the Annex hotel, but was still denied to callers.

FORGETS SAD EXPERIENCE: TRIES WEDDED LIFE AGAIN.

Dentist Who Likened Divorced Wife to an Aching Tooth Is Once More a Bridegroom.

Dr. J. W. Slonaker, the dentist who sued for divorce and asserted that his wife reminded him of an aching molar, evidently has wearied of a toothacheless life. Cards were issued yesterday announcing the marriage of Dr. Slonaker and Miss Anna Martin, who lived with her sister, Mrs. John W. Northrup, 3808 Grand boulevard. The ceremony was performed at the parsonage at 3911 Grand boulevard by the Rev. Dr. C. B. McAfee last Saturday evening.

Few of the acquaintances of the contracting parties knew of the wedding until yesterday. Dr. C. N. Garrett was groomsman and Miss Frances Coon, a niece of the bride, was maid of honor. The couple left for the east immediately after the ceremony.

Dr. Slonaker was granted a divorce from his first wife in the spring of 1902. His bill of particulars was filed with unusual charges against his wife. He itemized his charges as follows:

August, 1893—Wife kicked him, causing much pain.

September, 1899—Wife expectorated upon him, and asserted she did not love him.

May, 1901—Wife kicked him and abused him until 2:30 a. m.

SAYS DENTIST IS INFATUATED.

Wife Applies for Divorce from Dr. Lelan Otis Green and Names E. Barlow as Corespondent.

His infatuation for a woman named in the bill as E. Barlow is given by Mrs. Clara A. Green as ground for a divorce from Dr. Lelan Otis Green. Mrs. Green avers her husband receives $300 a month from his dental practice. She asks the custody of their two children and alimony.

Husband Absent at Night.—Because he staid away from home at night and did not tell his wife where he was, and because he beat her on his return, Mrs. Anna M. Cochrane, 224 East Thirty-seventh street, secured a divorce from Robert M. Cochrane, a superintendent in the street cleaning department.

Carbolic Acid in Evidence.—His face burned with carbolic acid, William J. McGovern applied for a divorce from Mrs. Annie J. McGovern, whom he accuses of disfiguring him during a fit of jealousy. He also charges desertion. They have a daughter, 16 years old, whose custody McGovern asks.

Deserted in An Hour.—One hour after their marriage on Jan. 16, 1901, William W. Plunkett left his bride to find a boarding place in Bloomington, Ill. He has not returned yet, Mrs. Plunkett says, so she has applied for a divorce.

Deserted for Eight Years.—Mrs. Minnie J. Vorhees desires the court to release her from Frank Vorhees, to whom she was married on Jan. 22, 1892. She alleges her husband deserted her on March 1, 1895. They have two children.

DAY TO BE BURIED TOMORROW.

Funeral of "Best Dressed Man in Chicago" Will Be from Quarters of Knights Templar.

The funeral of Joseph L. Day, who died suddenly yesterday morning at the Auditorium hotel, will be held tomorrow afternoon from the rooms of Apollo commandery, Knights Templar, 78 Monroe street. The burial will be in Rosehill cemetery, where Mrs. Day was buried six year ago.

Mr. Day was born in Auburn, N. Y., March 20, 1839. He enlisted at the beginning of the civil war and for fourteen months was a prisoner in Camp Ford, Tyler, Tex. He escaped, after forging a pass for himself and for J. W. Arnold of Chicago. Both men were recaptured and barely escaped being hanged. Mr. Day's bravery in capturing a field piece was rewarded by a vote of congress.

"Col." Day, who was known as the "best dressed man" in Chicago, visited the Washington Park clubhouse on Sunday afternoon. In the evening he walked back to the hotel, almost seven miles.

"I do not get enough walking, but I am going to do more of it," he said on his return. An hour later he was dead.

PIONEER ARCHITECT IS DEAD.

John Redpath McLean Succumbs to Paralytic Stroke at Age of 75 Years.

John Redpath McLean, an architect identified with building operations in and near Chicago for fifty-five years, died yesterday at the county hospital. Death followed a paralytic stroke last Friday.

Mr. McLean was born in Scotland 75 years ago, and came to America with his parents. He arrived in Chicago in 1848 and at once engaged in construction work, designing many public buildings erected before the fire. In later years he designed country homes at Winnetka, Glencoe, and Evanston.

For a score of years Mr. McLean was a resident of the latter suburb, but for some time he had resided with his son, Harry B. McLean, 506 Park avenue. He left three other children, Robert C. McLean, Mrs. Bryan F. Seelye, and Mrs. George C. Cobb. His widow is on her way home from Nebraska.

The funeral will be from the residence of H. B. McLean tomorrow, with burial in Rosehill.

OBITUARY.

W. H. SMITH, Chicago, died yesterday at his residence, 205 Illinois street, aged 56 years. Mr. Smith came to Chicago from Brooklyn and began work as a newsboy. For twenty years he acted as circulator for Chicago newspapers, leaving to engage in the liquor business at State and Erie streets. Mr. Smith left a widow, one son, Fred H. Smith, and three daughters, Adelyn and Roberta Smith and Mrs. William Hight. Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

CAME NEAR DYING

CURED BY CUTICURA

"When my little boy was about three months old his head broke out with a rash, which was very itchy and ran considerable watery fluid. We tried everything we could, but he got worse all the time till it spread to his arms, legs, and then to his entire body, and he got so bad that he came near dying. The rash would itch so that he would scratch till the blood ran, and a thin yellowish stuff would be all over his pillow in the morning. I had to put mittens on his hands to keep him from tearing his skin around his wrists. He got so weak and run down that he took fainting spells like we would think him dying. He was almost a skeleton and his little hands were thin like claws.

"He was bad about eight months when we tried Cuticura Remedies. I had not laid him down in his cradle in the daytime for a long time. He had got so that he just slept in our arms all the time. I washed him with Cuticura Soap and put on one application of Cuticura and he was so soothed that I put him in the cradle. You don't know how glad I felt when he felt better. It took one box of Cuticura Ointment, pretty near one cake of Cuticura Soap, and about half a bottle of Cuticura Resolvent to cure. I think our little boy would have died only for the Cuticura Remedies, and I shall always remain a firm friend of them."

TURK ASKS FOR BULGARIA'S AID

Sultan Said to Have Appealed for Help in Averting a Conflict.

TERMS ARE LAID DOWN.

Amnesty, Protection to Villagers, Withdrawal of Troops, Asked by Balkan States.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Sept. 21.—It is stated unofficially Turkey has appealed to Bulgaria for the latter's assistance in settling the Macedonian insurrection and averting war.

The Dnevik, which prints the report, says that in reply to the Turkish note Bulgaria laid down the following conditions:

1. Turkey to end massacres and withdraw troops from the frontier.
2. Sultan to guarantee protection to villagers desiring to return to their homes.
3. Amnesty to political offenders.
4. Such governmental reforms as will pacify Macedonia and Adrianople.

The Bulgarian reply, it is asserted, concluded with the following:

"If the present situation continues the Bulgarian government will be compelled to yield to public opinion and send an army to the frontier."

Turks Lose 500 in Battle.

News of a notable success by Bulgarian insurgents reaches Sofia from Rila today. On the 16th of September 1,000 Turkish troops surrounded the village of Perin, near Melnik, sixty-five miles from Salonica, and attacked the bands under Steinoff and Dervingoff, who had taken up a position there. The latter were reinforced by the bands commanded by Yankoff and Zontcheff, and the combined insurgent forces turned on the Turks and completely annihilated them. One Turkish commander was captured. The Turks are said to have lost 500 men in killed and wounded.

It is further reported here that 500 Turks have been killed with dynamite while fighting against a body of insurgents in the Kresna defile.

According to information received at revolutionary headquarters from Monastir, 120 persons perished in the flames of their burning villages, near Kastoria, and more than 1,200 bodies of women and children are said to be lying unburied in the fields and on the roadsides around that place.

Servia Threatens Turkey.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 21.—The Servian government's reply to Turkey's representations says measures have been taken to prevent bands entering Macedonia, and that a strong band, which was preparing to cross the frontier, has already been dispersed.

The Servian reply adds, however, that if the persecution of Christians and the excesses of the Turkish troops continue and serious reforms are not introduced the government will be unable to restrain the popular agitation in Servia.

Reshid Pasha's Promotion.

The unfavorable comment aroused by the appointment of Reshid Pasha, the former vali of Beirut, to be vali of Brusa, which is really a promotion, continues. The action of the porte in this connection is regarded here as a challenge to the representatives of the powers, especially to the American minister, who, it is thought, is likely to protest, and may possibly demand Reshid Pasha's recall from Brusa, in the interests of the American educational establishment in that vilayet.

America Urged to Protest.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 21.—Communications have reached the state department urging this government to say or do something that will put a stop to the atrocities in Turkey. It is said that this pressure does not emanate from the missionaries. Officials at the state department are reticent about the probability of the United States giving expression to the feeling with which the alleged atrocities in Turkey are viewed by the people of the United States, but they say that reports from Turkey show that the deeds daily perpetrated in sections of that country are of such a character as to shock civilization, and necessarily are of deep concern to the United States.

Sultan's Slight to America.

The state department still has under consideration the matter of the appointment of the retiring vali of Beirut to be vali of Brusa. At present the officials are disposed to regard the appointment in the light of a transfer rather than a promotion, but a further inquiry into the facts by Minister Leishman may change this view of the case.

Turkey Short of Officers.

SALONICA, European Turkey, Sept. 21.—Orders have been received here from Constantinople to promote all sergeant majors to the rank of sublieutenants, owing to the scarcity of officers in view of the complete mobilization of the Turkish army.

BUYS A CASTLE IN IRELAND.

Duke of Manchester Pays $315,000 for Kylemore and an Estate of 13,000 Acres.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]
[Copyright: 1903: By the New York Herald.]

LONDON, Sept. 21.—Kylemore castle and the estate of 13,000 acres in Connemara, Ireland, have been purchased for $315,000 by the duke of Manchester from Mitchell Henry, the former member of parliament for Galway. Possession was given yesterday. The castle was built by Henry in 1864. It is a handsome pile of granite, with limestone facings and chimney pieces of Connemara marble. It took seven years to complete it and its cost was $2,500,000. It was Kylemore which Dr. J. L. F. MacNamara sought recently to have bought and presented to the queen as a gift from the Irish nation. Towards this he wrote to the Daily Mail offering to start the fund with $5,000.

SERVIAN PLOT IS WIDESPREAD.

One Thousand Officers of the 1,500 in the Army in Conspiracy Against the Regicides.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, Sept. 22, 3 a. m.—The Times correspondent at Belgrade says the military conspiracy at Nish directed against the regicides is far graver than the government dare acknowledge. Of a total of 1,500 officers 1,000 are said to be concerned in it, and probably the bulk of the nation secretly sympathizes with them. The clique of assassins, however, holds all the chief civil and military offices and the keys of the arsenal and the treasury. The king is surrounded and under the rule of the assassins, and many doubt if he will ever shake himself free.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

PARIS, Sept. 21.—M. Larbardesque, the notorious duelist, has been appointed commander of military forces by Jacques Lebaudy, "emperor of Sahara," and he has had his cards printed, inscribed, "Commander-in-chief of the armies of his majesty, Jacques I., emperor of Sahara." He has designed a gorgeous uniform, in which he has been seen more than once on the boulevards. It consists of a great slouch hat with plumes, a long red mantle, blue vest, white breeches, and brown top boots.

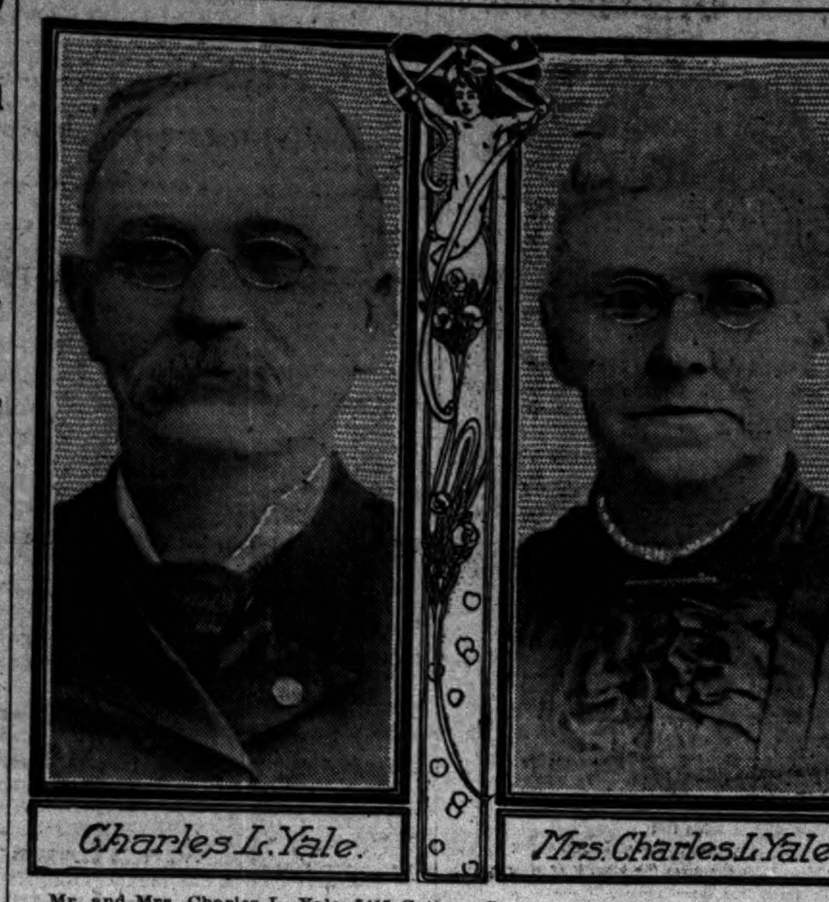
GOLDEN WEDDING OF ILLINOIS PIONEERS.



Charles L. Yale. Mrs. Charles L. Yale.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Yale, 5415 Cottage Grove avenue, observed the fiftieth anniversary of their marriage yesterday afternoon at the residence of their daughter, Mrs. Frank B. May, 3760 Rhodes avenue. Both were born in Providence, R. I., and they met only a few years before their marriage in Delavan, Ill. Mrs. Yale, who was Caroline A. Cheever, had come from New England with her family in 1850 across the prairies. Mr. Yale emigrated to Illinois with his parents while a boy. He met Miss Cheever, and the marriage took place on Sept. 21, 1853. Delavan was the home of Mr. and Mrs. Yale until 1887, when they came to Chicago. Five of their children are living. Mr. Yale is a veteran of the civil war, having served three years in company B, Seventy-third regiment Illinois volunteers. He recalls with interest his surroundings at old Camp Douglas, when stationed there in 1864. Among Mr. Yale's earlier reminiscences is the agitation of the slavery question in southern Illinois, when Elijah Parish Lovejoy, the Alton editor, advocated his principles in the Observer, resulting in his murder and the seizure of the press by a mob. This was closely guarded several days and nights by anti-slavery men, among whom was Mr. Yale's father, J. R. Yale.

CHAMBERLAIN'S NEW IDEA

EX-CABINET MINISTER IS AFTER WORKINGMAN'S VOTE.

Former Secretary for the Colonies Said to Have Decided to Make a Campaign in Favor of the Addition of a Secretary for Labor to the Ministry—Will Work in Conjunction with the Foreign Office—Vacancies May Be Filled.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, Sept. 22, 3 a. m.—The Daily Chronicle asserts that Mr. Chamberlain, in addition to offering a large reduction in duties on certain commodities to balance the imposition of taxes on others, will try to get the support of workingmen by courting the support of labor unionists by advocating the establishment of a ministry of labor, which will work in connection with the foreign office and the board of trade. It will be the duty of the minister of labor to ascertain the conditions under which goods are produced in foreign countries. If they come from places where "sweating" or low wages or long hours prevail, they will be subjected to higher duty.

It is stated unofficially that the duke of Devonshire definitely has decided to support Balfour's retaliation policy, and that a majority of the unionist free traders are likely to do the same, but speculations on the subject, like forecasts in regard to the new ministers, have not received any solid confirmation.

Cabinet May Be Filled.

It is believed that the vacant places in the cabinet have been filled, with King Edward's approval, although official confirmation is lacking. The new appointments are said to be as follows:

Austen Chamberlain, now postmaster general, to be chancellor of the exchequer, in succession to Charles T. Ritchie.

Mr. Arnold-Forster, now secretary to the admiralty, to be secretary for war, in succession to William St. John Brodrick.

Mr. Brodrick, now secretary for war, to be secretary for India, in succession to Lord George Hamilton.

Milner May Be in It.

It is known that Lord Milner, the British high commissioner of south Africa, was offered the colonial secretaryship, and the delay in announcing the new nominations may be due to the fact that he is still considering the offer. If he accepts Lord Selborne will remain at the admiralty to carry out the reforms he has inaugurated.

Position of Irish Party.

The question of the support of the nationalist party for the new fiscal policy of retaliation is said to be the subject of negotiations between the government and the Irish leaders. It is reported that Chief Irish Secretary Wyndham is offering a concession in the shape of a Roman Catholic college at Dublin, while the nationalists, on the other hand, are demanding a measure of local self-government as the price of their support. Whether or not these statements are well founded, it appears clear that the nationalists intend to use the cabinet crisis as a lever.

Guns in Philippine Village Seized and Guards Released—Soldiers and Natives Fight on Lake.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

MANILA, Sept. 21.—A band of ladrones captured the police force of the village of Taisan, in the province of Batangas. The police offered no resistance and were released after the entire equipment of nine guns was confiscated. A detachment of the Twenty-eighth infantry fought an engagement with a band of fanatics in the Lake Lanao section of Mindanao. Both sides were aboard boats on the lake. The troops lost Private O. H. Barnett killed and two wounded, the latter including a friendly datto. Three fanatics were killed and several were wounded. One of the leaders of the enemy, a priest, single handed attacked a boat load of soldiers. He was killed.

TALKS 5 DAYS FOR CANADA

BRITISH ATTORNEY STILL ADDRESSING ALASKA COMMISSION.

Gen. Finlay Contends That the Boundary Must Be from the Head of Portland Canal to the Fifty-sixth Parallel, by the Shortest Possible Line—Discusses the Definition of Territorial Water—Reads Extensively from Russian Correspondence.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, Sept. 21.—Attorney General Finlay began the fifth day of his argument before the Alaskan boundary commission today, devoting the morning to a discussion of the contention of Great Britain that a line from the head of Portland canal to the fifty-sixth parallel will be the shortest possible to the point on that parallel which the tribunal decides to be the starting point of the eastern boundary of the lisiere. He showed that by the United States maps of 1894-'95 the United States boundary of Alaska measured ten marine leagues from the mouth of the Taku inlets. He quoted considerable correspondence on this point.

Regarding the question of what constitutes territorial water the attorney general read the Russian correspondence to show that Russia considered the mouths of the inlets as a part of the ocean and the heads of the inlets within the continent.

He instanced the method of measuring the three mile fishing limit and said he had received thereon the welcome suggestion that the Norwegian commissioner in the Bering sea controversy had said that fiords sometimes running 100 miles from the sea were considered territorial waters.

Lord Chief Justice Alverstone pointed out to the attorney general how, owing to the geographical peculiarities of Alaska, it would be difficult to apply general principles as to territorial waters. Sir Robert Finlay agreed to this view, and then quoted from American sources to the effect that drawing the line as the United States contended, by following the sinuosities of the coast, was an impossibility. The barrier which the United States claimed could not be broken, because if Canada had the heads of the inlets she only had the right to "innocent passage," while the United States had control of the mouths of the inlets, thus maintaining the barrier.

PLIGHT OF BERLIN REPORTER.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

BERLIN, Sept. 21.—After having been under arrest for a fortnight, Herr Rehbein, a reporter for the socialist newspaper Vorwaerts, has been released without trial.

A soldier informed Rehbein about certain cases of maltreatment of men in the service. Instead of publishing the story, Rehbein informed the military authorities, but because he refused to give the name of his informant he was arrested.

The indignation over his arrest is widespread, and is voiced particularly by newspapers representing the middle class, which complain that the government, by its blunders, is constantly recruiting the forces of the socialists.

"HUSH MONEY" IN A SUIT.

DRUGGISTS THUS CHARGE WILHELM BODEMANN.

A. C. Brendecke and Alfred Dahlberg in Bill for Injunction Declare State Board of Pharmacy President Asked How Much They Would Pay to Avoid Prosecutions for Cocaine Sales—Claim That Action Against Them Is Malicious—Denial for Accused Man.

Charges of malicious prosecution and of soliciting "hush money" were made yesterday against Wilhelm Bodemann, president of the state board of pharmacy. In a bill for injunction Adolph C. Brendecke and Alfred Dahlberg, proprietors of the Central pharmacy, 242 West Randolph street, accuse Bodemann of offering, for a money consideration, to discontinue the cases charging them with selling cocaine unlawfully.

The druggists declare that Bodemann's prosecutions have been part of a program of persecution to drive them out of business. Furthermore, they accuse the official of securing "fake" evidence, the drug sold, they say, being not cocaine but "flake," a low quality of opium.

Says Hush Money Was Asked.

The bill is directed against Bodemann, William Henry Sage, and the state board of pharmacy, and asks that the court restrain the defendants from any further prosecutions of the Central pharmacy in the justice courts.

According to the bill Bodemann notified Brendecke and Dahlberg last February that they were violating the statute in regard to the sale of cocaine. Bodemann is then said to have sought an interview with Brendecke, in the course of which he asked the druggist how much money he would be willing to pay to avoid prosecution.

"I then informed Bodemann," said Brendecke, "that we had never sold cocaine except on prescription and I gave him to understand that we would not subject ourselves or our corporation to any extortion."

Several Suits Are Brought.

On July 31 four suits were begun against the Central pharmacy by Bodemann in Justice Charlton's court. Three of the suits were dismissed, but in the fourth case Brendecke was fined $50. Later a second batch of cases was filed in various justice courts, and finally Dahlberg, on complaint of Sage, it is alleged, was arrested and locked up at the Desplaines street police station. The chief witness for the prosecution before Justice Charlton is said to have been a person known on the levee as "King." The witness said he bought cocaine at the Central pharmacy without a prescription.

Denial for Accused Official.

Mr. Bodemann could not be found last evening, but his secretary, A. H. Schroeder, volunteered to discuss the case, with the authority of his superior.

"The case as set forth in the injunction bill," said he, "is their side of the story only. Mr. Bodemann never solicited such a bribe, and, in fact, never had the interview with Brendecke which is alleged. The druggists have been offenders in the matter of selling cocaine, and Mr. Bodemann is determined to prosecute them till they obey the law."

ODDFELLOWS' REPORTS SHOW GREAT GROWTH.

Receipts Amount to $11,553,905.29 and $3,893,220.03 Is Spent in Relief Work—Want Ritual Changed.

Baltimore, Md., Sept. 21.—The opening exercises of the annual convention of the Sovereign Grand Lodge of Odd Fellows began here this morning at 9 o'clock in Ford's opera house. Grand Master Edward Rossman of the grand lodge of Maryland delivered an address of welcome, which was responded to by Gov. John Walter Smith on the part of Maryland and Mayor Robert M. McLane for Baltimore.

Subordinate lodge membership, Dec. 31, 1902, 1,069,906; encampment membership, 154,950; Rebekah lodge membership, brothers 151,195, sisters 258,850, add Australasia (sex not given), 1,914, making total Rebekah membership 411,955. Patriarchs Militant membership, 17,754.

At the meeting today of the Patriarchs Militant a resolution was adopted to permit the militant branch of the order to recruit its forces from subordinate lodges. The resolution will be presented to the sovereign grand lodge, the acceptance by the latter being required before it becomes a law.

Another matter acted upon was a resolution requesting the sovereign grand lodge to authorize the revision of the standard Patriarchs Militant volume.

UNIVERSITY BUYS SOUTH OF MIDWAY

SITE FOR RUSH COLLEGE.

Transfers Recorded Thought to Indicate That Purchases Are Complete.

The University of Chicago has added $1,000,000 worth of real estate to its holdings on the south side of the Midway plaisance, between Madison and Cottage Grove avenues. The property is intended ultimately to be a site for the Rush Medical college, the three hospitals affiliated with that institution, the memorial institute for infectious diseases, and the baseball field. The buildings to be erected will cost more than $1,000,000.

While it has been known for some time that the university was gradually acquiring more property the negotiations for every piece has been carried on in secret.

The latest purchases do not yet embrace the entire frontage on the south side of the Midway. Most of the property is vacant, but a part of it is improved with apartment houses. As some of the university's projects are in abeyance for the present it may be several years before the proposed buildings are erected.

Many Deeds Recorded Last Week.

The purchases have been going on for some time. Twelve deeds, giving title to $423,593 worth of property, were recorded last week.

Vacant block between Lexington and Greenwood avenues, and west half block at the Midway and Ingleside avenue, 561 feet of Midway frontage, from Mrs. Fannie Kieffer of Paris, France, $225,000.

East half block at Midway and Ellis, from Rufus C. Frost, for $50,000.

Frontage between Cottage Grove avenue and Drexel, from Mrs. Elizabeth J. Latta of Goshen, Ind., 175x180, $44,993; from Mrs. Bertini B. Stern, 101x180, for $15,000; from Sophia Hickok, 50x180, for $9,500; 25x180, from A. R. Hulburt, for $3,500.

Corner of Midway and Ellis avenue, 60x180 feet, and four story apartment building, from D. E. Murphy of Milwaukee, for $55,000.

Transfers to Henry A. Mix, Wallace G. Clark, and others recorded recently are supposed to be for the university, and the fact that they have been filed is taken as indicating that the university has completed all the purchases it intends to make.

Location of Buildings.

On the two-thirds of the block fronting north of the Midway, between Ellis and Ingleside avenues, it is believed that Rush Medical college will be located, while the block lying between Greenwood and Lexington avenues will be devoted to the ball field. The hospitals will be located on the other Midway frontages which have been secured.

A great feature of the medical department will be the memorial institute for infectious diseases, which has been endowed by Mrs. Harold McCormick, $250,000 having been given for that purpose.

Otto Young Has St. Mary's Block.

It was announced during the day that Otto Young is the lessee of the property at the southwest corner of Madison street and Wabash avenue, owned by the Catholic bishop of Chicago. Mr. Young will erect a building to cost $1,000,000. The building will be occupied by a mercantile establishment upon the lower floors and offices upon the upper floors.

The ground is 80x180 feet and is leased for ninety-nine years. The rent is said to be $50,000 a year.

Browning, King & Co. Lease a Store.

The property at 191 and 193 State street, owned by John H. Hamline and others, has been leased to Browning, King & Co. for ten years. The consideration is not yet made public, but is said to be on a basis of nearly $20,000 a front foot. The land is improved with a four story building now under lease to various tenants. Browning, King & Co. will occupy the entire building, after spending a considerable sum of money in improving it. The deal was negotiated by Knott, Chandler & Co.

Loans Made at 4 Per Cent.

Edgar M. Snow & Co. have made a loan of $90,000, for five years, at 4 per cent, secured on 333 and 335 State street, 40x138 feet, with three story and basement brick building. The same firm has made a loan of $60,000, for five years, at 4 per cent, on 75 and 77 Lake street.

GERMANS SEEK AN ALLIANCE WITH DR. HARPER'S SCHOOL.

President Harper of the University of Chicago last night confirmed the cable reports from Berlin to the effect that the Prussian ministry of education, at the instance of the kaiser, is backing a movement for a closer German-American educational alliance.

Dr. Harper expects to entertain next March professors from the principal German universities. They will confer with the faculty in regard to cementing an alliance between the university and the German schools.

The foreign educators have been stirred by the progress made in America by the Alliance Française. The Germans fear that unless they make some special effort for an international alliance along educational lines the universities at home will lose many of their American students to the French universities.

A possible result of the visit may be the decision of German universities to send students to the University of Chicago each year for post-graduate work.

Fall from Window Kills a Child.

Jennie Lawler, 4 years old, 4110 St. Lawrence avenue, yesterday afternoon fell from an open third story window. Her skull was fractured and she lived only a few minutes. The child was playing on the window sill.

Ten Arrested at Dice Game.

Ten negroes playing craps were arrested in a basement at Ninety-second street and Commercial avenue late last night. John Hughes was charged with being keeper of the place.

PROPOSED USE OF LAND BOUGHT BY CHICAGO UNIVERSITY.

The University of Chicago is thought to have purchased nearly all the frontage on the south side of the Midway opposite its holdings on the north. It is understood to be the plan to erect buildings there for Rush Medical college and hospitals connected with it.

Education and Hygiene.

The establishment of lunchrooms in high schools is a step toward higher education that cannot be too warmly commended. It is now generally acknowledged that breakdowns among students formerly ascribed to "overstudy" were in reality often due to undereating or eating of the wrong things. Ideas about hygiene are more difficult to instill into the youthful mind than mathematics, and it is hard to make a school girl or boy believe that higher education cannot grow out of a chocolate éclair or a knowledge of the classics be built upon a cream puff. That unforgettable incident in "Little Women," where poor Amy Marsh is obliged to throw her pickled limes out of the school window, has a physiological as well as a moral lesson. Why is it that it is always a pickled lime, a dill pickle, or a puff that forms the surreptitious luncheons of school children? No one ever caught a school girl or boy secretly dining off a graham gem or oaten biscuit, yet these are as much superior to the pickles and puffs as the classics are to top spinning. With the introduction of the school lunchrooms it is to be expected that the old complaint, "school headache," will disappear, and that the time honored ideal, a sound mind in a sound body, will be realized.

THE TRANSFER RULE.

Wouldn't it be possible for the City railway company to follow the example of the police force and have its general orders enforced "judiciously"? For instance, there seems to be an order to the effect that transfers shall be issued only at the precise time when fares are paid. If the sacred moment goes by unimproved, it carries all transfer possibilities away with it. The passenger may have been a stranger in town and unacquainted with local vagaries. He may have been an inhabitant of the town and nevertheless ignorant of the company's rule. He may have been in an unobservant, absent minded mood when he paid his fare. He may have asked for a transfer and failed to reach the ear of the conductor. He may have had one destination in mind when he paid his fare and have decided on another destination afterwards, thereby necessitating an unexpected request for a transfer slip.

All these contingencies are possible. Being possible, they should not be neglected. The rule neglects them. Modify the rule. Until the rule is modified we may expect to see conductors still denying transfers to bewildered women passengers and still throwing those passengers off the car when they persist in their bewilderment. The woman who was thrown off a south side car the other day because of a transfer disagreement is suffering from injuries which are serious and may be permanent. There ought to be no more such scenes. Modify the transfer rule and hire no conductors who are brutes.

NEW ZEALAND AND TRUSTS.

New Zealand is troubled with trusts and combines which devour the substance of the people. The colonial government has drafted a bill for their suppression. It provides for the establishment of a monopolies court of three judges. It is to be given full power to investigate all complaints that prices have been raised by the machinery of trusts. It will have authority to call before it the responsible parties when there is a general advance in the price of commodities and compel them to show how far they are justified in their action. If it be the opinion of the court that they are not justified it will impose heavy penalties upon them.

The New Zealanders have a firm belief, which is shared by few outside the colony, in their ability to settle the most intricate and perplexing economic questions. It is possible that they believe they have found a sure cure for trusts and will try it. If they do, and announce that trusts have been extinguished in New Zealand, some of the American opponents of the industrial monopolies will begin appealing to congress to try the new remedy here.

There are many persons who would be greatly pleased to see trust magnates—the coal barons, for instance—forced to appear before inflexible judges and tell why they raise the price of anthracite with relentless regularity. They and other chiefs of combines would be hard put to it to devise reasons which would satisfy an impartial and intelligent court. But there are constitutional difficulties in the way of the establishment of a monopolies court or courts—for many would be needed to attend to all the complaints that would be made. If there were such courts it would not be easy to find competent judges—men who could determine accurately the just prices of hundreds of products.

Let New Zealand try the experiment, by all means. Even if it be a failure it will be interesting, and perhaps instructive. Quite probably it will be a failure. If the men who are at the head of trusts in New Zealand are as fertile in resources as the men who run them here they will manage to slip through the meshes of any legal net. The legislators of the middle ages tried hard to regulate prices and failed, though they inflicted on offenders punishments compared to which what are now called severe penalties are mere bagatelles. Probably the medieval penalties would terrify the most hardened monopolist of this day, but not even the bitterest enemy of trusts would think of imposing them.

A CHILDISH PROGRAM.

There will be in attendance at the council meeting next Monday a large delegation of working men, or their representatives, armed with a traction program which they will ask the aldermen to adopt. The program is that the privileges of the street car companies be not extended; that the street car service be immediately improved "under the power vested in the council"; and that the Mueller law be submitted to popular vote and immediate preparations be made for municipal ownership.

This is the program of children, not of grown men. It embodies the unworkable notions of cranks and whimsical fellows who know nothing of the situation. No intelligent man will counsel immediate preparation for municipal ownership when the immediate acquisition of the roads by the city is impossible. It may be possible twenty years hence, but it will not be possible within the next ten years. The city will not have the cash. It may be said that it can pay for the roads with the "street railway certificates" authorized by the Mueller law. It would be well to ask the traction companies whether they are willing to take them, and to ask the lawyers whether the companies, if unwilling, can be forced to take them.

The council cannot, while denying the traction companies an extension of their privileges, force them to give the public the good service which is so much needed. The working men are great sufferers from the bad service. They are forced to spend too much time in going to and returning from work. They have to hang on to overcrowded cars and imperil their lives. Yet their representatives are to go before the council to ask for a continuance of present disagreeable and dangerous conditions.

The program of the council is to extend the privileges of the traction companies, provided they will pay the city adequate compensation and comply with the other requirements which will be insisted on. When the companies acquiesce they will set to work at once to spend several million dollars to improve their service. A large part of the money will go to Chicago working men. Its expenditure by the companies will give the working men the better service they need.

Yet men who represent, or pretend to represent, the working men are about to ask the council to break off negotiations with the traction companies, to throw the traction question into the courts and keep it there for several years, while the service is worsening instead of bettering, and the city is kept out of revenue it ought to have. A more puerile program than the one which is to be presented to the council next week hardly can be devised.

SOUSA AND RAG TIME.

John Philip Sousa, the band leader, in an interview says: "Rag time is an established feature of American music; it will never die any more than 'Faust' and the great operas will die. It is just as popular everywhere as it ever was, and I see no reason why it should not remain in favor as long as music is played." This demonstrates that Mr. Sousa is better as a band master than as a musical observer.

There is no feature of American music that is "established," for there is no American music. There is no feature of music that is established. In music fashions change with each generation. Sometimes they change many times in a generation. In nothing is the popular taste more fickle than in music. Where are the old madrigals, and glees, and catches? Where is the old "penny royal"? Where are the old time negro melodies? Where are the old sentimental songs and descriptive ballads? Where is the old piano program music? Mr. Sousa says "rag time will never die any more than 'Faust' and the great operas will die." But where, Mr. Sousa, are "Norma," and "Lucia," and "Robert the Devil," and "Semiramide," and "Cenerentola," and the "Barber of Seville," and "Dinorah," and "Masaniello," and "William Tell," and "Trovatore," and "Ernani," and scores more of operas once considered great? And does not Mr. Sousa know that all of Gounod's operas are dead, save "Romeo and Juliet" and "Faust," and that these two already have received the final summons to retire to the shelf and gather dust?

Mr. Sousa's "Smoky Moke" and "Georgia Campmeeting" may last a little longer, for it is the day of the rag time, the two-step, and the coon song, but the musical comedy, itself wearing out, has given them their finishing blow, and they will soon pass and be forgotten. Mr. Sousa can "see no reason why it should not remain in favor as long as music is played." "The wish is father to the thought." Mr. Sousa would not like to see rag time go. His royalties from its manufacture are too sumptuous.

A FORTUNE WELL USED.

There have been many essays written upon the subject of the proper use of money. Many sermons have been preached with that subject for a text. Many queries have been propounded to prominent persons touching the best uses of money. Perhaps there is no more common subject of general conversation, when the relations of the rich and poor come up, than this—what would you do with your money if you were rich? Silas Griffith of Danby, Vt., has shown that he knows what to do with money, albeit he waited until he made his will.

Mr. Griffith did not make his fortune in Danby. He had been living in California for a long time, and in the lumber business there he accumulated his money. Danby, however, was his birthplace, and all his old friends were there, so when he made his will he remembered Danby. First, he left a generous sum for a library, gave a lot for the site, and provided for its maintenance. Then he left a sufficient sum to care for the town cemetery, including a house adjacent to it for the caretaker. Having looked after the library and cemetery, his next thought was for the Congregational church there. So he left money enough to pay the minister's salary, to heat light, paint, and repair the structure, to supply the choir with music and the Sunday school with books.

Having looked after the library, the cemetery, and the church, he left a sufficient sum to improve the public schools and bring them up to modern requirements. The money will give them nice playgrounds, better ventilation and sanitation, and good libraries. Having looked after the library, the cemetery, the church, and the schools, his next thought was how to make the children happy. To do this he chose the role of a perpetual Saint Nicholas and left money enough to have a Christmas tree every year loaded with gifts for the little ones, and that no one of them should be caught in the plight of the guest who had not a wedding garment, he left a sufficient sum to give clothes, shoes, and other needed articles to all the poor children at Christmas time. Having done all this, and seeing nothing more to do, it is to be presumed Silas Griffith turned his face to the wall and died contentedly and at peace with all the world.

He was certainly at peace with Danby, and Danby will always be at peace with him for the various ways in which he has made it happy. The intellectual people will praise him for the library. The church-going people will remember him with gratitude for relieving them from financial anxiety, which always weighs heavily upon country churches. The children for generations to come will have reason to remember him with respect when they go to school and with loving gratitude when they go to the Christmas tree. Even the dead in the cemetery would rise up if they could and call Silas Griffith blessed.

NO ROOM FOR ARGUMENT.

The long letter of the Chicago Federation of Labor to President Roosevelt needs no lengthy comment. Its receipt will be acknowledged, it will be placed on the files of the executive office, and will slumber there with many other silly communications.

There are men who would like to have the government deny employment to nonunionists. There are others who would like to have it do likewise as regards Roman Catholics. There have been, and perhaps still are, men who would "put none but Americans on guard"—who dislike to see in the service of the government citizens who were not born in the United States. The individuals who sought to proscribe American citizens because of their birthplace or their religion appealed to the people to sustain them, and they met with defeat. It is claimed now that American citizens who do not see fit to join organizations which are commendable when they do not meddle with affairs which do not concern them ought to be proscribed. If the question is taken before the people they will dispose of it in short order. They will tolerate no discriminations and no favored classes.

It is useless to go to the president in the matter. The laws he has taken an oath to execute are the laws enacted by congress and not those framed by groups of private citizens, whether known as labor unions or by some other name. The unions go beyond bounds when they attempt to legislate for other than their own members.

THE other consolation dinners that are awaiting you, Sir Thomas, are elaborate and toothsome affairs, but you'd better not eat any of them.

IT is all right for the president to carry a revolver when he is traveling. He knows how to use it.

DR. WATERS admits that he is technically culpable, but pleads unconscious assimilation. This closes the case unless somebody can draw the deadly parallel on Dr. Hillis.

THE British prime minister probably thinks, with a feeling akin to resentment, that this is a time when the Balfours ought to stand together.

Municipal Parsimony.

The rich American contractor had returned from his first trip abroad, and was telling the fellows at the club about it.

"Taking it altogether," he said, "I had about as interesting a time in Italy as anywhere else."

"That's a great country," said one of the club members. "I've been all through it. Did you visit Pisa, where the leaning tower is?"

"You noticed that tower, too, did you?" returned the contractor. "Why, durn it, it's twelve or fifteen feet out of plumb! I could tell that the minute I saw it. One of our stiff winds would blow the whole blamed business over. I wouldn't have gone to the top of the thing for a million dollars. The first thing I did was to sit down and do a little figuring. Then I hired an interpreter and went to see the mayor of the town. They don't call him the mayor, but that's what he is. 'Mr. Mayor,' I said, through the interpreter, 'you'll have a capsized building on your hands one of these days if you don't get that jiggamaree tower of yours straightened up. I'll do the job for you, all right and shipshape, for $396,000.'"

"What did he say to that?"

"He only laughed. I guess he thought it was too much money. Then I went to my hotel and did a lot more figuring. I inquired about the price of stone in the rough, what it would cost me to get a few skilled workmen and a lot of common laborers, and I found I could do it cheaper. Then I went to see him again. 'Mr. Mayor,' I said, 'I've made another set of calculations. I'll straighten up that tower of yours for $315,000.' I don't mind telling you I would have made a fairly good thing out of it, even at that. 'I'll do it for $315,000,' I said. 'Call your city council together,' I said, 'and lay my proposition before them.'"

"Well, did that fetch him?"

"Fetch him? Why, he got mad, and told the interpreter to tell me I was a crazy fool. He said he wouldn't have it straightened up if I would do it for nothing. People wouldn't care to see it then, he said. That made me mad. 'Why, durn your stingy hide!' I said, 'is that the way you try to crawl out of spending a little money for the good of your town? Some day that thing will fall down and kill a hundred people, and you know it,' I said. 'I don't need the money,' I said. 'I've got money to burn. And I wouldn't fix your old tower now if you were to pay me a million dollars to do it, you cheap skate dago!' And I turned on my heel and walked out. There's one Eyetalian mayor, gentlemen, that knows what I think of him, by jocks!"

Deep Scheme.

"But what is the use," said the private secretary, "of advertising for your lost pocketbook, when it contained only a dollar or two in money and a few papers of no importance?"

"It gives me the opportunity," replied the distinguished statesman, lowering his voice to a confidential tone, "of conveying the idea to the public that I don't carry any railroad passes."

Youthful Cynic.

"But don't you want to go to heaven?" asked the Sunday school teacher, shocked and grieved.

"Nope," said the bad boy of the class. "There won't be nobody there but women and preachers."

Cheap Murderers.

Tenderfoot—"I have been told that there are men in your mining camps who would cut a man's throat for $5."

Comanche Pete—"For $5? There are chaps out here that would do it for $3 Mexican!"

LETTER OF MARQUISE DE FONTENOY

Copyright: 1903: By the Marquise de Fontenoy.

LADY ISABELLE ISSES KER, who is coming over to this country a fortnight hence, in order to attend the wedding of her brother, the duke of Roxburghe, at which she is to figure as one of Miss May Goelet's bridemaids, is on record as having administered a snub to the late Queen Victoria. True, she was a 3 year old child at the time. Her mother, the duchess of Roxburghe, was one of the ladies of the bed chamber and a particular friend of the queen, and the latter, hearing from the duchess all about her little girl, asked her to bring her to see her at Windsor. The child was brought in due course, and the queen, in greeting her, addressed her as "dear little Isabelle," but was immediately corrected by the child with "Lady Isabelle," with a strong stress laid on the word "lady." The queen was immensely amused, and throughout the interview made a point of addressing her as "Lady Isabelle."

The two did not meet again until some fifteen years later Lady Isabelle was presented at court on making her début in the world. As she curtsied low to kiss the hand of the queen, the latter, bending forward to give her that kiss to which she was entitled as a peer's daughter, murmured with one of those winning smiles that used sometimes to lighten up her otherwise austere and even severe face, "Lady Isabelle, is it not?" laying a particular stress on the word "lady," in accordance with the lesson which she had received from the young girl fifteen years earlier.

Incidentally I may mention here that the kissing of peeresses and of peers' daughters by the sovereign on presentation has been abolished under the new reign, which enables of course the ceremony of presentation to be got through with a great deal more rapidly, and which has also relieved the viceroy of Ireland of the necessity of kissing every woman, young, middle aged, and old, that was presented to him at the drawing rooms held at Dublin castle.

The countess of Seafield, whose death has just taken place, is the widow of the ninth earl, and her demise will in nowise affect the fortunes of the young New Zealand born earl, who is the eleventh peer of his line, and who has no rood of land and not a vestige of the immense Seafield property in his possession, the Seafield estates, yielding an income of half a million of dollars, being still owned by the widow of the seventh earl, greatly to the disgust of the members of the clan of Grant, residing on her lands, who resent being ruled over by a woman who has not a drop of Grant blood in her veins.

There are few peerages that have furnished a greater amount of romance than the earldom of Seaforth. It may be said to have begun in the days of the fifth earl, who became insane, the estates being administered by his brother Francis, who eventually succeeded him, as sixth earl. On his death a fierce quarrel arose between his eldest son, the seventh earl, and the latter's younger brothers on the subject of money matters, the quarrels being eventually carried into the courts. After the washing of a great deal of family linen in court the contest was settled by means of a compromise. But it left the seventh earl so infuriated with his brothers that with the cooperation of his son he managed to secure the disentailment of the property.

In due course his only son, Ian Charles, succeeded, as eighth earl, and, after spending a few years in the regiment of Life guards, died prematurely, leaving his entire property, that is to say, the whole of the Ogilvie and Grant estates, to his mother, Caroline, daughter of the eleventh Lord Blantyre. The earldom of Seafield, along with the minor dignities, which include the viscounty of Reidhaven, the barony of Ogilvie, and the barony of Cullen in Scotland and the barony of Strathspey in the united kingdom, passed without a vestige of the property to the young peer's uncle, that is to say, the younger brother of the seventh earl, who therefore succeeded, as ninth earl. He married three times, and it is his third wife, Georgiana countess of Seafield, who has just died.

His son by his first marriage served for a time in the royal navy, but was exceedingly wild, and after leaving both the service and England, in consequence of an unpleasant scrape, he drifted out to New Zealand, where he met with all sorts of hard knocks and queer experiences, earning his living by means of odd jobs in the way of fencing and ditching and as a farm laborer, ultimately dying as bailiff of a provincial court a few months after succeeding to the earldom, and leaving a large family by his wife, who, far from being a woman of the humbler classes, as has been alleged in a number of English newspapers which have written about the matter, was a daughter of an army officer of the name of Evans, a scion of that Irish family of which Lord Carvery is the chief.

On hearing of the death of the tenth earl in New Zealand under these circumstances, old Caroline, countess of Seafield, widow of the seventh earl and owner of the Seafield estates, who, though a strong minded, haughty, and imperious woman, is not devoid of heart or of family pride, addressed a letter to the other widow Lady Seafield out in New Zealand, offering to take charge of the latter's eldest son, then a mere boy, and to bring him home and educate him in a manner befitting his position as eleventh earl of Seafield, with the understanding that if he conducted himself well she would make him the heir to the entire Seafield estates. She intimated that she was ready to send out tutors and servants to bring him home from the colonies, and to make an allowance to his mother on the condition that the latter, as well as his brothers and sisters, should break off all relations with him.

The young earl's mother, unlike the "dearest" of "Little Lord Fauntleroy," declined to entertain the offer. She is one of the leaders of the Salvation army in New Zealand, and came to the conclusion that her son's religious faith might be imperiled if he were to be brought up by so worldly a woman as Caroline, countess of Seafield. So he was educated in New Zealand, one of the schools there undertaking to forego any demand for remuneration for the sake of having his name and titles on their books.

He was but 22 years of age when he married a young girl, whom he had known from childhood, and who had sat beside him in the day school, the daughter of a New Zealand doctor of the name of Joseph Townend of Christchurch. Not long after this marriage the doctor, who was an elderly widower, himself made a most sensational marriage, leading to the altar Miss Anne Quayle Moore, the greatest heiress in New Zealand, her father, who has since died, leaving her a fortune of some $20,000,000. Both she and her husband are devoted to the young earl and countess of Seafield, and it is likely that she will leave them, at any rate, a portion of her fortune when she dies. She is over 60 years of age and childless.

Young Lord and Lady Seafield visited Europe for the first time about four years ago, and spent some days on the Seafield estates, hailed as chief of the great Grant clan, but visiting his ancestral castle as an ordinary tourist, his grandaunt, the owner of the place, being absent at the time on the continent. He returned to New Zealand without having seen his relative. But before he left England, the old countess, who had learned of his presence in England and of his visit to her castle, offered him, through her lawyers, an allowance of $2,000 a year on the condition that he would remain away from the united kingdom, and if he visited Europe restrict himself to the continent. He indignantly rejected this offer, and it is characteristic of the old countess that his attitude in the matter, far from angering the old lady, pleased her. Indeed, he has not injured his prospects by refusing her offer, and it is most probable that when she dies it will be found that she made him her heir.

"The Green Tree Tavern!" One can see
Green boughs that swung and swayed
When through the stately, spreading tree
The vagrant winds of summer played.
And there were chairs along the stoop
That lazily reached to the walk—
Wide chairs, to seat the restful group
Of sturdy men who came to talk.

Mine Host tilts back his roomy chair
And listens wisely to the news
Of hunt for varmint, deer and bear,
And utters his sagacious views
When governments must be discussed;
Then, with good fellowship imbued,
All throats, he says, must "lay the dust"

"The Green Tree Tavern!" It is gone;
And gone the dim and winding trail
That led the hunters on and on;
And silence holds their parting hail.
The dust has claimed the walls and eaves;
Mine Host has gone the long, long way—
The green tree, too—its glossy leaves

The Waubansee Stone

DID you ever hear of the Waubansee stone?

Do you know what the Waubansee stone is?

Do you know where the Waubansee stone is now located?

If you are a native or even a resident of Chicago and find yourself compelled to answer any of the above questions in the negative, you may as well admit at the same time that you are poorly informed about the early history of the city.

The Waubansee stone is certainly the largest as it is one of the few authentic relics of Fort Dearborn. It is a granite bowlder, something more than six feet tall and three feet square, and bears on one side of its top a rudely carved portrait of the Indian chief Waubansee, who in the earliest days of the frontier fort often showed himself a good friend of the white man.

If you want to see the Waubansee stone, go over on the north side, walk up North State street to Huron, turn to the east and go as far as old Pine street, now Lincoln Park boulevard; then turn to the south, and about three doors from the corner, in the yard at the side of the house numbered 104 Lincoln Park boulevard, you will see a fountain built up of big pieces of carved stone, piled in a rough pyramid. In the center of this pyramid and projecting for some distance above it is the Waubansee stone, the same great bowlder which lay inside the stockade when Fort Dearborn was built, and from the top of which Daniel Webster, the "godlike Daniel," predicted, in 1837, the future greatness of the swampy village which he was then visiting for the first time.

On one side of the great stone is still plainly visible the carved likeness of Waubansee, the chieftain, if indeed it be his portrait, for some historians are inclined to the belief that the stone is much older than that.

In fact, around the ancient and long neglected bowlder has raged an historic controversy which divided local antiquarians into a number of opposing schools. As to the authenticity of the stone there has never ben a question. The difference is as to its origin and the uses to which it was originally devoted.

In the top of the Waubansee stone is a deep and rounded hollow. One school of historians holds to the belief that this hollow was originally made by the Indians, and that it was used for years before the white men came to raise a rude log fort as a mortar in which the patient Indian squaws, using another smaller stone as a pestle, ground the maize, or Indian corn, into flour for the baking of cakes.

This same school is also of the opinion that the rough carving of the head of Waubansee was made by one of the early regular soldiers at the fort, with the idea of pleasing the old chief—and there seems to be some reason for taking this view of the situation.

On the other hand, the second school of historians and antiquarians is convinced that the so-called Waubansee stone dates back hundreds and perhaps even thousands of years before even Father Marquette first visited the site of Chicago in 1673. They see in the tall bowlder, with its deeply hollowed top, a sacrificial altar on which perhaps the mound builders of prehistoric America offered even human sacrifices, and they are ready to believe that the face carved on one side of the stone is a representation of an ancient idol—one of the far off gods to whom that mythical people poured libations and offered the sacrificial blood of animals.

However that may be, there is no question of a doubt that in the early days of Fort Dearborn, and as far back as we have any record, that identical stone, practically the same as it is today, lay inside the stockade of old Fort Dearborn. On its top, doubtless, soldiers of the ancient garrison basked in the sun or sat as they listened to the talk of the visiting Indians—allies or foes. It was, or seems to have been, a sort of a common rostrum—a common meeting place for the gossips of the little frontier post.

When, in 1812, Fort Dearborn was burned and its garrison practically wiped out by the savages, the Waubansee stone was left untouched. As it weighs something like 4,000 pounds it is easy to see why the Indians did not disturb it.

Through the years from 1812 to 1837 it seems to have been left to sink deeper and deeper into the soil outside the log fort. Certainly there is no historical happening during that period with which it is connected. But in 1837 the Waubansee stone was made to serve a new purpose.

In that year Daniel Webster, already a famous senator of the United States, had started to make a tour of the then almost unknown west. He came to St. Louis and there he received a magnificent welcome. At Alton, Ill., he was received with the ringing of bells and the blowing of whistles. The little village of Chicago evidently felt that it must do its best to impress the great man with its potential importance. So, as the chroniclers of the time relate, a great concourse of people, in wagons, on horseback, and on foot, went out ten miles to the south to meet the stage in which Webster was journeying.

One may imagine the picture! The motley crowd of hunters, real estate speculators, farmers, small boys, Indians, and settlers of all kinds riding and driving pellmell down the long dirt road. And Daniel the great sticking his "Jove like front" out of the stage window, perhaps, to see what was approaching.

And even then Chicago people were determined to make a good showing. Now should Daniel Webster be allowed to ride into town in a stage coach. No, indeed!

They met him with a barouche, drawn, as the early writer says, by "four splendid creams," and so they hauled him into town in mighty state. One may hope that Lake street, then the principal thoroughfare, had been especially made ready for the occasion, for, if one may believe the contemporary chroniclers, the Chicago streets of those days were almost as filthy as they are now.

Daniel Webster, so say the historians, was accompanied on this triumphal journey by his son and daughter. He was taken into town, and, one may take it for granted, properly wined and dined. Then, later in the day, he was escorted to a platform made ready for his feet and lifted up on top of the Waubansee stone, and from that perch he delivered a speech, the eloquence of which still seems to dimly linger in the memories of first settlers, and in which he prophesied the future greatness of the present metropolis.

Again for a number of years the Waubansee stone seems to have dropped, if not out of sight, at least into obscurity. But always the stern and rugged face carved on one side made it easy of identification, and there is no record that during these years its position was changed.

Finally, about the time of the war, Isaac N. Arnold, then a congressman from Chicago, took possession of the ancient rock and had it moved from its old position to his residence on the north side, where it still remains. It stood in Arnold's yard when the great fire of 1871 swept the city and Arnold's house went down in ruins with the rest. But the Waubansee stone safely came through the fire, suffering nothing more serious than a coating of smoke and dust.

After the great fire a collection of fragments of ruined cornices and carved sandstones, themselves now historic relics, was made and they were piled about the Waubansee stone, which stood, as it still does, in the center of the pyramid and projecting some little distance above the top. Also a hole was bored through the old rock and a pipes inserted, so that now it serves as the capstone of a rough fountain.

Surely there are few, if any, such authentic and undisputed relics left to bind the Chicago of today to the Fort Dearborn of a century ago. Whether the carving on its face be the work of some long forgotten soldier in the frontier army of the United States or whether the stone was cut by a mound builder of prehistoric times, does not at all affect its value as a historical relic which should be of interest to Chicago people.

Perhaps, even, it might be thought worth while to give the old stone a more protected resting place, where it would not, as it does now, face yearly the rains, the wind, and the disintegrating force of the frost and cold. And in a centennial parade surely nothing now in existence deserves a float all to itself.

THE ROUND TABLE

The Round Table does not aim at being a "questions and answers" column. Its purpose rather is to furnish a meeting place for the readers of "The Tribune," where they may discuss current events. Communications must be written on one side of the paper, must be signed, and should be short.

Education and Civilization.

Chicago, Sept. 19.—[Editor of The Tribune.] —I do not agree with your assumption "that education is the foundation of civilization," because civilizations as great and as noble as our own have been founded successfully upon the "iron discipline of slavery," and wholly without book learning of any sort for the serviles.

This history of Greece and Rome shows clearly that slavery is the only practical solution of the social problem whenever a higher and a lower race of men are compelled by circumstances to live together. I also maintain that slavery in some form is natural and proper for the lesser breeds of men—and that in "educate" inferior breeds of men by to incite futile cataclysms of blood and ruin—even as of yore. Such is the teaching of history as I see it. And history is now rapidly repeating itself.

To "educate" the negro, therefore, is, as it were, to throw a blazing firebrand into one's own house. RICHARD THORLAND.

Discussions of slavery as a solution of the race problem are academic. There will never again be slavery in the United States. The question that confronts us is what to do with the 10,000,000 free negroes in the country.

The answer is to keep them down by force, and as a necessary corollary to refuse to teach them—or to forbid them to learn—anything higher than the gratification of their passions; to make them as nearly as possible brutes, but to let the brutes run wild, for they must be free; to degrade them by ignorance, to inflame them by whisky, and not to allow them to prowl like beasts of prey about the doors of southern thresholds; to make the best of them tramps without a stake in the country and without hope, wandering from place to place in search of a starvation wage, and to make the worst of them criminals and outlaws, fugitives from justice, hunted like other game with hounds, horses, and rifles, and best, like some other game, as selling their lives dearly; to tell the most ambitious and gifted of them, in whose veins perhaps flows the blood of three white grandparents, to forsake the heritage of man and become a beast, and so turn him from his appointed task of encouraging peace, order, and thrift among his people into a plotter and leader against the white race, preaching war and rapine; in a word, to turn the negro from his position of domestic animal, from which he was released by the blood of a million soldiers, into a wild animal, feeling no kindness and knowing none, hunted and hunting.

Another answer is: Educate him; teach his child an industry as well as the alphabet, so encouraging him to the ambition for property and arraying him on the side of order and self-restraint. Make it worth his while to keep the law and get a bank account instead of making it worth his while only to loaf, beg, and steal. Education will do its work slowly in the case of the negro, but we believe it will do its work.

Sham of Chicago Architecture.

Chicago, Sept. 18.—[Editor of The Tribune.] —The out and out sham practiced in Chicago in making residences and other buildings appear, when seen from the front, to be magnificent palaces of stone, while a view from any other direction shows them to be brick faced with stone, is saddening to a lover of his city.

When I subscribed to the building fund for a new auditorium wherein the Chicago orchestra is to find a permanent home I understood that there was being planned a large office building adjoining the property held as a site for the new music hall, but I had supposed that the builder would take into consideration the orchestra building when making his plans for the office building, and make the side facing it of the same material as the Michigan avenue front, at least from the roof line of the orchestra building. I learn from him, however, that this is not his intention. On the contrary, instead of white glazed terra cotta it is to be of ordinary brick. As this building is to be seventeen stories high and the orchestra building much lower, the view from Michigan avenue, north of the orchestra building, will show to the passerby the most striking example of Chicago's shoddiness and love of display that can be found. W.

Is the builder of the office building in question also its owner?

A Remedy for Justice Blackmail.

Chicago, Sept. 18.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—Much is being said about "justice shop" abuses. There are periodic outcries against this species of criminality, but actual reform seems to make less than a snail's progress. The rascals continue their nefarious work. A few years ago one of these gentry opened a shop in Winnetka, and flourished for a time chiefly by blackmailing bicyclists, but he finally made a mistake in a supposed victim, who arrested him on a capias in a civil suit and prosecuted him to a fine of $2,000 in a trial before Judge Dunne. This brought him to time and he was forced by public opinion to leave the suburb, and, as in this case, the remedy for present ills rests with prosecution by individual victims or a radical change in the law. RIGHT.

At the next presidential election a constitutional amendment will be submitted to the people of Illinois which, if carried, will permit the state legislature to reform the justice shop and constable evil. Remember to vote yes on that referendum. Unless it is carried the system will remain about as bad as it now is.

Lecithin Discovered 57 Years Ago.

Chicago, Sept. 18.—[Editor of The Tribune.] —Far from being a new discovery, lecithin was discovered by Prof. Gobley in the year 1846, being isolated by him from the yolks of fresh eggs at that time, and later proven to exist in the brain and nerve tissues, the spinal cord, and various other parts of the human organism.

Lecithin is true organic phosphorus, or the exact form in which phosphorus exists in the various human tissues and substances, and as phosphorus is one of the fifteen elements always found in the human body a certain supply in the food is essential, and in health the ordinary supply suffices. There are, however, conditions of the nervous system and of the developing skeleton in which the supply of phosphorus is not equal to the demand, producing a pronounced nervous condition, and in such cases the medical practitioner would prescribe lecithin. "Six dollars for the board of one goat for one week? 'Tis an exorbitant price," said Justice T. D. Hurley yesterday.

"But, your honor," protested Mrs. J. H. Hyland, "he was a hearty eater."

"You should have kept the animal out of the house," declared the justice. "I will give the owner possession and you must pay the costs of the suit."

It was an action for replevin instituted by Max Goodman, 1005 West Congress street, an attorney, to recover a billy goat that had strayed into the yard of J. H. Hyland, an expressman, in the same neighborhood. When the owner learned of the animal's whereabouts Mr. Hyland refused to part with it until $6 for its board for a week had been paid. The goat was not brought into court.

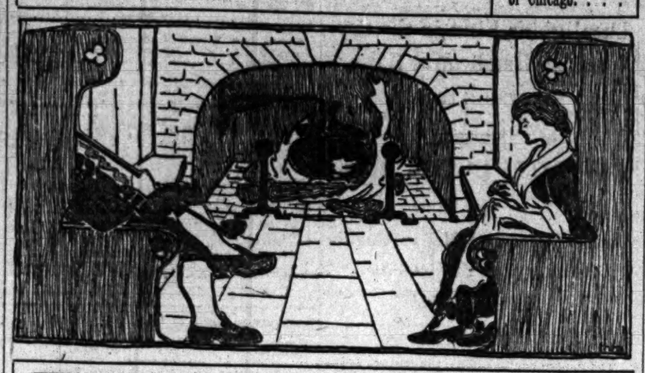
DOMESTIC SCIENCE

Conducted by the School of Domestic Arts and Science of Chicago. . . .



"It is the same hand that works and that prays, not a different one; unless it can do both it has not fulfilled its highest opportunity; and it is given to you to train such hands that they in their turn may go into the world with the spirit that dignifies labor and that brings worship into every day life"—President Hazard of Wellesley College to the graduating class at the Boston School of Domestic Sciences.

LESSON NO. 51.—The Changed Attitude Towards Homemaking.

IN no place have the changes of the nineteenth century been so apparent as in the home. It is not beyond the memory of the oldest inhabitant when the home was a manufactory of all the necessities as well as comforts of life. The head of the household had to superintend the shearing of the wool, carding, weaving, and finally the making of the blankets, rugs, stockings, clothing that served the entire family. A woman's life was indeed a busy one in those days. Little by little these industries were removed from the home to the large factory. Then came time for other things—woman demanded higher education, and one by one schools were opened to her.

Education was a cut and dried thing; men had had this higher education for years, and generously shared what they had with women. It never seemed to occur to anyone that women were of another sex and higher education for women might be planned along lines more in touch with their natural lives.

From the time when, according to Kipling, the first woman found a nice dry cave and said to the wild man, "Now wipe your feet, dear, when you come, and we will keep house," down to the present day women have been the natural homemakers. Unfortunately, however, the modern scheme of education has taken no thought of this. Our public schools have trained women to be clerks, bookkeepers, typewriters, but not one word has been said of homemaking from start to finish. We have trained our girls just as we have our boys, and now on all sides we have sad results.

Men are complaining that women are taking their place in the business world. Fewer men can afford to support a modern girl as a wife, for she knows nothing of what should be her business, homemaking, and wastes money sadly while trying to learn. Girls have imbued the idea that homemaking is undignified and beneath an educated person, so we have the almost unsolvable problem of how to get trained scientific help in our households.

During the formative period in a girl's life she is under such pressure to keep up with the modern scheme of education that she has no time to learn home duties. With mistaken kindness the modern mother bears the burden alone, hoping when the long study hours are a thing of the past her daughter will learn of her how to manage the house. How often do we hear of a young bride, "She is going to housekeeping; she does not know a thing about it, can't even cook a meal," and how seldom do we hear of the groom, "He knows nothing of business, can't earn a penny." Why should one statement be more acceptable than the other? It should be just as much a woman's pride to know how to manage a home as it is a man's to know how to provide for that home. A man would not dream of turning his business over to a clerk, yet many a woman depends on ignorant foreigners to manage the household and even to raise her children.

Within the last few years, however, a protest against this state of affairs has arisen. We begin to realize that homemaking is a science which demands scientific knowledge and training, and on all sides domestic science schools are providing the training so eagerly sought. The noblest work is being done in our public schools where girls from all classes in life during their most impressionable years, are being taught the beauty of homemaking. MRS. A. H. GROSS.

Household Hints.

To Market, to Market—

To buy, not a fat pig, but a fat onion as white as it is fat. The dainty Spanish onions and the giant onions are ready to bake, stuff, fry, cook in a cream, or metamorphose into soup or smother over a juicy steak, or garnish a salad, or do countlessly many other deliciously dainty tricks which are each better than the other to the palate and for the edification of the stomach. Onions are tonic and purifying.

Onion soup, one of the choicest of choice vegetable soups, is made by slicing thin three large onions and frying to a bright brown in a large spoonful of butter. When brown add half a teacup of flour and stir constantly until red. Then pour in slowly one pint boiling water, stirring steadily until all is in. Boil and mash fine four large potatoes and stir into one quart boiling milk, taking care there are no lumps. Add this to the fried onions, with one teaspoon of salt and half a teaspoon white pepper. Let all boil five minutes and serve with toasted or fried bread.

For baked onions boil them half an hour in equal quantities of skim milk and water, allowing one quart of each for about a dozen onions. Lay in a buttered baking dish and pour over a dressing made by heating one cup of milk, a spoonful butter, half a teaspoonful salt, and a dash of pepper. Over all lay bread crumbs and bits of butter and bake an hour. Salt onions while boiling.

For stuffed onions, which are as good as you can make them, cook ten or twelve onions in salted water about an hour, changing water twice, drain and cool; take out the center of each without disturbing the outside layers, add six mushrooms, sautéd five minutes in butter, half a cup of chicken, veal, or ham, chop the whole, add half cup fresh bread grated, and cream, stock, or sauce to mix, season with salt, pepper, and butter, and fill into onions. Place in buttered baking dish, sprinkle top with three-fourths cup cracker crumbs, stirred into one-fourth cup melted butter, bake about twenty minutes, basting occasionally with a little butter melted in hot water.

Two Tips Tried and True—

First—A "pointer" in economy, which I have found a great help in running the house, is to buy olive oil in quart cans. A quart may be had for 75 cents in as good quality as that which comes in bottles, and it really is a quart. We get it at the Italian stores downtown.

Second—I have seen so many requests for a way to clean a white parasol in the newspaper "exchange" departments, and some of the answers given have sounded so unpromising that I am going to send you my way. It seems a "heroic" remedy, but in the case of a taffeta or china silk parasol is sure to be successful. Arm yourself with a pan of lukewarm suds and raise the parasol over the bathtub. Scrub all over with a soft brush (flesh brush is about right), applying soap to the brush thoroughly. If there is a black streak on the fold rub the soap on directly, leaving it to "strike in" until you get "around" to the same section. Scrub over the streaked places again, and then rinse well with quarts of lukewarm water.

Dip this on with a full sponge, wash off the suds, and finally turn a cold water douche on it by means of the bathroom hose. The more water the better—it should be flooded inside and out. Dry it out of doors by opening and shutting fast, in the wind and sun—the windier the day the quicker being the process. It will come out as soft and white as crêpe. A faded parasol top can be taken off (do not rip apart), dyed, and put back again. Navy blue and cardinal are colors that can be done at home successfully by using the 10 cent dyes, that is, if the color was originally light. MRS. G. R. C.

The Model Day—

On rising in the morning see that a full current of air can pass through every sleeping room; remove all clothes from the beds and allow them to air at least an hour.

While the beds are airing breakfast is to be made ready, the table set, and kitchen and dining room put in order. Rinse out the tea kettle, fill it with fresh water, and put over to boil. The table can be set and the dining room swept or merely brushed up and dusted in the intervals of getting breakfast.

After breakfast comes the dish washing, including the dish towels, and putting away every article in its place. Wash off the table; then dip the brush in the suds and scour with the grain of the wood. Finally wash off all soapy water and dry. Wearing thick, strong gloves, wipe, brush, or blacken the kitchen range.

The beds come next. Turn the mattresses every morning and make the bed smoothly and carefully. Beat the pillows and smooth with the hand. Empty all waste waters, and with hot water wash out all the bowls and pitchers, etc., using separate cloths for these purposes and never toilet towels. Dust the room, arrange everything in place, and during warm weather close the blinds and darken the room till evening that it may be as cool as possible.

Do the necessary sweeping in the rooms that are much used with a carpet sweeper and floor brush.

A look into cellar and storerooms is next in order; in the former, to see that no decaying vegetable matter is allowed to accumulate; in the latter, that bread boxes are dry and sweet and all stores in good condition.

A look into the refrigerator to note what is left and suggest the best use for it; a glance at towels and dish cloths to see that they are clean and sweet, and another under all sinks and into the pantry prevents the accumulation of bones and stray bits of food and dirty rags, the fairyland of the cockroach.

An honest servant soon welcomes such investigation and respects her mistress the more for insisting upon making the daily round. SUCCESS.

A Little Wonder—

I must tell you of a little business woman in Chicago who is a little wonder in the way she manages her work. She is out all day, yet her flat is as neat as a pin and her meals are delicious. She says her golden rule in housekeeping is a place for everything and everything in its place. As soon as she uses anything she puts it right away.

And now for her system of work, for, according to her, everything depends upon system, and the women whose work is never done usually lack system. As soon as she rises she throws up her windows and puts the bed to air, then she makes and eats her breakfast, and clears the table, and washes any especially fine bit of china she might have had on the table and puts it away. Then she prepares her vegetables for her evening dinner, and with the refuse from them has all her garbage for the day in the pail so that it can be taken away on the collector's morning round.

She now washes the remainder of her breakfast dishes and the utensils used in preparing the vegetables. Then she makes her bed and dusts the entire flat, for, to quote her, "although not every day is sweeping day, every day in Chicago is dusting day." By this time the ice man and grocer's boy have been round, so that the kitchen will not be tracked any more during the day. So she cleans and sweeps the kitchen, and, lastly, turns to the bathroom, which gets its final touches while she makes her toilet for business. In the evening she slips into her house dress and slippers as soon as she arrives, and has dinner ready in a little while, a dinner that represents the choicest things in the meat and vegetable and fruit markets.

On sweeping day she takes up her rugs early in the morning and puts them into the hall for the janitor to take out and beat, dusts and mops the floors, laying the dusted articles under a sheet on the bed, couch, and tables. When the rugs come back they go down on the floors, and in the evening she lays out her dusted articles and the rooms are done. THE ORIZABA, Chicago.

Peach Mangoes—

For A. H. P., Detroit: This recipe has been given us: Remove the pits of freestone peaches, fill the cavity with some highly seasoned mixture and close the peaches in such a way as to give the appearance of whole fruit. Put a teaspoonful of salt in each peach, cover with cold water, and soak twenty-four hours. Drain, cut two large heads of cabbage with a cabbage cutter, add to this one teaspoonful ground allspice, one teaspoonful ground cloves, four tablespoonfuls of whole mustard, and two tablespoonfuls salt. Mix thoroughly; stuff the peaches with this mixture. Put the two halves together and tie tightly with a silk string and put them into spiced vinegar to use as wanted.

For peach mangoes with horse radish, prepare the freestone peaches, removing the stones; fill them with grated horse radish prepared as for table use with vinegar; put the two halves together and stand in the spiced vinegar.

New Notions—

BASTINGLESS ROASTING PAN, which is beautifully pressed out of one piece of steel and has a deep pan and grate bar for holding the fowl or beef, the bread, the pudding, or the cake. It keeps the articles committed to its care moist so that they cannot burn, and finishes them to a delightful turn.

SUCCESSFUL RAT TRAP, that is danger free while you are adjusting it, always traps the rat, and does not oblige you to touch him when freeing him from the snare.

CLOTHES DRYERS, for piazza, lawn, fire escape, window, or balcony. It reminds one of a frame for a gigantic giant's umbrella turned upside down and the handle fastened to what would ordinarily be the top. It takes up little room, gives the garments ventilation, and shields all but the outer row from the dust.

WOMEN TO HAVE DEBATES

CONVENTION OF CLUBS WILL OPEN DOOR TO DISCUSSION.

Program of Meeting at Cairo Next Month Issued, and It Shows a Complete Victory for Faction Favoring Unlimited Talk on All Subjects Introduced—Dr. E. G. Hirsch and Dean Jackman of Chicago University Only Men on the List.

Lively debates on subjects of interest to club women are promised at the convention of the Illinois State federation, which meets in Cairo Oct. 20-23.

The program for the meeting was issued yesterday. It tells the story of a complete victory for the faction that last year waged a fight to open to general discussion all subjects coming before the convention. A number of discussions have been provided and debates will follow the presentation of nearly every paper.

Another striking feature of the convention will be the "exhibit hall," in which a "model schoolroom," a "model kitchen," and an extensive arts and crafts exhibit will be displayed. Dr. Emil G. Hirsch and Dean Wilbur S. Jackman are the only men honored by places on the program.

The principal numbers on the program for the three days' session are as follows:

Address of welcome..Mrs. Isabella L. Candee, Cairo
Response.....Mrs. Eugene M. Bacon, Decatur, President Federation.
Reports of committees on credentials and officers.
Nominations of vice presidents for odd districts.

WILL TEACH CHILDREN THE HISTORY OF CHICAGO.

Board of Education Authorizes Principals to Use Centennial Committee's Stereopticon Slides and Lectures.

The board of education yesterday started the movement to educate the children on the meaning of the centennial celebration. A circular was sent to all principals giving permission for the use of stereopticon slides and lectures illustrating the city's beginning and later development. The lectures have been prepared by Prof. E. E. Sparks of the University of Chicago, chairman of the education committee, who also supervised the selection of the slides.

Over 100 schools have lanterns and equipment and there are twenty-four sets of slides of fifty each. This week and next the talks will be given in central schools selected for the purpose, and in the evenings the same lectures will be repeated to adults.

The centennial parade committee opened headquarters in room L 4, Great Northern hotel. The members desire the codperation of all military and uniformed organizations.

MORE MEN AT NORTHWESTERN.

Women Students Will Be Outnumbered This Year, According to Indications from Opening Day Enrollment.

Registration was brisk yesterday, the opening day of Northwestern university, and the indications are for a large attendance. There appeared to be more men than usual in line, and it is expected that the men will this year outnumber the women. No accurate figures could be given by the authorities, but Dean Thomas F. Holgate said that the registration was 10 per cent greater than the figures for the opening day last year. The first classes will be held on Thursday.

WANTS NAME CUT IN MIDDLE.

Robert Rubenstein Asks the Court for Permission to Call Himself Ruben Stein.

Robert Ruben Stein is a better name than Robert Rubenstein, in the opinion of the man who has been known by the latter surname for twenty-five years. He applied in the Circuit court yesterday for permission to cut his name in two.

Another applicant for a change of name was Lars Christiansen. He asked the right to call himself Louis Christian Dalhousie.

Sued for Loss of an Eye.

Dr. Oren Oneal, 52 Dearborn street, was sued for $25,000 yesterday by Bernard Sobieszcyk, 714 West Eighteenth street. The plaintiff, who is 18 years old, declares that Dr. Oneal treated his eyes several months ago, with result that he lost one orb. Dr. Oneal says he has never seen Sobieszcyk.

PARTY AT THE SELFRIDGE RESIDENCE, LAKE GENEVA.

Fifty Guests Invited Saturday Evening, Including Most of the Chicago Colony—Wedding of Miss Bessie Anthony to Mr. Bernard Horne to Take Place on Nov. 3—Nuptials of Miss Abbie Crosby and Mr. Carl Dautel of Cleveland on Nov. 10.

There was a merry little party entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Gordon Selfridge at Lake Geneva last Saturday night. Some fifty guests were asked to meet Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Bjorksten of Stockholm, but by some odd chance the honored couple failed to appear. The affair was scheduled as a reception, but was made informal. Most of the lake colony of Chicagoans were present.

A musical was to be a feature of the evening, Mr. Bjorksten to contribute, but Mrs. Selfridge was equal to the emergency and entertained her guests with her harp playing, winning the praise and enthusiasm of all. Miss Emily Hutchinson gave several piano solos, and a long program of pianola music with Mr. Selfridge at the keyboard made up a pleasing program.

The guests finished the evening with dancing.

The wedding of Miss Bessie Anthony, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Elliott Anthony, to Mr. Bernard Horne of Pittsburg will take place on the evening of Tuesday, Nov. 3. It is to be celebrated at the First Presbyterian church, Evanston, and a reception will follow the ceremony at the Anthony home, 225 Hamilton street. The bridal party has not as yet been chosen.

The marriage of Miss Abbie Crosby, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William S. Crosby, 602 East Division street, to Mr. Carl Dautel of Cleveland will take place on Nov. 10. The ceremony is to be performed at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Joseph W. Wassall, 444 Chestnut street, at 8 o'clock in the evening. Miss Lillian Schuttler will be the maid of honor and the groom's brother, Mr. George Dautel, will be the best man. The young couple will make their home in Cleveland.

The wedding of Miss Eugenia Hunt, daughter of Mrs. George Hunt and the late Gen. Hunt, to Mr. Cuthbert C. Adams, son of Dr. Charles Adams, will take place on Oct. 20. Mrs. Hunt has leased her home at Riverside for a term of two years, and has taken apartments at the Virginia for the winter, where the wedding will be solemnized. It is to be a quiet affair, as the family is in mourning.

Miss Mary R. Murry of Evanston has issued cards for a small reception to be held Saturday in honor of Miss Walker, who is to be married to Mr. Walter Johnston of Denver, Sept. 30, at the Walker home in Evanston.

A wedding which will be celebrated this fall is that of Miss Hazel Smith, daughter of Mrs. Wayland Smith, to Mr. Richard Jaeckel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugo Jaeckel of New York.

Mrs. Clarence Woolley and her mother, Mrs. Hale, reached Chicago last Friday, going directly to the Moraine at Highland Park.

Mr. and Mrs. Lucius G. Fisher, 317 Erie street, have closed their home at Mackinac. Mrs. and Miss Fisher returned to town Sunday, Mr. Fisher going to Petoskey for a period of several weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick S. Winston, 576 North State street, returned yesterday from Europe, where they spent the summer.

Mrs. Madison B. Kennedy returned to the city last Saturday after spending the summer in the east.

Mr. and Mrs. John S. Runnells and Mr. and Mrs. Eugene S. Pike are at the Mount Washington, Brentwood, N. H.

Mrs. H. H. Kohlsaat and Miss Kohlsaat arrived home Saturday after a sojourn in Europe.

Mr. Robert Roloson has returned from Europe.

Mrs. Walter Farwell is visiting friends in Washington.

Mrs. Henry A. Blair and children will return from their summer outing the end of this week.

Invitations are out for the reception to be given by the Daughters of the American Revolution, which is to be held in Memorial hall, Public Library building, the evening of Wednesday, Sept. 30.

Mr. Kendall Weston of Boston, after visiting friends in Chicago, is now at the Auditorium, where he will be for several days before his return home.

Invitations were issued yesterday for the marriage of Miss Saide Elizabeth Prescott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. De Witt Clinton Prescott, to Mr. James Pettit, to take place at 4 o'clock the afternoon of Tuesday, Oct. 6, at St. Paul's Episcopal church. At home cards are inclosed for after Dec. 1, at 5035 Madison avenue.

Volunteers' Meetings for the Public.

In connection with the annual regimental council held by the Volunteers of America at their hall, 735 West Madison street, this week, there will be special services every night for the general public. On Thursday at 8 p. m. a concert will be given.

COLTS RATTLED; NEW YORK WINS.

FINAL SCORE IS 8 TO 3.

One More Contest Left with McGraw's Men—Battle for Second Place.

The Colts' aspirations for second place were given one more setback yesterday afternoon when the New York Giants, encouraged by their victory of Sunday, defeated Selee's men in an interesting but poorly played contest at the west side grounds by a score of 8 to 3.

The first inning "hoodoo" which has prevailed during the series with New York did not desert the locals and almost before the game was fairly under way the visitors had driven the nail which, try as they might, the Colts were unable to draw out. It was not so much the fault of the Giants that they managed to chase four runs across the plate before the first round could be brought to an end. The Colts played perhaps the poorest they have during the entire season; gave Currie practically no support at all, and when that youngster, through the mistakes of those behind him, had got into a bad hole, they went completely in the air and allowed the Giants to romp around the bases almost at will.

After the fatal inning was over the Colts managed to play pretty good ball for two innings, but the strain was too much and again in the fourth things went awry and more mistakes allowed New York to further cinch the game.

Currie Against Mathewson.

Though Currie did not pitch a winning game by any means, the defeat can hardly be charged to him. Twelve hits in all were recorded against him, but only half of this number came in innings where runs were scored, the errors of the locals being responsible for the runs. Opposed to Currie on the slab for New York was Mathewson, and before the game began it looked like an uneven match. Mathewson pitched only a fairly good game, showed to better advantage at critical times, but his support was of the gilt edged order. At that he was pounded for eleven hits, only one fewer than the Giants got off Currie.

The struggle for second place drew a crowd of over 4,000 people to the west side grounds, and when they filed out after the game they were in a discontented frame of mind, but hopeful of a victory today, which will still give the locals a chance.

New York started the game in ominous fashion, Browne, the first man up, slamming out a double, and Bresnahan following with a pass. Then McGann singled, filling the bases. Here Mertes came up and poked a little grounder at Currie, who threw to Kling, forcing Browne. Kling immediately shot the ball towards Chance in order to complete the double, but the ball carromed off the side of Mertes' head and rolled out to Jones, and Bresnahan and McGann registered. Then Currie hit Babb in the head with the ball. Lauder hit down to Tinker, and Babb was forced at second, but Evers, who took the throw, winged the ball to the grand stand, and before it could be recovered, Mertes had scored and Lauder was perched on third. Lauder scored a moment later, when Currie helped matters along with a miscue on an easy throw from Chance to first base.

Fourth Is Also Dismal.

The fourth was another dismal round. Gilbert opened with a single and Warner followed suit, his hit going out to Jones. Davy, having had no chance as yet to distinguish himself in the error column, let the ball roll through him. That permitted Gilbert to count, and Warner went to second. Mathewson was safe, because of an ineffectual effort on Currie's part to force Warner at third. Brown flied out to McCarthy, and Mathewson, who strayed off first, was caught between the two sacks on a double play. Bresnahan hit down to Casey, who fumbled, and Warner scored.

Meanwhile the Colts were making strenuous efforts to connect with the plate. Not until the eighth was a man able to score. Then singles in a row by Jones, Tinker, and Kling, after one was gone, and an error enabled Jones to count.

The Giants added two more in the ninth, when, after Browne had cracked out his fourth hit, Bresnahan knocked the ball over into the left field bleachers for a home run, sending Browne home ahead of him.

Chicago added two in the ninth, but the handicap was too great to be overcome. Score:

Notes of the Colts' Game.

New York today for the last time this season.

Kling was there with the bat and got three hits in five times up.

McGinnity will pitch for the Giants, while Wicker will probably do business for the Colts.

Browne did one-fourth the batting for New York, getting a double and three singles.

Manager Selee has signed Clancy, an outfielder and first baseman of the Montreal team.

Harley went in to bat for Currie in the ninth and cracked the first ball pitched for a single.

The crowd roasted Chance in the first inning because he did not catch the ball that hit Mertes in the head. Not one-tenth of the spectators knew the ball hit "Sandow," but thought Chance had muffed it.

The Colts still have an outside chance, but a decidedly poor one, of beating New York out for second place. They must beat the Giants today and win all three games against Boston, while Pittsburg must capture the entire series from McGraw's men.

A great many of the fans seemed inclined to criticise Manager Selee for sending Currie in to pitch against Mathewson. Wicker has had a bad finger and Menefee and Lundgren are not in any too good shape. Besides, Currie was a stumbling block to the Giants while pitching for the St. Louis Cardinals.

Carey Easy for Walcott.

Boston, Mass., Sept. 21.—[Special.]—Joe Walcott made little work of whipping Tom Carey at Central A. C. tonight, the black man putting his opponent out early in the fifth round. The gong saved Carey in the first round, after which he showed some improvement, but not enough to place him on anything like even terms with Walcott.

Pugilistic Pointers.

Paddy Carroll, who last winter was manager in chief of the Lyceum Athletic club, has secured an option of the club's old arena on Desplaines street, but says he will not make a move to open until after the C. A. A. has run off several shows.

Farrell hit safely every time but one. It was his double in the sixth that tied up the score.

Local interest this week hinges on the outcome of the Charlie Neary-Young Mowatt six round skit, which is scheduled to take place at Milwaukee Friday night. The betting is even money, take your pick, despite the fact Neary is the boss fighter in the Cream City and has several pounds the advantage in weight.

Matchmakers Summerfield and Essig yesterday signed Otto Sieloff and "Buddy" Ryan for the windup at the Chicago Athletic association's first boxing entertainment, slated for Oct. 10. This match brings together the best pair of lightweights in Chicago and should prove interesting. Four other bouts between lesser lights will be staged.

"Young" Corbett and Abe Attel may yet get together if the champion cares to accept the proposition put up to him last night by Attel. Attel received a telegram from Corbett offering to meet him at 128 pounds at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, the winner to take all the purse and a side bet of $5,000. Attel wired back to Corbett saying he would meet the champion at his own terms, or at catchweight, but that he would not bet anything on the side at even money. Attel says he will bet $2,500 that he beats the champion if he can get 2 to 1 for his money. "The odds will be as good as 3 to 1 when I face Corbett," said Attel, "and I want 2 to 1 for my money."

SOX DEFEATED IN LONG BATTLE.

FREEMAN WINS THE GAME

Knocks Home Run After Darkness Sets In—Patterson Outpitches Gibson.

Boston, Mass., Sept. 21.—[Special.]—For eight innings of today's twelve round battle between the White Stockings and Collins' men, the local team fought an uphill fight and proved their mettle by winning out in the final session, 4 to 3.

Fred Parent had been kind enough to the Chicago team to give them a chance for the game by throwing the ball into the bleachers when two men were on bases. Gibson was unnerved for the moment, and Tannehill and Isbell caught him for extra base hits and the third run crossed the plate. Then the champions went after the visitors, but the great work of Patterson in the box held them down.

In the sixth the home team managed to tie up the score, and then began a siege of inning after inning with nothing accomplished. Darkness was hovering over the field, and, with the close of the twelfth inning, Umpire O'Loughlin would have had to call the contest a draw.

Freeman Ends Contest.

Patterson had disposed of two of the Plymouth Rocks in the twelfth, when Buck Freeman faced him. Buck laced the ball on a line straight between Callahan and Jones, neither of them seeing it until it was beyond them, and it rolled to the fence, while Freeman made the circuit of bases easily and scored the winning run.

Patterson pitched all around his opponent, Gibson. But the slugging habit of the champions came to their aid and pulled the game out of the fire. Gibson was wild, while Patterson made the local team work hard for everything it got. At that Patterson was hit much harder than Gibson.

But for Parent's wild throw in the fourth the White Sox would probably have been shut out. It was a needless throw and was responsible for sending the game into extra innings. Callahan was on second, having reached there on a two bagger to deep right, when Clark cut a bounder to short that Parent fumbled until he had no chance to get the runner. He finally got the ball and lobbed it far over Lachance's head into the bleachers. Green was an easy out, but Tannehill drove the leather over Dougherty's head for two bases. And then Isbell smashed it to the extreme corner of right field, giving him three bases, scoring the last run for the White Sox. Score:

Notes of the White Sox Game.

The White Sox close their season here tomorrow and then move on to Philadelphia.

La Chance played a great fielding game at first base. His work in the second spoiled two hits for the White Sox, and he pulled off a great double play.

Tom Hughes went on the bases for Farrell every time the "Duke" got on, but never managed to get any farther than the base Farrell had just left to him.

Callahan played left field again today. In the second inning he came near being injured. Farrell hit a long foul to left that Callahan made a great sprint after and nearly got, but he tripped and fell head foremost into the fence. He had a narrow escape.

Denial from Mr. Bartelme.

Chicago, Sept. 21.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—I read in Saturday's morning papers that Mr. Stagg accused me of being one of several Michigan alumni attempting to persuade Eckersall and Hill to join the Michigan football squad at Ludington. I wish to state that I have been seriously ill for three months and only recently returned to the city from a recuperating trip. I have neither talked to nor corresponded with Eckersall for over four months, and I have never had a word with Hill and would not know him if I saw him. It seems to me Mr. Stagg becomes unduly excited without reason. He connects my name with what he chooses to declare discourteous and unsportsmanlike procedure. I trust he will in turn be courteous and sportsmanlike enough to apologize for the reckless use of my name in connection with an incident of which I have no knowledge. Yours truly, PHIL G. BARTELME.

Al Taylor Is Defeated.

BIG BETS AT GRAVESEND.

"GET RICH QUICK" RYAN WINS A LARGE SUM IN THE RING.

He Places Many Thousands of Dollars on Stamping Ground and Embarrassment, Both of Which Win—Controls George Considine's Book, Although Not Allowed to Put Up a Slate for Himself—John A. Drake Loses Big Wager on High Chancellor

New York, Sept. 21.—[Special.]—John J. Ryan, the get rich quick man who won $90,000 at Gravesend on Saturday, was again in evidence at the track today, cleaning up another small fortune.

Ryan is causing a tremendous sensation among the layers these days—so much so that most of them dread to see him coming down the line.

Many curious persons hunted him up today just to "get a look." Ryan was behind the book run by George F. Considine in one corner of the ring, nearest the field. He wore a light check suit, black derby hat, white shirt, and black silk tie, in which nestled his famous diamond headlight. He smoked fat cigars one after another and was constantly in conversation with men known to possess racetrack wisdom.

It was not until the third race that Ryan began to make the other layers squirm. He believed Stamping Ground had the others beaten and proceeded to bet $5,000 on her at 8 to 1. When the filly landed the race Ryan, with $40,000 in hand, took matters easy until the fifth event, when he got ready to unbelt on Newton Bennington's Embarrassment. He ordered Considine to hold this colt out in his book and then went around the ring, betting $1,000 at a clip. It is estimated he got $30,000 down at an average of 6 to 5, clearing $37,000 to the race. It is common talk since Friday that Ryan won close to $150,000 from the ground, while his book showed a profit of large dimensions, too.

While Ryan occupied the center of the stage all afternoon, John A. Drake excited much comment by a big plunge on his colt High Chancellor in the last race. High Chancellor opened at 5 to 1, and it is said nearly $35,000 was placed before the price dropped to threes. Drake stood to win over $100,000, but Mamie Worth upset his plan, beating the Drake colt a length.

E. R. Thomas was another heavy bettor. He won $30,000, it is said, on St. Valentine in the first race, but was a loser to the fifth.

First race, about 6 furlongs—St. Valentine, 109 pounds [Fuller], 6 to 1, won; Mineola, 106 [Redfern], 4 to 1, second; Sais, 109 [Higgins], 50 to 1, third. Time, 1:10 4-5. The Minute Man, Harangue, Adriutha, Batts, and Raider ran.

Second race, handicap steeplechase, about 2½ miles—Borough, 147 pounds [Donohue], 4 to 1, won; Baron Pepper, 133 [Helder], 20 to 1, second; The Ragged Cavalier, 143 [Saffel], 12 to 1, third. Time, 5:07 1-5. Self-Protection, Tankard, and Silver Twist ran. Gascar, Manilian, Faranlass, and Step Lightly fell. Cephalalgia refused.

Third race, handicap, 1 1-16 miles—Stamping Ground, 107 pounds [Higgins], 8 to 1, won; Eugenia Burch, 113 [Fuller], 13 to 5, second; Mollie Brandt, 108 [Redfern], 7 to 1, third. Time, 1:46 3-5. Ascension, Ada Nay, Elsie L., and Lux Casta ran. Agnes D. left at the post.

Fourth race, the Albemarle stakes, 5½ furlongs—Funnyside, 105 pounds [Burns], 8 to 1, won; Flammula, 104 [Fuller], 17 to 10, second; Letola, 99 [Higgins], 2 to 1, third. Time, 1:07 1-5. Short Cake, Thistle Heather, Pirouette, Silver Dream, Fine Art, and Handsome Florry ran.

Fifth race, selling, 1 mile and a furlong—Embarrassment, 94 pounds [Higgins], 7 to 5, won; Mabel Richardson, 107 [Hicks], 4 to 1, second; Stonewall, 105 [Michaels], 20 to 1, third. Time, 1:53 1-5. Thorneycroft, Harrison, Highlander, The Rival, Royal Pirate, and Khitai ran.

Sixth race, handicap, about 6 furlongs—Mamie Worth, 106 pounds [Burns], 5 to 2, won; High Chancellor, 113 [O'Neill], 3 to 1, second; Invincible, 104 [Wilkerson], 40 to 1, third. Time, 1:09 4-5. Parisienne, Illyria, Mary Street, and Girdle ran.

GOLF AT WASHINGTON PARK.

Women's Championship in Progress, with Mrs. W. Herrick in the Lead—Other Events.

Play in the women's championship of the Washington Park club began yesterday, twenty members starting in the qualifying round for the championship and second flight cups. Mrs. W. Herrick led the field with a score of 89, making the first round in 47 and the second in 42. Scores of those who qualified were as follows:

CHAMPIONSHIP CUP.

	1.	2.	Total.
Mrs. W. Herrick	47	42	89
Mrs. L. C. Wachsmuth	48	49	97
Mrs. H. T. Howard	49	51	100
Miss M. Plamondon	57	55	102

SECOND FLIGHT CUP.

	1.	2.	Total.
Mrs. E. S. Hunter	62	52	114
Mrs. C. H. Canby	64	52	116
Mrs. O. W. Brewer	56	65	121
Mrs. H. L. Lobdell	70	62	132

The first match play rounds will be played this morning, Mrs. Herrick meeting Mrs. Howard and Mrs. Wachsmuth playing Miss Plamondon. In the second flight cup Mrs. Hunter will play Mrs. Brewer, and Mrs. Canby opposes Mrs. Lobdell.

Club cup—Mrs. W. B. McIlvaine defeated Miss Schnur, 3 up 2 to play; Miss Landon defeated Mrs. H. R. Hale, 3 up 2 to play; Miss Grace Leslie won from Mrs. T. H. Lamprecht by default.

Mrs. Caleb F. Fox of the Huntingdon Valley Country club of Philadelphia, one of the best players in the country, arrived in Chicago on Sunday, and is a guest of Miss Landon at Winnetka. She will compete in the national championship at Wheaton next week and will practice over the course today.

Events are scheduled for today as follows:

Hinsdale—Play for Robbins cup.
Homewood—Play in men's handicap.
Skokie—Finals in women's tourney and mixed foursome.

EASTERN GOLFERS STAY HOME.

Mrs. C. T. Stout, the National Champion, and Other Players Will Not Compete at Wheaton.

New York, Sept. 21.—[Special.]—Tomorrow night the entries will close for the women's national golf championship for 1903, to be held at the Chicago Golf club at Wheaton, Ill., from Sept. 29 to Oct. 3. Later mails may make a difference, but otherwise it is sure the total entries will not be as numerous as last year.

Previously it has been considered a matter of course the holder of the title should defend it, but this time precedent has been overruled. Indeed, to defend the title won is understood to be an obligation for those who have been lucky enough to win it. In the last two championships for women the winner was Miss Genevieve Hecker. Since winning the title the last time Miss Hecker has become a bride, and, as Mrs. Charles T. Stout, declares she will not go to Chicago this year. Mrs. Stout's refusal is a decided one.

Another prominent player who says she will not go to the championship meet is Mrs. E. A. Manice. Miss Ruth Underhill, Mrs. W. F. Morgan, and Miss Vanderhoef are among many more not entered. It is evident Miss Bessie Anthony will have only Boston and Philadelphia players to defeat.

Notes of the Golfers.

The annual harvest dinner of the Exmoor Country club will be held on Saturday night.

Jacob Schaefer Goes to France.

LIGHT WEIGHTS GET THE MONEY.

Judge Himes and McGee Unable to Carry the Burdens Assigned Them.

The September handicap, the feature event at Hawthorne yesterday, was captured by J. F. Davis & Co.'s Luralighter, at odds of 7 to 1. The Don, which was purchased by M. D. Miller early in the day for the stated sum of $4,000, was second, and Lady Jocelyn finished third.

Weight was an important factor in the result, as the three which finished in the money carried 107, 106, and 104 pounds respectively, while those most considered in the betting were practically handicapped out of it. This was notably the case with Judge Himes, who was asked to tote 128 pounds on a track that was too hard for his dickey legs. The weight also hampered McGee and Linguist, neither of which, despite they carried the bulk of the money, was prominent.

Luralighter and The Don delayed the start by trying to kick everything that came within reach of their heels. When given the word to go The Don, with his usual early speed, set the pace, and on the back stretch had a lead of nearly three lengths. Luralighter, however, was always within hailing distance, and in the swing for the stretch ran over the leader and won easily. The Don was much the better of the others, and experienced no difficulty in securing second money. Lady Jocelyn closed fast.

Galba Wins the Jump.

Galba, which beat Paulaker by a nose last Saturday, won the steeplechase, and Paulaker was again second. Falella, who was equal favorite with Galba, led the first time around, then gave way to Paulaker, who in turn succumbed to Galba after clearing the last obstacle. Falella ran third. Mrs. Grannan threw her rider at the first jump, the boy escaping with a wrenched back after falling on his head heavily.

The six furlong dash for all ages and the mile and one furlong race which followed it were won by S. S. Brown's entries. Auditor, one of his crack 2 year olds, took the six furlong race, beating Toah and Callant, and Airlight captured the long distance event from O'Hagen and Our Bessie. O'Hagen made the running and led by nearly two lengths to the last quarter, where Airlight and Our Bessie closed. There was quite a bit of bumping a hundred yards out, in which Our Bessie suffered. Airlight, however, came through and won easily. H. Phillips, who rode Our Bessie, claimed a foul, which was not allowed.

Notes of the Hawthorne Track.

Joe Yeager and E. G. Stutts "cut in" yesterday.

J. J. McCafferty was at the track and left for the east last night.

The gross value of the September handicap was $2,780, of which $2,205 went to the winner.

After Mrs. Grannan threw her jockey she accompanied the balance of the field once over the course, then ran out on the main track and to her stall.

BIG FIELD IN COLUMBUS TROT.

Columbus, O., Sept. 21.—The grand circuit meeting opened auspiciously today. The weather was clear and warm and the track fast. The attendance was the largest ever recorded on an opening day at the local track.

Bell Kuser was a 5 to 2 favorite in the 2:12 trot and won easily in straight heats, although pushed at the finish in the last by Patchen Maid.

The 2:24 pace furnished the surprise. Tom Keene was a favorite and he won the first heat handily. Before the chestnut gelding had reached the half in the second heat, however, he broke badly and was distanced. King Direct won that and the remaining heats with comparative ease.

The 2:21 trot, the last race on the card, brought out the record field of the year, there being seventeen starters. The talent was quite at sea on this race, and there was no real favorite. Angus Pointer, who sold at 2 to 1 in the books, was distanced in the second heat. Cotillion won in straight heats with speed to spare. Summary:

Refuses to Leave the Stable.

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 21.—Frank Bell, the favorite, and Hilee ran like a team to the head of the stretch today. Hilee quit and Bell came on, winning easily. Vana, entered in the fifth race, would not leave the stable and was scratched, twenty minutes being allowed for a new book.

First race, 5 furlongs—Lora J., 106 pounds [Sheehan], 4 to 1, won; Cromwell, 5 to 2, second; Phillida, 20 to 1, third. Time, 1:03½.

Second race, 6 furlongs—Harry Griffith, 102 pounds [Shea], 6 to 1, won; My Surprise, 9 to 10, second; Stub, 10 to 1, third. Time, 1:16¾.

THINKS CHICAGO WILL BE HARD.

Ludington, Mich., Sept. 21.—[Special.]—Michigan's football prospects are looking up with the appearance of Graver, Dickey, and Maddock in football togs, and the assurance that big Carter will join them at Ann Arbor. Twenty-eight men are now daily on the gridiron, and a mysterious 200 pounder is on the way.

Wiseacres say Wendall and Clark of Detroit, Bigelow of the reserves, and Eyke of the Olivet team are sure of varsity honors. The Indiana game will show a good lineup, but Yost says the team that plays Chicago will be the Michigan team. Yost estimates the Chicago game the hardest, with Minnesota and Wisconsin a tie next in order.

Today Yost selected for first squad: Center, Gregory; guards, Gooding and Barnet; tackles Maddock and Eyke; ends, Redden and Edmonds; quarter, James; halves, Heston and Graver; full back, Bigelow. Second squad: center, Bliss; guards, Allen and Day; tackles, F. Redden and Depree; ends, Herson and Weeks; quarter, Clark; halves, Dickey and Wendall; full back, Longman.

Among the High Schools.

Edward Knorr, left tackle on the championship Hyde Park High school football team last fall, has decided to enter the University of Illinois, and will leave for Urbana this morning.

Early in the year Knorr intended to enter the state institution, where he has two brothers, but after practicing for a week with the Illinois candidates at Spring Lake he returned home to accept a position with a local golf club, and intended to remain at work. Dispatches from Champaign have announced that the management was much worried over the failure of the Hyde Parker to put in an appearance, as he was counted on to play at tackle. Knorr made his final decision yesterday, and will get to Woodruff's camp in time to practice this afternoon. As a tackle Knorr had no equal in the high school league last year, and has always been considered as of good varsity caliber.

Sam Ransom, the Hyde Park colored boy, who joined Stagg's squad early in the season, but decided to finish his course at high school, was out for practice at Hyde Park yesterday for the first time this season. He will play on the south side school team this season, and will be a great help in rebuilding the Hyde Park team.

Practice at Northwestern.

Thirty-six men were out for football practice on Sheppard field yesterday afternoon. Two were new men—Mathews, captain of last year's academy team, who weighs 145, and will try for quarter back, and Mead, half back, from Lewis institute, who weighs 150.

McCornack has put Jenkins, who was a promising candidate for half back, into the line, where his weight and speed will probably enable him to hold down the position of tackle. Weinberger, the North Division end, showed up well yesterday, and gives promise of becoming a valuable man. With one or two exceptions Weinberger's play in the game with North Division on Saturday was good. Stribling at quarter is also developing well.

A practice game will be played today with a team from Fort Sheridan. The soldier boys have been coached by Lieut. Meredith Neily, and as they are a heavy team they are expected to put up a good game. McCornack will give almost every man on the squad a chance to play in the game.

Practice for Stagg's Squad.

Candidates for the University of Chicago football team were given one of the hardest day's practice of the season yesterday. Stagg had his men out in the morning for over an hour, giving them special drill in stopping and opposing linesmen. The work consisted mostly of the ends practicing blocking the tackles, and the whole squad was sent through the work.

In the afternoon the men were given their regular practice at tackling, kicking, and catching the ball. Stagg divided the squad into two elevens and lined them up for fifteen minutes of scrimmage work. Neither side scored, and the ball was in the center of the field most of the time. Four new men were out, W. G. Blair, who comes from Kansas, and weighs 165; Kirby, an old Wisconsin player, who tips the scales at 165; Yates, 143, from Bloomington High school, and Beaty, 144, former captain of the Fisk university colored team of Nashville.

GRAINS ARE MARKED DOWN

WHEAT LOSES OVER A CENT AND CORN 2 CENTS.

Ideal Weather All Over the Country for Three Days, Favorable Conditions for Thrashing, Heavy Russian Shipments of Wheat, and Claims Corn Was Little Damaged by the Frosts Start Renewed Liquidation on Great Scale—Export Demand Improved.

Perfect weather all over the country for seventy-two hours, with a promise of its continuance for at least thirty hours longer, was too much for the courage of the grain bulls, and liquidation was heavy and severe in all the pits, forcing a continued decline. In wheat there was a break of 1¼c to 1⅜c, with the close only slightly above the bottom figures, at net losses of 1⅛c to 1¼c for the day. The December delivery sold from 79⅛c at the opening, that figure a drop of ⅛c from the Saturday close, to 78⅛-¼c, and closed at 78⅜c sellers. The low price was a shade more than 5c below the high point of last week, a drop of 5c in six days.

On Saturday, the sharp decline uncovered resting orders for export on a considerable scale, but as on Saturday the liquidation was so heavy the market made little response to the improved cash demand, and did not hold what little gain it made. After an early dip to 78⅛-¼c there was a rally in December to 79c on liberal covering by big local shorts based on the export business reported, the figure put as high as 480,000 bu, but there were claims from New York a good deal of the business was done late Saturday, and Minneapolis sent word of a threatened strike of leaders at the mills which might result in closing them down. On such advices the shorts who had covered put out their lines again, and still lower prices were reached.

The weather was enough of itself to take the heart out of the bull whose convictions had been based in any way upon the long stretch of severe rains in the northwest and their damage to wheat. The northwest markets were about as weak as this and predictions came from there the movement would be liberal by next week if the weather continued favorable.

Statistics Are Bearish.

Aside from the weather, the statistics were mostly bearish from a comparative standpoint, about the only exception being that primary receipts were only 1,319,000 bu, compared with 1,666,000 bu last year and 1,814,000 bu two years ago. But they were not far behind as they have been, and seemed liberal enough considering the recent bad weather. Minneapolis had 643 cars, compared with 642 last year; Duluth, 196, compared with 382. Minneapolis reported the country free sellers of wheat. The visible supply made a decided increase of 1,761,000 bu, to a total of 15,977,000 bu, compared with 22,526,000 bu last year, when there had been an increase of 470,000 bu. Local stocks in store increased 88,000 bu to 2,999,000 bu. Minneapolis stocks for two days increased 300,000 bu.

World's shipments were heavy, 9,172,000 bu, compared with 12,524,000 bu the week before, 10,809,000 bu last year, and 9,345,000 bu two years ago. The falling off for the week was more in the American contribution than that of any other country. Russia still shipped on a large scale, 4,360,000 bu, and the Danubian offering of 2,104,000 bu was larger than the American shipments by 204,000 bu. The amount on ocean passage decreased 104,000 bu to 29,880,000 bu, compared with 29,000,000 bu a year ago. Liverpool futures were ½d to ⅝d lower, the decline attributed to the large Russian shipments and to large American offerings. Clearances were 368,000 bu. There was a good milling demand here on the break, with sales of 250,000 bu hard winter, and Duluth and St. Louis reported a good demand from abroad, the export sales reported from New York probably including the business of interior markets.

Corn Loses 2 Cents.

Corn was the weakest of the grains, being most affected by the improvement in the weather. It was fair and at least moderately warm all over the corn belt, splendid conditions for maturing that part of the crop which was not matured and had not been injured by the frost, and most of the reports from the country were to the effect the frost had not done much harm, such claims coming even from Nebraska, where the cold had been the severest and most prolonged. There were scattered reports of damage from this and other states, but they were too isolated to give holders any encouragement, and liquidation was severe from the start. Opening prices were from ⅛c to 1¼c lower than Saturday's closing figures, and they looked high before the session had progressed far. There were occasional small rallies, or, rather, halts in the decline, but the market was weakest at the last at losses of 2c to 2¼c for the day. There was little help from the good cash business which developed on the break both here and at the seaboard, and from the fact that the country selling of cash corn was greatly reduced on the decline. There were too many longs with losses, determined to get out, to make any marked reaction possible. The stop loss selling was general and severe.

The cash market was 1½c to 2c lower, shipping sales here were fully 700,000 bu, and the seaboard reported export sales of 400,000 bu. Clearances were only 4,000 bu. Local inspection was 794 cars, or 224 over the estimate, with 65 contract. Estimated for today, 690 cars. Local stocks in store increased 68,000 bu. The visible supply increased 982,000 bu to 7,907,000 bu. World's shipments were 3,799,000 bu, compared with 4,125,000 bu last week and 2,137,000 bu last year. Supplies on ocean passage increased 192,000 bu, a total of 21,664,000 bu, compared with 8,184,000 bu a year ago. Liverpool futures were ⅛d to ⅜d lower. Commission selling was general, particularly heavy by Milmine-Bodman, Bryant, and Logan-Bryan. The Cudahys covered a little early, but most of the session were pressing their advantage on the short side. Brosseau covered a big short line and Comstock and Wagner were buyers.

Oats Yield Also.

Oats were weak with the other grains, but it could still be said of them they did not break as fast nor as far. At the worst they were ⅝c to 1c lower, and closing prices were ⅜c to ⅝c lower, the May selling from 38⅞c to 38⅛c, and closing at 38½c bid. There was heavy selling on the opening decline by Rosenfeld, a rally on buying by Patten brokers, and a renewed break in the last hour on heavy selling by Wells. Cash prices were ½c lower, the shipping demand moderate, with sales of 100,000 bu. There were 171 cars inspected in, with only 7 standard from all sources, and 150,000 bu standard inspected out of store. Estimated for today, 150 cars. The market was steadied by the continued decrease in local stocks, which lost 619,000 bu and are now only 1,208,000 bu. The visible supply decreased 485,000 bu to 6,937,000 bu, compared with 6,715,000 bu last year, when there was an increase of 1,501,000 bu. Clearances were 15,000 bu.

Heavy Liquidation in Pork.

Heavy liquidation in the provision list generally was the feature of that market. It was pronounced in pork and lard. The September pork, largely a nominal market, closed 50c lower, October closing 47½c and May 22½c. September lard lost only 5c, while the October and January were each 25c lower. Ribs, on the other hand, sold up, September and October, 12½@15c. The January declined 15c. October ribs were in strong demand from shorts early, selling at $9.50, 30c better than on Saturday, when a good sized selling order came out and broke the price to $9.32½. Commission houses had pork and lard for sale. On the decline there was a moderate degree of packing house support, but the closing tone was not much better than heavy. Hog receipts were 30,000, with 16,000 estimated today. Western points reported 46,600, against 55,600 a week ago, and 37,100 last year. Shipments of cured meats were 1,721,200 lbs, against 2,547,400 lbs a year ago, and of lard 1,339,700 lbs, compared with 1,522,600 lbs last year.

Rye ruled weak in sympathy with other grains, and was from 1@1½c lower. Demand was limited and offerings moderate. The visible increased 50,000 bu, local stocks increased 25,000 bu. Russian area seeded to rye is reported 814,000 acres larger than last year. Cash in store was nominally 54½c, and fresh sample, 56c. December sold at 54½c and May at 57c.

Barley offerings were not heavy for Monday, though inspection was 94 cars. The visible increased 572,000 bu, against 893,000 a week ago, and 559,000 last year. Poor to choice screenings were quoted 40@49½c; low grade mixing, 48@49½c; low grade malting, 49½@51c; fair to good, 52@57c; and choice, 58@59c, with fancy 61c.

Timothy seed was easier as to September, sales being made at $3.20. October was about 5c off at $3.15. Clover seed ruled steady, contract and October, nominally, $9.75@10.00.

There was a decline of 1@2c in flaxseed, an influence from other markets: Receipts were 9 cars here, 46 at Minneapolis, and 31 at Duluth. No. 1 northwestern sold at $1.01, southwestern, nominally, 97c; rejected, 91@96c. September and October were nominally 97c. December sold at 98c. May sold early at $1.03, closing $1.02 asked and $1.00 bid.

INTERESTING TRADE GOSSIP ON 'CHANGE.

"The August flour and wheat exports are interesting and significant," says the Modern Miller. "The wheat exports, considering a 600,000,000 bu crop, which is indicated by the government, show a striking decline from 16,117,964 bu in August, 1902, to 6,444,439 bu in August, 1903. The only port in the country that does not show a falling off in the August wheat exports is Galveston. Baltimore declined from 2,423,068 bu to 830,882; Boston, 768,243 to 9,677; Newport News, 1,144,310 to 112,000; New York, 2,654,800 to 524,700; Philadelphia, 1,059,680 to 384,000; New Orleans, 1,650,605 to 1,206,683. The gulf ports are holding up, but otherwise the falling off is marked. The wheat exports for the eight months ending August are but little more than half of those in the corresponding period of last year. Flour exports for August do not show the increase which general reports led the trade to believe would be shown. Some stress was laid on the heavy exports from western districts, but the totals prove a falling off of 370,000 brls. Total flour exports for August were 1,202,666 brls, against 1,573,934 brls last August. In the shipments, Baltimore, Boston, Newport News, New York, Puget Sound, and San Francisco all show less than in August, 1902, and New Orleans and Philadelphia show increases. New Orleans flour exports were doubled in August this year, compared with the preceding August."

It would be hard to find three consecutive days in any year when the weather conditions over the entire country have been as perfect as they were on Friday, Saturday, and Sunday. The map yesterday morning showed that the skies had been clear all over the entire breadth and length of the United States for the twenty-four hours ending at 7 o'clock, except for an unmeasurable trace of rainfall at Santa Fé and a few showers in the extreme northern sections of Montana and Washington. The conditions had been the same on Saturday, except for traces of rain at Concordia, Kas., and one or two points in Montana and Washington, while on Friday there had been no precipitation except a trace at Marquette, Mich., and some rains in southern Florida. Temperatures all over the corn belt were apparently of the ideal autumnal variety, though still a little cooler in Ohio and Indiana than west of the Mississippi, the last lagging influence, probably, of last week's cold wave. The forecast was for fair and warmer weather generally for the ensuing thirty-six hours, perfect conditions for maturing corn and for the thrashing and movement of wheat in both the southwest and the northwest. It was hardly to be wondered at that such a complete reversal in atmospheric "form" should have struck panic to the hearts of long holders in all grains.

The most encouraging message on the condition of corn after the freeze came from Cooper-Linn of Humboldt, Neb., a reliable firm, operating a number of stations in western Nebraska and Kansas, where the cold during the recent freeze was most severe. Under date of Sept. 19 they wrote H. W. Rogers as follows: "Our agent has just come in from our stations in the western part of the state and Kansas where they report the frost and freezing most severe. He says they had a heavy frost and quite a hard freeze, but for some reason it did not affect the corn. Most of their corn is out of the way of frost, but he says it did not even hurt the late corn, and I see that is the general belief all over the state. We have had no frost here that would kill anything." In commenting on this report Mr. Rogers said: "It is probable that the excessive moisture in the ground and in the atmosphere saved the corn, preventing the cold weather from affecting the plant seriously."

Reports from scattered points in Iowa and Illinois tell of serious damage by the frosts of last week. B. McCormick of Champaign county, this state, writes Lamson Bros.: "The frosts of last week have developed into nothing short of a calamity for Champaign county. We traveled yesterday through probably forty miles of the best corn section of the county, which is the low level land. The corn on this land is all killed and the damage cannot be estimated. Farmers who last Friday said their corn was not hurt now say it will be a total loss so far as merchantable corn is concerned. It will make poor soft feed only. The corn on the high rolling land escaped with but slight damage, but this kind of land in our county is far in the minority. The corn is green still and will take three weeks yet to mature. Champaign county will not raise half as much good corn as in 1901."

"We have been receiving careful estimates on corn and hogs," says R. W. Roloson, "and we find on an average we will have a crop of corn finer in condition and quality than last year and a crop of about 2,225,000,000 bu. Our reports also say that the frost did but little damage, as it was a light one and the covering to the ears unusually heavy. The reserves of old corn are heavier than for some years, and the farmers are likely to be freer sellers soon. All say there are plenty of hogs, and they are in good condition. There are a good many cattle, but they are not feeding them grain, as in the last two years, on account of the price. They are feeding mostly on grass."

"It seems the height of absurdity," said W. T. Baker "to assume that with the corn crop admittedly two to four weeks late and temperatures of 26 to 32 degrees over the corn belt the middle of September, as there were last week, the corn has not been damaged. Reports are beginning to come in now showing serious damage in this state, in Iowa, in Nebraska, and in Kansas. But there hasn't been a frost in forty years which was made the basis of speculation that was not followed by a panic such as we have had in the corn market."

Some grain men in Nebraska are evidently decidedly bearish on corn, presumably because of the way the Nebraska crop weathered the recent cold snap. An official of the Hamilton Grain company of Omaha wired the Updikes for their opinion on the wheat market, adding: "We think we know all about corn." Queried as to his views on corn he replied: "Sell it on the bulges and sell it on the breaks."

"The provision trade is so out of balance," said John Brownell, "that when anything is thrown on it in the way of product the price is bound to break. In the grain lists there is always more or less of a demand from shorts, but there is nothing of this kind in provisions. The pork price was off 50c today on an attempt to sell only 1,500 brls on which the stop had been reached. Even scalpers dare not touch the stuff in the quantities of a year or two ago."

The memory of the oldest wheat trader hardly runs back to a time when a sharp break in wheat has not been accompanied or followed by some sort of an announcement the Minneapolis mills would close down. Yesterday it came in the form of a rumor the loaders at the mills would demand an eight hour working day with no reduction in pay, and that the mills would refuse to grant it.

The sharp decline in wheat and corn has brought American markets nearer in line than those of Europe, and made possible a considerable improvement in the export demand. Ocean vessel lines apparently propose to share in the benefits of the increased business, as ocean freights have been advanced about ⅜c per bu.

An official crop report of Russia states that the area of all leading grains showed an increase over last year, figures being as follows: Wheat, increased, 1,501,000 acres; rye, 844,000 acres; barley, 1,393,000 acres; oats, 4,006,000 acres; and corn, 18,000 acres.

Advices from both Kansas and Nebraska are said to indicate a large movement of wheat if the weather keeps favorable. Minneapolis houses sent the same sort of word about the probable movement of spring wheat.

According to Minneapolis advices hunters have found time between shots to examine the wheat shocks, and that those back from the country say the shocks are wet way in and green; conditions generally quite bad.

Rollin E. Smith, managing editor of the Commercial West, is an applicant for membership in the local board, and will return to the grain commission trade, opening an office in Minneapolis.

Agents of a large line house in the northwest says farmers in North Dakota and Minnesota show a disposition to thrash wheat as soon as possible and market at once.

Average weight of hogs last week was 259 lbs, the same as on the previous week. This compared with 246 lbs a year ago, and 253 lbs in 1901.

The annual meeting of the Board of Trade Mutual Benefit association will be held in the visitors' room of the board of trade at 2 p. m. Friday.

Deliveries on September contracts were 100,000 bu wheat, 200,000 bu corn, 5,000 bu oats, 10,000 bu rye, and 1,000 tcs lard.

IN THE NEW YORK MARKETS.

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—Dry goods—Operations for spot goods were on more liberal scale, but buying by jobbers is restricted for the future by the fact that they cannot obtain accommodation from the banks. Jobbers are not as active as they were, but still a fair aggregate of business is in progress for this time of year.

Produce—Cheese—Receipts, 2,808 pkgs. Market firm. State full cream, fancy, small, colored, 11⅜c; small, white, 11⅜c; large, colored, 11⅛c; large, white, 11⅛c. Butter—Receipts, 7,148 pkgs. Firm. State dairy, 15@20c; extra creamery, 21½c; creamery, common to choice, 16@21c. Eggs—Receipts, 7,896 pkgs. Unsettled. State and Pennsylvania fancy mixed, 23@24c; State and Pennsylvania seconds to firsts, 19@22c; western extras, 23c; western thirds, 17@18c; western seconds to firsts, 19@22c; refrigerated, 17½@20c.

Coffee—The market for coffee futures opened steady at a partial advance of 5 points, following firm primary markets and small receipts, but turned easier soon after the call under bearish cables from Brazil. The close was quiet on that basis. Sales were 22,500 bags, including October at 4.35c; November, 4.30@4.45c; December, 4.60@4.70c; January, 4.70@4.80c; March, 4.80@4.95c; May, 4.95@5.05c; June, 5.10c; July, 5.10@5.15c.

Cotton—Futures closed steady. September, 11.16c; October, 9.94c; November, 9.73c; December, 9.76c; January, 9.74c; February, 9.74c; March, 9.75c; April, 9.75c; May, 9.75c; June, 9.75c; July, 9.75c. Spot closed quiet, 15 points lower; middling uplands, 11.60c; middling gulf, 11.85c. Sales, 247 bales.

Metals—Tin was easy at $26.50@27.00. Copper was dull and nominally unchanged. Lake is quoted at $13.75; electrolytic at $13.62½@13.75, and casting at $13.25@13.37½. Lead was unchanged both here and in London, the latter market closing at £11 2s 6d and the former at $4.50. Spelter was unchanged at £21 2s 6d in London and at $6.00 locally. Iron closed at 50s 6d in Glasgow and at 45s 8d in Middlesboro. Locally iron was quiet. No. 1 foundry, northern, is quoted at $17.00, No. 2 foundry, northern, at $16.50, and No. 1 foundry, southern, and No. 1 foundry, southern, at $15.50@16.00.

Elgin Butter Market.

ELGIN, Ill., Sept. 21.—[Special.]—The quotation committee of the Elgin board of trade advanced the price of butter from 20c to 21½c. The increased demand from consuming markets is reported responsible for the appreciation in price. Production for the district during the week, 702,832 lbs.

GOOD BUYING OF BOARD.

SHARES OF THE BOX COMPANY IN ACTIVE DEMAND.

Advance Is Based on Expected Changes in the Management—Chicago Houses Large Sellers of Steel Shares—Corporation Organizes an Export Company to Handle Its Foreign Business—South Has Not Lost in Wall Street Liquidation.

There was a considerable demand for Boxboard shares yesterday, based on the fact that fourteen independent companies have agreed to go into a selling arrangement with the United Boxboard and Paper company. This is taken to mean the early completion of plans by which O. C. Barber will become the directing head of the boxboard and paper business.

If Mr. Barber can get the loose ends of the company together, discover the actual cost of manufacture, and unify the industry, there should be a profitable outcome of present plans. Mr. Barber and the leading independents are strong enough to make the business pay if it is in it to do so.

American Can shares were steady. There was little doing in them.

Biscuit stocks worked fractionally lower than the prices obtaining last week. It is understood the company is making preparations to open its Chicago plants.

Several officials of the Chicago Pneumatic Tool company reached Chicago yesterday. There appears to be nothing to be said of the property except that the system of bookkeeping has been reorganized and the details of the cost of manufacture are understood. Hereafter harmony in the working force of the company is expected. Those who should know figure that the company has a good future before it.

Chicago Sells Steel Stocks.

Several Chicago houses have in the last few days been large sellers of United States Steel stocks. At the end of last week one house sold 10,000 shares of preferred and 5,000 shares of common for one customer. Another house sold 15,000 shares yesterday morning, and others had bearish advices on the stock from their New York correspondents.

The large lots mentioned were long stock and came from sources which might be considered fairly well informed.

Legal Advice Free.

The Boston Elevated has notified its employés that hereafter they will be furnished legal advice concerning personal affairs free by the legal department of the road. This undertaking is largely experimental.

Prosperity in the South.

"I fully agree with you as to the south being at this moment the most prosperous part of the country. It has had good crops and fair prices for a number of years past. It is and has been selling its lumber at high prices, and in the south, certainly in the Yazoo delta, the cutting down of standing timber adds to the value of the land, which condition does not prevail in the heavily timbered districts of the north, where, on the cutting down of the forest, a sandy or rocky desert is generally left.

"In the Mississippi valley we have this year an absolutely assured good crop of corn, and our prospects with respect to cotton are flattering. Moreover, the south, particularly the agricultural south, has not lost a dollar by the tremendous liquidation which has taken place in Wall street, nor does it owe a dollar in respect to underwritings. At the present moment the farming population of the United States is, in my opinion, the richest of any class in the community, and the farmers of the south seem likely to fare best in the near future."

To Enlarge Foreign Sales.

The United States Steel Products Export company has been formed, with a nominal capital, to take over the foreign business of some of the subsidiary companies of the United States Steel corporation. The purpose of the new concern is to take care of foreign business now on hand. J. A. Farrell, general sales agent for exports of the American Steel and Wire company, will be general manager of the United States Steel Products Export company.

While officials of the United States Steel corporation undertake to point out that no special invasion of foreign markets is intended, still preparations for special operations abroad must count for more than political expressions on the part of officials. With a falling off in domestic business, it is only reasonable that the corporation should seek enlarged markets abroad.

The assets of the company amount to $7,713,171. The capital stock consists of $3,003,000.

J. J. Sullivan, president of the company, says that gross earnings of the subsidiary companies were $1,245,208, an increase of $238,802 over 1902, or 23 per cent. While the growth of the property shows great improvement, the increase in the cost of coal, labor, and electrical equipment has been a factor in keeping down profits. The highest standard of efficiency has, however, he says, been maintained.

Pearsons-Taft Bonds.

The current issue of Parsons-Taft Land Credit company's bonds amounts to $1,000,000 and bears an interest rate of 4.80 per cent payable semi-annually. The bonds are redeemable at par and accrued interest after 1906 on thirty days' notice.

It can be said of Pearsons-Taft's issues that those listed on the Chicago stock exchange hold steady.

IN THE FOREIGN MONEY MARKET

LONDON, Sept. 21.—Money was in good demand in the market today and the supplies were fairly plentiful. Discounts were firm. On the stock exchange the tone was quiet, but steady. Consols were firmer. Americans reflected the weakness of the New York market with an uncertain tendency pending the receipt of the Wall street opening prices, when they weakened. After some intervening firmness they continued to decline, United States Steel corporation shares being the chief depressing influence. The market closed weak. There was a notable advance in the price of silver, due to buying for India account and to bear covering. The silver market was denuded of supplies, and the bears were sharply squeezed. PROPOSALS FOR COAL, BUILDING MATERIALS, &c. U. S. Indian School, Genoa, Nebraska, Sept. 3rd, 1903.—Sealed proposals, endorsed "Proposals for Coal, Lumber, &c.," and addressed to the undersigned at Genoa, Nebr., will be received at this school until two o'clock p. m. of September 24, 1903, for furnishing and delivering at the school, as may be required during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1904, about 1,200 tons of soft lump coal, 53,000 feet of lumber, 55,000 shingles, 20,000 brick, besides lime, sand, nails, painting supplies, sash, hardware, &c., as per list and specifications obtainable at the school. Bidders will state specifically the price of each article to be offered under contract, all articles so offered will be rigidly inspected. The right is reserved to reject any and all bids or any part of any bid. Each bid must be accompanied by a certified check or draft upon some United States depository or solvent national bank, made payable to the order of the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, for at least five per cent of the amount of the proposal, said check to be forfeited to the United States in case any bidder receiving an award shall fail to execute promptly a satisfactory contract in accordance with his bid, otherwise to be returned to the bidder. Bids accompanied by cash in lieu of certified check will not be considered. For further information apply to W. H. WINSLOW, Superintendent.

PROPOSALS FOR DRIED FRUIT FOR THE INDIAN SERVICE.—Department of the Interior, Office of Indian Affairs, Washington, D. C., Aug. 26, 1903.—Sealed proposals, indorsed "Proposal for Dried Fruit," and addressed to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, Washington, D. C., will be received at this office until two o'clock p. m. of Wednesday, Sept. 30, 1903, for furnishing 144,000 lbs. dried apples, 143,000 lbs. dried peaches, and 175,000 lbs. dried prunes (more or less) for the Indian service for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1904. Blank forms for bidding, giving the conditions (which will be made a part of the contract) to be observed by bidders, time and place of delivery, and all necessary instructions, will be furnished upon application to the Indian Office, Washington, D. C., the Indian Warehouses, 815 Howard-st., Omaha, Neb.; 265 South Canal-st., Chicago, Ill.; 602 South 7th st., St. Louis, Mo.; 23 Washington-st., San Francisco, Cal.; and 119 Wooster-st., New York City. Bids upon the blanks furnished are not, however, absolutely essential. They may be in other form, provided the proper conditions are observed. W. A. JONES, Commissioner.

STOCKS SELL OFF IN SPITE OF GOOD CHICAGO NEWS.

All Western Railroads Report Favorable Prospects for Larger Traffic, the Only Question Being Their Ability to Handle It—Steel Common Suffers Another Break and Preferred Is Hit by the Prevailing Depression—Foreign Struggle for Gold Still On.

[BY A SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—[Special.]—Business in the stock exchange developed no new characteristics today. The news was good, the tone dull to weak, and prices for the most part slipped away regardless of values.

Monday is the day upon which Chicago sends a weekly summary of the condition and outlook for railway business by leading officials. A better budget than today's could scarcely be desired. One and all testify to good conditions and better prospects for traffic in sight. The only question is regarding their ability to carry it. The general tone regarding crop damage is incredulous.

Prices here today slipped away under pressure apparently of necessitous sales, there being some talk of liquidation by one suspended firm which is having difficulty in resuming.

Steel, of course, held first place among the weak ones. Common broke from 17 to 16⅝, an unusual low record, but upon a late rally closed unchanged. Preferred 5s also were active, and closed at 74⅝, against an opening of 75. Atchison, St. Paul, and Union Pacific were among those which also closed unchanged for the same reason—the late strength having offset the early weakness of the industrial group which suffered with steel last week. American Car and Foundry and American Locomotive showed improvement. Pressed Steel Car, Railway Steel Spring, and Westinghouse Manufacturing showed continued weakness.

Brooklyn Rapid Transit was weak, but rallied. Metropolitan securities closed at the lowest, although only a fraction down. Neither of these changes, nor others needless to mention, seemed to have any specific significance, being simply translations of the general situation into terms and prices. When the situation changes prices may be expected to change, but cases are exceptional where individual fluctuations now signify anything regarding the worth of properties.

The tone of the exchange market resembled the course of the security market—early weakness, followed by late comparative strength. The Bank of England still is losing gold faster than it receives it. The price of gold is again rising, showing that the struggle for bullion is not yet over, although Berlin is showing prudence about pushing the Bank of England into an unnecessary advance of its rate. Domestic exchange is still against New York at Boston and southern cities, but continues in favor of New York in western cities.

A rumor in the street, lacking confirmation, is that the New York Central management is in the market for a large sum of money to enable it to carry on its proposed improvements and extensions.

Close: Prime mercantile paper, 6@6½ per cent; sterling exchange, steady at decline, with actual business in bankers' bills at 486.30@486.40 for demand and at 482.40@482.50 for 60 day bills; posted rates, 483 and 487; commercial bills, 482⅝; bar silver, 59c; Mexican dollars, 45⅝c; government bonds strong; railroad bonds irregular. Money on call easy at 2@2½ per cent; closing bid, 2 per cent; offered, 2¼ per cent. Time money, 60 days, 5 per cent; 90 days, 5½ per cent; six months, 6 per cent.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK MARKET.

Movement of Cattle, Hogs, Sheep, and Lambs, with the Range of Prices and Comparisons.

The week's trade in live stock opened on receipts of 25,000 cattle, 26,000 hogs, and 30,000 sheep. The cattle trade ruled dull for the bulk of offerings, but with a few choice fresh receipts showing a slight degree of strength. Hogs were strong and 5c to 10c higher. Sheep ruled steady to strong. Lambs opened steady, but closed 10c to 15c lower.

The Live Stock World's British cable quotes the London and Liverpool markets as follows:

LIVERPOOL.—American cattle ½c lower at this market, average cargoes making 12c, against 12½c last week and 15½c a year ago. States sheep averaging 12c, against 13c last week, and 11½@13½c a year ago.

Cattle.

The worst feature of the opening cattle market was the great quantity of stale stock held over from the demoralized market of last week. Fresh receipts of 25,000 included 4,500 western rangers and probably 1,500 Texans. The buyers showed a disposition to avoid the stale cattle and would not take them except at weak to lower prices than the bids of late last week. For the good, fat fresh offerings, however, they were willing to make slight concessions where the stock was of the right quality. The market was much of a drag during the first hours of the day, but during the latter half there was a big volume of business and supplies were fairly bought. This leaves a fair opening for the market on future days of the week. The market for western range cattle was extremely dull and the same was true of the Texan. The native butcher market was slow from start to finish, prices being steady to 10c lower. The trade of the day was generally on a basis of the following quotations:

Fancy steers	$5.60@6.00
Good to choice steers	5.25@5.50
Common to fair steers	3.80@4.50
Choice cows and heifers	3.75@4.60
Good to choice cows and heifers	3.00@3.50
Fair cows and heifers	2.75@3.00
Canners	1.75@2.25
Stags	3.75@4.75
Cutters	2.50@2.80
Good to choice bulls	3.75@4.50
Common to fair bologna bulls	2.75@3.40
Good to choice stockers and feeders	4.00@4.25
Medium stockers and feeders	3.25@3.75
Inferior stockers and feeders	2.50@3.00
Choice calves, 100@150 lbs	6.50@7.00
Common to choice calves, 175@400 lbs	3.00@5.50

Hogs.

The receipts of hogs were moderate for this season, and with a good eastern shipping demand the trade opened lively, prices ruling 5@10c higher than the late market of last week. At this advance the receipts were closely bought. Hogs of heavy weight showed the most advance. Prime heavy 400 lb fat backs sold at $6.10, the 300 lb averages of smooth quality at $6.20@6.35, and the bulk of the mixed and packing grades at $5.85@6.10. Fancy 200 lb butchers made $6.40, or 5c above the top price of last week. Quotations:

Good to choice, 240@400 lbs	$6.10@6.30
Common to good, 245@440 lbs	5.70@6.10
Good to prime, 190@235 lbs	6.15@6.40
Assorted light, 150@180 lbs	6.25@6.35
Mixed, 200@245 lbs	5.75@6.10
Light mixed, 200@245 lbs	5.80@6.15
Pigs	5.25@5.75

Sheep.

The market for sheep ruled active and strong on all grades, both feeders and killers. Lambs opened steady on a few strictly fat kinds, but as the day advanced it developed that the proportion of lambs was large, and the market weakened 10c to 15c on killers, but held steady throughout on the feeder grades. Quotations:

Good wethers	$3.25@4.25
Fair to good ewes	2.75@3.30
Good to choice lambs	5.50@6.00
Fair to good lambs	4.50@5.25
Common lambs	3.75@4.25
Good to choice bucks	2.00@2.50
Feeding sheep	3.00@3.60
Feeding lambs	4.20@4.60

NEWS OF THE INSURANCE WORLD.

SUIT TO TEST A LLOYDS POLICY.

International Salt Company Seeks to Recover from Tennant's Fire Underwriters.

Suit was begun yesterday by the International Salt company against each of the underwriters on Tennant's Chicago Fire Underwriters, a Lloyds which retired from business several months ago, for failure to pay one of its policies on the salt dock loss at South Chicago last April. The Lloyds paid one policy of $2,250, on which all the conditions were complied with, but refused to pay this on the ground that the warranty clause was broken. Its policies, like those of London Lloyds, provide that the insurance should be valid only in case a warranty company—in this instance the Phenix of Brooklyn—carried $5,000 on the risk. It was found after the fire that the Phenix had canceled a short time before. The underwriters on Tennant's Lloyds include some of the leading men on the board of trade, and they announce their willingness to carry the case to the highest court. Should the warranty clause be not sustained it would affect large amounts of insurance carried by London Lloyds, and foreign surplus line companies.

The Atlas Fire Underwriters of Chicago, with ten underwriters, has been organized by Henry Cohn & Co., who conduct the German American and Commercial Lloyds. Each underwriter puts up $500 in cash and $500 in secured notes. The maximum line will be $1,500, and the managers will begin binding today.

Joseph F. Magee will address the Fire Insurance club of Chicago tonight on "The Pacific Coast from an Underwriter's Standpoint."

The 25 per cent advance still applies in 437 towns in Western Union territory, owing to the fact that the new schedules have not yet been applied. In the last six months 756 towns have been rated, so that it should not take long to complete the work.

Four fires at Piqua, O., since February have cost nearly $300,000. The mains supplying the city are too small, and the fire pressure is unreliable. The rates have been penalized for fire protection deficiencies, and the board of public safety has asked permission to issue $40,000 in bonds to improve the service.

Insurance at Peoria Fire.

Peoria, Ill., Sept. 21.—[Special.]—The insurance on the H. V. Finkelstein & Co. storage house fire is placed as follows: Lumberman's Reliance, Prussian National, Ætna, Hartford, Queen American, $1,240 each.

HINTS FOR LOCAL AGENTS.

Suggestions for Reports to Be Made at National Convention to Meet at Hartford, Conn.

New York, Sept. 21.—[Special.]—President Thomas H. Geer of the National Association of Local Fire Insurance Agents, has issued a circular to presidents of state associations of local fire insurance agents which says: "The committee on program for the next national meeting at Hartford is arranging for papers and addresses on live topics, but upon the program the roll call of states and reports of state presidents constitute the most important part. Interest in these reports has increased at each recurring meeting. In order that these reports may be as comprehensive and beneficial as possible, the committee suggests the following topics:

First—Date of organization of your state association.

Fifth—Has there been any overhead writing by companies in your state? If so, by what companies? Give particulars and circumstances.

Sixth—Is the rule recommended by the national association with reference to payment of brokerage to outside brokers generally observed—viz.: brokerage to be paid to outside brokers on business located in agents' territory only when properly insured, owned, and controlled outside of said territory?

Seventh—Are there any companies that through the offices of the local agent observe the established rates, rules, and practices in some localities of your state and disregard them in others? If so, name the companies.

Eighth—Such violations, if any, being entirely responsible for demoralization, is the agent aided and abetted by his company? Naming the company or companies may sufficiently answer this question.

Ninth—If demoralization exists in any portion of your state, is the so-called preferred business responsible for it by encouraging the appointment of multiple side line agents to work for specially preferred business?

Tenth—Is your state anti-compact? Who make or advise rates? Does system rate making work satisfactorily?

Eleventh—Do eastern or western factory insurance associations (organized stock companies writing protected business) work in harmony with local agents in retaining or reclaiming sprinklered business from factory mutual companies?

Twelfth—Do factory stock association companies require the whole line to the exclusion of other stock companies desiring to write their usual lines on sprinklered risks through the usual local agency channels?

Thirteenth—Did your state legislature meet this year? If so, is it necessary to look after bad legislation?

Fourteenth—What laws now on your statute books are inimical to the fire insurance business, and will an effort be made to repeal these laws?

Fifteenth—Have you a fire marshal law? If so, is the work of preventing, detecting, and punishing incendiarism effectively done?

Sixteenth—What particular work has your association in hand to do or what should it undertake to do?

Seventeenth—Has the multiple agency evil, in your opinion, increased or decreased in your state during the last year?

Gotham Notes and Personals.

G. F. Martin & Son have been appointed Toronto agents of the Liverpool and London and Globe, in addition to Joseph B. Reed company. The business in Toronto is to be expanded.

Reginald T. Naish has been appointed general manager of the Equitable Life Assurance society of Great Britain and Ireland. Mr. Naish has been connected with the society for the last fourteen years, acting for it in various capacities in Manchester, north Ireland, and Scotland. For the last seven years he has been the branch manager for Scotland.

The report of the inspector of the national board of fire underwriters upon Williamsport, Pa., shows that the town is in bad shape from a fire protection standpoint. Disastrous fires are liable to occur in the extensive lumber district which borders the southwestern part of the city, along the river, for a distance of two miles in length and a quarter of a mile wide. This combustible section is a constant menace to the safety of the western and improved residential section of the city.

Agency Change at Toronto.

Toronto, Can., Sept. 21.—Manager Simpson of the Canadian department of the Royal surprised Toronto insurance circles by abruptly severing the connection of Messrs. Love & Hamilton with the local agency of the company in Toronto as members of the firm of Kay, Banks, Love & Hamilton. Messrs. Kay and Banks will remain with the company, and it is probable that others will enter the firm.

Loss of $30,000 at Sedalia, Mo.

Sedalia, Mo., Sept. 21.—[Special.]—A $30,000 fire occurred at the Missouri state fair grounds at 4 o'clock this afternoon. Three heavy frame horse barns, each 60x120 feet, and two beef cattle barns, each of the same dimensions, were burned. The loss on these is $20,000, with $5,000 insurance. In addition ten Missouri, Kansas and Texas freight cars, some of them partially loaded, were destroyed.

Test South Dakota Laws.

Pierre, S. D., Sept. 21.—A temporary restraining order issued by the United States court was served today on State Insurance Commissioner Perking on complaint of several fire insurance companies in a suit to test the state "anti-compact" insurance law. The order is returnable at Sioux Falls Oct. 8.

New Burglary Insurance.

Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 21.—[Special.]—Lawrence F. Smith, special representative of the burglary department of the United States Fidelity and Guaranty company, is in Indianapolis instructing the company's agents in the writing of burglary insurance.

PITTSBURG SELLS STEEL SHORT

Believed at the Smoky City That Common Shares Will Sell as Low as 15 Today.

Pittsburg, Pa., Sept. 21.—[Special.] — The Pittsburg stock exchange dealings were better supported at the closing tonight. The steel stocks were supported at the low prices, which is an indication that they will be supported on the New York exchange tomorrow. There seems to be some affinity between the two, as it has never failed that a strong or weak close here is reflected in New York the following day.

Pittsburgers have no doubt but that the dividend will be taken off the common stock. The idea has become so firmly rooted in the minds of speculators that a majority of them are carrying steel short.

Steel common is expected to reach 15, where it is believed it will halt. The cashier of one of the large banks here today said he believed the decline in Steel was manipulated by the steel corporation officials, as he was aware that the mills had been closed down even when the corporation was crowded with orders.

This is not correct, as all the independent mills are shy of orders, the steel corporation being better fixed than its competitors. There is not business enough to go round with the enormous output.

Local Steel holders are bewildered. They cannot understand why a security like United States Steel should be selling so low when railroad shares that are not dividend paying and probably will not be for many years to come are supported at much higher prices. Local brokers say that much of the trouble with the Steel issues is due to the bonding schemes. That the money for improvements should have been made from the common dividend.

CREDIT MEN TO BEGIN SEASON.

State's Attorney Deneen Will Address Financial Experts Tomorrow, After Banquet at Auditorium.

The Chicago Credit Men's association will begin its session tomorrow with a banquet in the Auditorium hotel at 6 o'clock. Speaking will begin at 8 o'clock, State's Attorney Deneen being first on the program. William C. Free, president of the Illinois Sewing Machine company, will speak on "Nerve and System." Edwin J. Noble, secretary of the National Reciprocity league, will talk of "Commercial Reciprocity."

Bass Fishing at Gogebic

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS.

SPECIAL SALE OF

SLIGHTLY USED PIANOS.

Opportunity to buy a Steinway, Knabe, or other well known piano at very small cost.

Here and there in our stock are pianos that are not quite of the latest model, or which have had some slight use, or have been taken in exchange. All these Steinways, Knabes, and other instruments have been placed one side and marked for immediate sale. We wish to avoid carrying even one of them over into next season's stock.

Steinway small upright, ebonized case, good as new. Steinway small upright, same as above, walnut case. Steinway medium size upright, mahogany case, rented short time. Steinway, same as above, in ebony case. Steinway cabinet grand upright, ebony case, in excellent condition. Steinway small upright, in good playing order. Knabe cabinet grand, mahogany case, used for concert purposes only. Knabe cabinet grand upright, very slightly shopworn. Knabe medium sized upright, mahogany case, rented but a short time, in every way good as new. Knabe cabinet grand, in perfect condition, and many others.

Also closing out sale of our entire stock of Mason & Hamlin pianos, as we desire to discontinue the agency owing to the assignment of the Mason & Hamlin Co. An opportunity to secure one of these magnificent highest grade instruments at a marked reduction.

We are also showing some attractive bargains in a car load of specimen uprights from good makers, bought up recently in New York by our eastern buyer. They are of intrinsically good musical value, and will be closed out at prices between $185 and $235.

Also a room full of new and slightly used uprights, your choice at $195, either cash or long time payments. Many of these pianos have been held at $300. Several leading makes are included. A number of very fine pianos from a musical standpoint will be found in the collection.

Visitors are always cordially welcome to our salesrooms; 24 great makes of pianos are shown side by side. New fall styles now on exhibition. From 8 a. m. until 6 p. m. groups of piano customers will always be found upon our piano floors, but we have such ample facilities and such a large corps of salesmen that we can sell twenty different instruments simultaneously without the least delay.

EASY PAYMENTS—Pianos may be secured from us on very easy terms. No advance in price when paid for by installments. Pianos of all descriptions included in this offer.

Buyers at a distance should write for special bargain list and also our schedule of freight rates on pianos.

We ship pianos everywhere.

Inexpensive pianos bought from us may be exchanged later toward the purchase of a Steinway or Knabe.

REMARKABLE SEPTEMBER

Substantial Price Reduction on Product of Home Factory—Will Last But Few Days More—Public Interest Amounts to Enthusiasm.

This is a remarkable September for piano buyers. Everybody likes the opportunity of dealing directly with the most extensive and famous piano producers in the world, especially during the annual mark down sale, when the instruments show a substantial reduction in prices. This reduction is now made at THE WAREROOMS OF W. W. KIMBALL CO., the only house maintaining a system of fixed prices on its goods.

The KIMBALL is also the piano made famous through its use by hundreds of the world's musical masters of today. Very many Chicago households in the last two weeks have realized the object of their fondest hopes—but as the sale continues only a few days more, prompt attention is desirable.

Those who have in mind the purchase of an instrument within at least twelve months should come while the variety is complete.

AMOUNTING TO NEARLY ONE-HALF,
are made upon various instruments of standard make, such as "Hallet & Davis," "Chickering," "Weber," "Steinway," "Bauer," and many others, which, although having had some use, are still in prime condition.

KIMBALL PIANO PLAYERS
MANUFACTURERS' PRICES.

They have fingers that work like those of the professional, giving to any one, upon any piano and without instruction, practically unlimited command of the keyboard. For this month prices on some slightly used players
REDUCED ABOUT ONE-HALF,

Kimball Pipe Organs, $1,000 and Upward.

WE RENT BRAND NEW PIANOS.

Your choice of several styles at $3.50 a month up.

AT THE VOSE STORE YOU CAN RENT ANY new piano you see. You get the first use of the instrument. You pay the same rent that elsewhere would secure only a second hand piano.

YOU CAN BUY ANY PIANO YOU RENT AT the Vose Store and have all the rental paid the first year applied on the purchase price. The payment of the balance will be arranged as you may wish.

THIS WEEK YOU CAN BUY A HANDSOME upright piano, made by a prominent New York manufacturer to sell at $300, for only $230. Terms to suit yourself. Examine and then compare this piano with instruments offered elsewhere and you will be absolutely convinced of the marvelous saving you can effect by trading at the Vose Store.

IN SECOND HAND PIANOS (THOSE REturned from rental and received in exchange for Vose pianos) we offer some splendid values this week in both squares and uprights. Too many to list—come in and see them personally. You can buy at right prices and on your own terms.

A NUMBER OF SECOND HAND PARLOR ORgans are placed on sale this week at $5 and $10 each; simply enough to place them in good playing order and pay drayage. They will go quickly.

AT THE VOSE STORE YOU WILL ALWAYS find a cordial welcome; a willingness to show pianos, whether you are ready to buy or not.

GILDEA EXPLAINS WHY DIRT REIGNS

Latest Health Troubles May Delay the Reappointment of Reynolds.

Did it ever occur to you—between pulling your foot out o fa garbage heap in the lower corridor and leaving your autograph in the dust on the mayor's desk—did it ever occur to you why the city hall is dirty?

It probably has and you have probably emerged from the dank pile blaming the poor janitors and janitresses, muttering maledictions against the custodian in chief, and entertaining a generally pessimistic attitude toward the party in power. Therefore, let contrition strike deep into your heart when you hear the true explanation, revealed yesterday by former Chief Janitor Gildea, who is on trial for his official life before the civil service commission.

Mr. Gildea met every complaint of inefficiency preferred against him by Commissioner Blocki with explanations involving a technical knowledge of the science of caretaking.

Gildea Rises to Explain.

"Now, I shall explain why the city hall is dirty," Mr. Gildea said, and he rose and went to the Washington street window. "At every window the wood and the stone have gradually parted until there is a gap of from one-eighth to three-eighths of an inch. In winter the cold air rushes in and in summer dust and dirt enter. I have importuned Mr. Blocki and Mr. McGann before him, to let me caulk the windows up, but no.

"Besides, the building has been kept reasonably warm. Mr. McGann used to say when there were complaints that 'those girls with paper waists ought to put on more clothes if they are cold.'

"The carpenter was careful to keep the mayor's chair in good condition, and it is base calumny to say he was not. We were all careful of the mayor. I used to serve 900 pounds of ice a day to the city hall. Now I serve 600 pounds, with no complaint, and yet I am incompetent.

"The halls and corridors of the city hall have not been calcimined in ten years," Gildea went on. "I have never felt satisfied with the work I was able to do in this building. You can't write your name in the dust on the city hall walls. The reason is that the dirt is encased there. It can't be taken off except by washing."

Gildea will resume the stand this afternoon.

Agrees to Detective Shakeup.

Mayor Harrison yesterday gave his consent to the proposed shakeup in the "front office" detective bureau growing out of Chief O'Neill's dissatisfaction with the work of the police on the car barn murder mystery. Lieut. Rohan it is expected will be retained in virtual command, but the transfer of several detective sergeants to outlying stations is looked for this week.

At a two hour conference between the mayor and Chief O'Neill the whole situation was canvassed in detail. The chief related the story of the car barn murder and the fruitless efforts of the detectives to land any tangible clews.

"Well, you have my permission to take any corrective measures you believe good for the service," said the mayor.

Chief O'Neill refused to discuss his plans for the shakeup, saying he would take the matter under advisement for several days. He, however, declared that he was not considering the name of Capt. John Haines for head of the office.

The story that Inspector Campbell of the north side is in danger of transfer as a result of political machinations aiming to give the post to Capt. Rehm was denied by the mayor.

More Trouble for Dr. Reynolds.

It is reported in the city hall that the mayor is still dissatisfied with the conditions in the health department, against which the civil service commission made a report last spring. He intimated at that time that Dr. Reynolds should make changes if the work is not done. In consequence of the recent charges against the sanitary inspectors, it is said that the mayor will hold up Dr. Reynolds' reappointment pending developments. There is an expectation that when the detective bureau is shaken up the sanitary inspection bureau, next door, will share in the concussion.

The health commissioner was at his desk yesterday for the first time in several days. Almost the first matter to engage his attention was the new charges of neglect of duty brought by the Citizens' association.

"I have called on the accused inspectors to submit answers to these charges," said Dr. Reynolds. "If it shall appear that the men have neglected their duty or cannot satisfactorily explain the acts for which they are criticised, then of course there will be a rigid investigation."

Chief Sanitary Inspector Young has not returned from his vacation, and Acting Chief Dillon said that he was unprepared to answer the charges that 700 buildings had been erected without plumbing inspection.

Corporation Counsel Tolman sent to Commissioner of Public Works Blocki a detailed opinion setting forth the illegality of authorizing the Union Traction company to install the overhead trolley in Lincoln avenue between Fullerton and Wrightwood avenues as a substitute for the cable.

BARRED FROM PAYING DEBTS.

Work Bros. company will be restrained from paying any debts incurred by Andrew S. Work and Charles L. Shattuck as former partners in Work Bros. & Co. Bankruptcy Referee Eastman made this decision yesterday. He held that even though the corporation is an outside party he had a right to issue an order to preserve the assets of the corporation in which Work and Shattuck have a large interest. This should be done, he said, so that no creditor of the former partnership should be preferred over another.

MUST PAY OR GO TO PRISON.

Pastor of Sheffield Avenue Methodist Episcopal Church Ordered to Settle Account of $30.

"You must pay the bill or go to jail," said Judge Cutting yesterday to the Rev. Richard A. Morley, pastor of the Sheffield Avenue Methodist Episcopal church. The Probate court gives Mr. Morley ten days in which to pay $30 to the First National bank of Morrison, Ill. Mr. Morley was executor of the estate of his wife. He disposed of the assets and considered the estate closed. The bank failed to secure payment for a note in its possession.

DOG ATTACKS LITTLE GIRL.

Anna Gans, 8 Years Old, Twice Bitten by Supposed Rabid Scotch Collie in Evanston.

Anna Gans, 8 years old, daughter of Nicholas Gans, a cement sidewalk contractor, living at 1515 Warren avenue, Evanston, was bitten by a Scotch collie dog yesterday morning. The dog, believed to have been suffering from rabies, snapped at the girl several times. She was bitten twice on the right hip. The dog was killed by a policeman. The child's injury is believed not to be dangerous, provided blood poisoning does not develop.

ST. LOUIS' FIGHT ON CANAL TRANSFERRED TO CHICAGO.

United States Commissioner Bright Begins Hearing, Which Will Continue a Month—Defense Witnesses Heard.

The fight of the state of Missouri against the drainage canal was transferred to Chicago yesterday, after having been fought out in a number of cities. In room 869, the Rookery, United States Commissioner Frank S. Bright of Washington, D. C., began the investigation which is to continue in this city for a month or more. Many witnesses will be called by the defense to show that the Mississippi river water is not polluted by the drainage canal.

Attorney General Hamlin was present for the state of Illinois, and Attorneys James Todd and W. S. Springer for the sanitary district. Samuel B. Jeffries of Jefferson City, Mo., assistant attorney general of Missouri, and W. F. Woerner, assistant city counsel of St. Louis, were on hand for the complainant.

Most of the testimony was given by residents of towns along the Illinois river, who had taken samples of water under special directions from the Illinois, and drainage canal officials.

Railways Fight Condemnation.—Arguments on a motion to dismiss the petition filed by the sanitary district to condemn land lying along the west bank of the river, between Madison and Van Buren streets, were heard by Judge Smith yesterday. The land includes property near the Union depot and the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne and Chicago railroad company and the Pennsylvania railroad company are made the principal defendants. The defendants declare that if they are compelled to vacate the land they will be deprived of a freight terminal in Chicago valued at $11,000,000. It is contended that it is not necessary to condemn the land involved in this suit, as the district can get property on the east bank of the river that will serve the same purpose. The strip of land sought to be condemned contains about 60,000 square feet, and an offer has been made by the sanitary district to purchase it for $300,000. It is charged that about 25,000 square feet of this land has been encroached on by the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne and Chicago railroad company.

Ask Better Drainage.—A delegation of citizens, headed by Ald. Carey, Butterworth, and Wendling, appeared before the drainage board in the afternoon, and requested its cooperation in the construction of a sewer system to drain the territory bounded by Leavitt street, Central Park avenue, the drainage canal, and Eighty-seventh street.

SCORES A POINT ON JUSTICE.

More evidence was heard yesterday by Justice James Martin in the case of the Standard Blue Flame Oil Gas company against Justice A. C. Strayer of Glen View, Charles J. Kramer, manager of the Wilson Collecting agency, and Harry C. Hornish.

The Standard company claimed that its credit has been injured by an action brought against it in Justice Strayer's court for the recovery of $219 on three notes before they were due. The notes were payable to Mrs. M. L. Bates, 490 West Adams street, for rent.

The attorney for the defendants undertook to prove that it was not an act of conspiracy to sue for the recovery of notes before they were due when the financial status of the payee was involved, but Justice Martin held that the financial standing of the Blue Flame Oil Gas company did not enter into the controversy.

S. M. Hunter of the company testified that Mrs. Bates was not satisfied when she was offered the notes. Mrs. Bates admitted this in her testimony. Mr. Hunter claimed that Hornish was actuated by personal motives in his efforts to injure the credit of the company, with which he formerly was connected. The case will be resumed tomorrow.

FIX UP TREASURER'S OFFICE.

The county treasurer's office is to be almost entirely reconstructed and the county board yesterday voted $12,000 for making the improvements. The contract was awarded to the Northwestern Construction company. The improvements include the erection of a gallery, practically an additional floor, with 5,000 square feet of space. All departments of the treasurer's office not coming in direct contact with the public will occupy space in the gallery with the treasurer and his immediate assistants.

COURTS OPEN WITH NEW RULES

Reduction in Number of Jurymen in Two Branches Expected to Make Daily Saving of $96.

Circuit and Superior courts were opened yesterday under new rules, which are expected to save Cook county $96 a day, by reducing the number of jurymen. Fourteen judges were on the bench.

Many lawyers were unable to tell whether their clients were dead or alive, when cases pending for ten years or more were called for trial. Most of these were dismissed.

Judge Mack sat for more than an hour hearing excuses and striking cases from the docket.

Still Less than Last Year's Total, but Difference Is More than Made Up by the Merchandise Business from the Seaboard—Roads, Particularly in the Southwest, Fear a Car Shortage—Important Improvements on the Wisconsin Central.

East bound shipments from Chicago last week showed considerable improvement over the week previous. While there was a decrease in flour there was a good increase in grain and provision shipments. Business, however, is still far below what it was at this time a year ago. Merchandise and miscellaneous business west bound from the seaboard is more than making up for the loss in east bound traffic, and consequently most of the eastern roads are making larger earnings than they did a year ago.

The Vanderbilt lines are said to be getting a much larger share of the business than any of the other lines. The earnings of the Vanderbilt lines during the last month were the best in their history. Following is a statement of east bound shipments of flour, grain, and provisions by the all rail lines from Chicago last week:

Western roads are doing a good grain business and their merchandise business is said to be fully equal to last year's. They are greatly concerned about cars, as they expect an enormous traffic during the fall and winter months. Already the roads in the southwest, where wheat is moving freely, are being hard pressed to find all the equipment necessary to supply the demand. The Rock Island, Santa Fé, and Frisco are clamoring for cars, although these roads have made unusually large additions to their equipment during the last year.

New Mileage Ticket Problem.

The committee appointed to make rules and regulations for the conduct of the interchangeable mileage ticket business, when the proposed new form of ticket, good on trains, is made effective, made its report yesterday. The announcement is made that the new ticket will become effective on Nov. 1. The roads which it is said will adopt the new mileage ticket are the Chicago and Northwestern, Milwaukee and St. Paul, Chicago and Alton, Burlington, Chicago Great Western, Omaha Line, Great Northern, Northern Pacific, Illinois Central, Iowa Central, Minneapolis and St. Louis, Wisconsin Central, and Quincy, Omaha and Kansas City. These roads, it is claimed, sold last year about 75 per cent of the interchangeable mileage tickets in the west and northwest.

The roads which decline to adopt the new form of ticket and will continue to use the interchangeable credential ticket are the Rock Island-Frisco system, Santa Fé, Missouri Pacific, Missouri, Kansas and Texas, and Wabash.

It is certain that if the new ticket is put on it will lead to a serious passenger rate war. The feeling among the roads over the matter is unusually bitter, and open reductions in mileage and regular rates are almost certain to follow.

Improvements on Wisconsin Central.

Important improvements are planned by the Wisconsin Central. Grades are to be reduced and curves straightened. Important reductions in the Chicago-St. Paul mileage of the road are planned also. The most important feature of the improvement will be the construction of a cutoff between Spencer and Boyd in central Wisconsin, by which a saving of forty miles in the through haul will be effected. The new line will pass through comparatively level country, where the cost of construction will be moderate. A large amount of betterment work is to be undertaken east of Chippewa Falls by means of which the present line will be straightened and a saving in mileage made. The improvements will cover nearly fifty miles of main line.

The report that the Wisconsin Central contemplates the establishment of a new suburban service from Chicago is declared to be without foundation by its officers. There are no suburban points on the line of the Wisconsin Central near Chicago that warrant the establishment of such a service.
